Lost Or Stolen: One Republican Anti-Inflation Bill

Disappearance At White House Delays Signing

Truman May Okay Duplicate Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The GOP anti - inflation bill was lost, strayed or stolen at the White House today and while Secret Service agents sought to crack the mystery an Army plane was pressed into service to get the signature of Speaker Martin on a substitute copy.

A frantic, all-day search of the executive mansion failed to reveal a trace of the document, last seen yesterday on the desk of Clark M. Clifford, the President's special counsel.

While the hunt went on, President Truman waited to sign the measure, though he had branded it "pitifully inadequate" to curb soaring living costs.

Then in late afternoon, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross had to announce to newsmen that the document had seemingly vanished into thin air.

He said that a duplicate copy had been prepared and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), presiding officer of the Senate, had signed it. But the signature of Speaker Martin was also necessary and he was in North Attleboro, Mass.

Substitute Gets Plane Ride

So George Elsey, assistant to Clifford, was assigned to speed in an Army plane to North Attleboro. He was expected to get the substitute back to the White House by morrow morning. The President must affix his signature by Wednesday midnight or the measure dies.

Much of the government marked time while the White House was being ransacked for the document. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, due to clamp a ceiling on grain usage by distillers as soon as the bill became law, announced no action would be taken tonight.

At the Commerce Department, officials working on a new voluntary allocation plan for steel, fertilizer and other scarce commodities, waited for the official go-ahead before completing plans to call the industries into meetings here. Such voluntary allocations are authorized by the bill.

And in Kansas City, Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), co-sponsor of the measure and a Republican aspirant to succeed Mr. Truman in the White House fired a return broadside in retaliation for Mr. Truman's denunciation of the bill last night.

Police-State Powers Not Needed

The administration "does not need the police-state powers which the President demands," Taft told a Republican mass meeting. He asserted that the government now has power "to stop the increase in prices if it really wants to stop it."

The day-long delay at the executive mansion went unexplained until about 5:30 p. m. (E.S.T.). Then Ross called reporters in and told them:

"The anti-inflation bill has not been signed. The bill was to have been signed this morning. It was mislaid. It is something of a White House mystery."

Greek Rebel Troops Again Besiege City

Guerrilla Setback Is Only Temporary

ATHENS, Dec. 29 (AP) — Fresh guerrilla battalions fought their way into the outskirts of Konitsa tonight and re-established their siege, government sources said, after Greek army troops had broken open the rebel lines just long enough to rush a brigade of reinforcements into the battered city.

That brigade and the tired outnumbered Konitsa garrison were fighting to beat off desperate guerrillia efforts to seize the city for a capital of the newly-proclaimed rebel Greek Communist state.

The Communist-led guerrillas reportedly were receiving a steady stream of reinforcements from nearby Albania.

A Greek general staff spokesman said the guerrillas now numbered more than 29,000 men of whom some 15,000 were deployed in Northwestern Greece. His figure on the total rebel strength was 11,000 higher than previous estimates.

Highway Again Blocked

In reforming their siege lines the rebels again blocked the Ioannina-Konitsa highway five miles north of Kalpaki. This area was the scene of bitter hand-to-hand fighting when the Greek army brigade cut its way through.

Then the critical sector shifted to the front immediately around Konitsa. Reckless rebel forces stormed Prophet Elias Hill just outside the city but were hurled back leaving 38 bodies strewn on the rocky snow-covered slopes. This attack was the latest of a series of guerrilla assaults which began Christmas Day.

Rocket firing Spitfires of the Greek air force strafed guerrilla positions. Both sides were said to be suffering heavy losses in the fighting raging along the vital Ioannina-Konitsa road, which still had not been completely cleared by army forces.

The Guerrillas were described as maintaining their grip on the heights of Elaphrotopos, Vassilikon and Kalyvia which dominate the highway.

Rebels Rush Reinforcements

Press dispatches said rebel reinforcements were being rushed to those areas and also to positions near Kourtinitsa and Eleftheron northeast of Konitsa.

Captured guerrillas said their chieftain, Gen. Markos Vafiades, was directing rebel operations before Konitsa where the insurgents apparently had intended to establish the seat of their newly-proclaimed independent Greek Communist government.

Prisoners said the Communist leaders of the guerrilla force were attempting to bolster the morale of their men by telling them that air support and more artillery were coming to their lines from outside Greece.

USSR Makes Reparations From Germany Available

PARIS, Dec. 29. (AP)—The French Foreign Ministry said today Soviet occupation authorities in Germany had made available for the first time almost 60,000 tons of wheat, wood and motor fuel in reparations from Eastern Germany.

The reparations were allotted to 10 countries at the 14th session of the assembly of the inter-Allied reparations agency, the announcement said. The countries were the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Greece, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Egypt and India.

Greece Charges Yugoslavia With "Warmongering"

Says U.N. Assembly Measure Violated

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 29—(AP)—Greece formally charged Yugoslavia today with violating the "anti-warmonger" resolution adopted by the United Nations Assembly at its recent session.

This was the first time a member of the United Nations had invoked the measure, which was adopted unanimously after Russia had given up her efforts to push through a resolution charging the United States, Greece and Turkey with "warmongering."

Greece also charged Yugoslavia with violating the Assembly's Balkan resolution which forbids Greece's northern neighbors from giving aid to Greek guerrillas.

While the Greek note did not call for any specific United Nations action at this time, it was reliably reported that the Athens government is considering further steps.

The United Nations already has received a report from the commission that the Greek government has informed it of the formation of a guerrilla government in Northern Greece by Gen. Markos Vafiades. The commission said the matter is being considered by a subcommittee.

Today's note charged that the Belgrade radio had broadcast reports on the formation of the guerrilla government and had broadcast attacks on the Athens government by Greek Communist leaders. These broadcasts, the note said, constituted violations of the two Assembly resolutions.

Greek leaders were reported reluctant to bring a new complaint before the Security Council for fear of further Soviet vetoes. The Balkan problem was taken to the General Assembly last fall by the United States after repeated Soviet vetoes had blocked action in the council.

Helicopter Loses Rotor; Three Navy Fliers Die

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 29 (AP) — Three United States Navy men were killed today when their helicopter lost its rotor while flying over the docks of Naples and plunged into a pile of scrap iron.

The helicopter fell from a height of approximately 3,000 feet shortly after it had taken off from the carrier Midway.

Two of the men were listed as Naval Officers Robert Lamm and Jack Jeter. Their addresses and the name of the third victim were not available. Wreckage of the craft was taken aboard the Midway for study.

Would Exempt Textbooks From State Sales Tax

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Greyhound, undergraduate publication of Loyola College, today proposed a drive to eliminate sales taxes on textbooks sold in Maryland high school and college book stores.

In an editorial, the organ asked for student views on the matter and said that if the response were favoring exemption, steps would be taken to seek amendment of the tax law.

The State Comptroller's office meantime, said its only comment could be a reminder that under present law such textbook sales were liable for taxation.

Six Survivors Of B-29 Alaska Crash Rescued

Lt. Sheetz, Keyser, Is Still Missing

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 29 (AP)—Six fliers who survived the crash of their B-29 bomber last Tuesday 95 miles north of Nome were rescued this afternoon by two veteran Alaska bush pilots, but two other crewmen of the wrecked Superfortress and three parachutists still are missing.

The daring rescue operation was performed by Frank H. Whaley, of the Wien Alaska Airline and William Munz of the Munz Airline, both of Nome.

Flying in 40-below zero weather they set their small, single-engine planes down in a hazardous landing on the crest of a hill close to the crumpled bomber, the "Clobbered Turkey."

Quickly they loaded the six weak but happy airmen into their tiny, ski-equipped craft, risked disaster in a dangerous takeoff down the snowy slope and returned to Nome without mishap on their mercy flight.

Their aid was enlisted by the Air Forces after military rescue operations Saturday night and Sunday met with misfortune.

Lt. Sheetz Still Missing

Both have offered their assistance in attempting to find the five still missing.

Believed lost somewhere between the crash scene and the Seward Peninsula Eskimo Village of Shishmaref are the pilot and navigator of the ill-starred "Clobbered Turkey," Lt. Vern H. Arnett and Lt. Frederick I. Sheetz.

After huddling for two days with their crew in the bitter cold the two set out on foot in an attempt to reach the village and return with aid. Nothing has been heard from them since.

The other three men of whom no trace has been found are an Air Forces doctor from Ladd Field, Fairbanks, and two paratroopers who dropped near the site of the wreck Saturday night to give aid to the survivors. They are believed to have become lost in the heavy

14 Hurt, 60 Escape In Bus Accidents

VERO BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) —Fourteen persons were injured and 60 or more escaped as two Miami-bound buses were involved in separate accidents near here, one ramming a truck and the other bursting into flames at a railroad crossing.

A fully-loaded bus, en route from Jacksonville to Miami, struck a dump truck which Police Chief J. Y. Copeland sair was parked on United States Highway No. 1 without lights.

Seriously injured in the crash was Helen Morgan, Memphis, Tenn., with both legs broken, pelvis fractured and internal injuries.

Arab Fighters Cross Border Into Palestine

Attack Is Launched By Jew Underground

JERUSALEM Dec. 29 (AP) — The "no man's land" between Tel Aviv and Jaffa broke out into a new fury of gunfire and bombing tonight as armed and trained volunteers from neighboring Arab countries were reported already crossing into turbulent Palestine.

The Arab reinforcements were reported as Jewish underground fighters killed 12 Arabs at historic Damascus Gate in Jerusalem in the largest mass slaying in Palestine since the United Nations voted for partition a month ago.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, extremist Jewish underground group, said it launched the attack, in which two British constables and one Jew were also killed. Irgun made a similar attack at the massive stone gate two weeks ago, when 10 Arabs were killed.

Holy Land Death Toll 429

Two more Jews were killed—one a woman—in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa battle zone. The day's fatalities mounted to 23, and included a British soldier, one Jew and four Arabs—two of them boys whose newly-found mortar exploded. Arab sources said their dead at the gate included a boy and two school girls.

The toll for Palestine mounted to 429 and for the entire Middle East to 550 since the United Nations decision on November 29 to partition the Holy Land.

Jewish sources said Arabs in tonight's Tel Aviv-Jaffa battle were reinforced by riflemen from an Arab concentration point at Nablus. The Jewish fighters fired from boats on Arab coffeehouses in Jaffa suspected as meeting places for Arabs from Nablus.

A report from Damascus told of the arrival of more volunteer fighters to bolster Arabs in Palestine, and Prince Faour, of the Fadi tribe, said his men had crossed the border into Palestine and were already in the fighting.

Late into the night under a harvest moon, tracer bullets arched in sporadic firing over the historic old city of Jerusalem, whose Damascus Gate bombing caused 15 deaths and injured almost 40 persons.

Government Has Power To Check Prices, Taft Says

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, declared tonight that the federal government "does not need the police - state powers which the President "demands" to check inflation.

"It can stop the increase in prices if it really wants to stop it," he said in an address delivered before a mass meeting of Republicans on his two-day swing into the home state of President Truman.

"The Republican approach," the presidential aspirant said, "is to solve this inflation crisis by getting at the causes, by pursuing sound policies in the ordinary conduct of government, by spending less and taxing less and preventing inflation. The Democrats want more power to impose arbitrary controls which won't work."

He declared that when Congress returns to Washington "we face a demand from the President for the greatest possible peacetime control over economic freedom which this country has ever faced," but added that Republicans believe it is not power that the government lacks, but the ability to furnish leadership."

"The New Deal remedy, backed by the Political Action Committee and therefore by the President, is to solve every problem by creating a federal bureau, and give it more and more money," he continued. "If anything goes wrong, pass a new law! This has always been the policy of the New Dealer."

The great issue in the election next November, he said, is whether the American people desire to set up a "totalitarian government, a state which will direct every detail in the lives of its citizens."

Two Men Are Sentenced In Arizona For Robbery

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., Dec. 29 (AP)—Superior Court Judge J. Smith Gibbons today sentenced Charles R. Maley, 24, Springfield, O., and Edward Elsbury, 21, Marianna, Pa., to 15 to 20 years imprisonment for robbery.

Maley and Elsbury pleaded guilty to a charge of holding up a service station operator near Sanders, Ariz. They had escaped December 1 from a federal medical center at Springfield, Mo.

HAT'S IN RING—Henry Wallace (above), former Vice President and erstwhile Cabinet member, announced last night he would be an independent candidate for President.

Taylor Considers Joining Wallace As Running Mate

Idaho Senator Says "Feeler" Received

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D- Idaho) said tonight he is "giving consideration" to the possibility of running for Vice President on an independent ticket headed by Henry A. Wallace.

Glen H. Taylor (D) Idaho

Meanwhile, Wallace's announcement in Chicago of his third party candidacy for President brought the expected reaction in this political capital, with Democrats publicly discounting its effect and Republicans welcoming a development many thought will help their chances of taking over the White House in next November's election.

While the Idaho Senator said he "doesn't expect" to join Wallace, he added that he does not intend to reject the possibility "at least until they select somebody else."

"I have been tentatively approached and I am giving the matter consideration," he said.

Wallace "Courageous Man

Calling Wallace "a very courageous man," Taylor told reporters that the former Vice President will be "called a Russian sympathizer and a fifth columnist but he certainly is fighting the good fight."

"Our present foreign policy is just plain stupid," he declared. "The Panamanian incident was the latest example of how stupid it is. It's an overgrown fully foreign policy.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said that while he expects Wallace's entry to influence the Republicans' choice of a presidential nominee, he doesn't believe the former Cabinet member's strength will be such as to affect the outcome in even such critical states as New York and California.

"I think President Truman will carry both New York and California, no matter who the Republican nominee is," Johnson told a newsmen. "But the Republicans are likely to think that his entry will give them New York and that deals a political death blow to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

Knowland Differs With Johnson

Differing sharply with Johnson on this point, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said Wallace's race "will have a considerable adverse ef-

Says Both GOP, Demos Follow Course To War

Declares New Party Can Defeat Menace

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Henry Wallace tonight announced he would be an independent candidate for President on a platform advocating "peace and prosperity."

The former Vice President and erstwhile Cabinet member, in an address prepared for broadcast over the Mutual network, struck out at both major parties with the declaration:

"There is no real fight between a Truman and a Republican. Both stand for a policy which opens the door to war in our lifetime, and makes war certain for our children."

Maintaining that the menace to peace was greater than ever before, the man who left the Republican ranks and now has bolted the Democrats as well, told his audience:

"That menace can be met and overcome only by a new political alignment in America which requires the organization of a new political party. To that end I announce tonight that I shall run as an independent candidate for President of the United States in 1948."

At a news conference following the broadcast, Wallace said he would withdraw from the presidential picture "should either of the major parties become definitely a peace party before the election."

He also said that the new party, as yet without name "would support progressive Democratic candidates for Congress. He declined comment when asked if his announcement would hurt chances of the Democratic Party in 1948.

"Thousands" Support Him

He said "thousands of people" had asked him to "engage in this great fight." Suggestions that he enter the race had come from the Progressive Citizens of America and the new Progressive Party of Chicago. A spokesman for the new candidate told reporters that a similar request was put before Wallace this afternoon by persons from 18 states and the District of Columbia.

The decision to run cast Wallace in a new role at the age of 59. He served as Secretary of Agriculture in two Roosevelt terms, put in four years as Vice President and served for a shorter period as Secretary of Commerce.

He resigned from the latter post, at President Truman's request, after

Wallace Resigns Post As Editor Of New Republic

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The New Republic announced tonight that Henry A. Wallace had resigned as editor of the magazine.

Wallace will become a contributing editor of the publication and will write a weekly page for the publication, the New Republic said.

Wallace's resignation followed by a day that of William Harlan Hale, the magazine's editor in charge of articles, and came amid reports of dissension on the staff over plans to continue carrying the former Cabinet member's articles if he announced his presidential candidacy.

HERE'S WHAT WALLACE MUST DO TO GET NAME ON MARYLAND BALLOT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 29—(AP)—To get his name on the Maryland ballot in next year's presidential election, Henry Wallace must:

1—File a petition with the Secretary of State here containing the signatures of at least 2,000 registered Maryland voters who must signify they will cast their ballot for him, and

2—Pay a $270 filing fee.

If the petition is not filed "write in" ballots must be cast for him at the polls.

Truman Physician, Utah Governor On Third List Of Speculators In Grain

Gen. Graham Will Retain White House Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — The names of President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, and Utah's Governor, Herbert B. Maw, appeared today on on Agriculture Department listing of 99 public employes who speculated in grain last September.

Graham issued a statement saying that on October 7 he learned from his broker that he had "a small holding" in an account the broker was handling, and that he forthwith instructed that it be sold.

He inquired about his account, he said, "because of all the public discussion of grain trading" then current. This discussion included an October 5 food conservation appeal in which President Truman said Charles G. Ross told reporters: Dr. Graham will continue as White House physician."

This was in reply to a direct question by a reporter who told Ross that Mr. Truman has condemned trading in commodity markets.

Ross was asked whether Graham had ever discussed his former grain holding with the President. Ross said that shortly after noon December 18, Graham was in the President's office and had told him of his former holdings.

This was a few hours before Mr. Truman announced he was ready to sign a congressional resolution authorizing Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to make public a list of commidity traders.

The President said, Ross continued, that he had known then that Graham's name would be list-

New York City Is Warned To Expect Another Inch Or Two Of Snow Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—New York City, still laboring to free itself from Friday's paralyzing 25.8-inch snowfall, was warned tonight to expect another inch or two of snow tomorrow.

The forecast held a possibility that a crust of ice may be laid on the snow, still banked high in streets in which an estimated 10,000 vehicles remained stalled.

Benjamin Parry, the Weather Bureau's chief forecaster here, predicted snow "possibly changing to rain" for tomorrow afternoon, with temperatures to drop tomorrow night and be "much colder" by Wednesday morning. High winds are expected.

While taxis and buses appeared in numbers today on the streets of the metropolis for the first time since Friday, the transportation problem was still far from normal. The Long Island Railroad, commuter line for thousands who work in Manhattan, was forced to curtail service.

Subways, with an increased schedule of trains to compensate for the still curtailed surface transportation, operated almost on schedule.

Tomorrow's snow, Parry said, may envelop almost the same territory, reaching from New England to Washington, D. C., which was stuck Friday leaving a death toll of at least 77.

New York City so far had escaped any major fires.

The force mobilized to remove the snow had grown tonight to 30,083 workers and 2,586 pieces of equipment. The Sanitation Department's regular force numbers 7,021.

Third Parties Have Swung Elections But Have Been Notably Unsuccessful

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Third parties in American politics have, on occasion, swung presidential elections but they have been notably unsuccessful in electing their own candidates.

In 1844, James G. Birney, an anit-slavery Kentuckian, ran as a Liberty Party candidate and polled enough votes so that Henry Clay, Whig, lost New York State to James K. Polk, Democrat. This gave Polk the presidency.

A Democratic split in 1860 has been credited with the election of Abraham Lincoln. Regular Democrats nominated Stephen A. Douglas but a Southern pro-slavery group split off and named John Breckinridge, of Kentucky. Together they polled more votes than the Republican Lincoln.

Again in 1884 a split—this time Republican—caused an overturn. A dissident group of Republicans—the Mugwumps—worked for Grover Cleveland, Democrat. While their actual strength has been in dispute all these years, Cleveland beat James G. Blaine in New York State by a little over a thousand votes, with another forty-odd thousand ballots divided between John P. St. John, Prohibition candidate, and Benjamin Butler, of the Greenback Party.

In 1912, the split in the Republican Party, with the bolt of Theodore Roosevelt, gave Democrat Woodrow Wilson the presidency although he did not poll as many votes as did Roosevelt and Republican William H. Taft combined.

In 1924, Robert M. LaFollette and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler revived

WHERE B-29 CRASHED—The above map locates the spot where the B-29 Superfortress "Clobbered Turkey," carrying eight crew members, crashed in the sub-Arctic 95 miles from Nome, Alaska. The plane was last heard near Kotzebue (underlined).

Lt. Sheetz, Keyser, Is Still Missing

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 29 (AP)—Six fliers who survived the crash of their B-29 bomber last Tuesday 95 miles north of Nome were rescued this afternoon by two veteran Alaska bush pilots, but two other crewmen of the wrecked Superfortress and three parachutists still are missing.

The daring rescue operation was performed by Frank H. Whaley, of the Wien Alaska Airline and William Munz of the Munz Airline, both of Nome.

Flying in 40-below zero weather they set their small, single-engine planes down in a hazardous landing on the crest of a hill close to the crumpled bomber, the "Clobbered Turkey."

Quickly they loaded the six weak but happy airmen into their tiny, ski-equipped craft, risked disaster in a dangerous takeoff down the snowy slope and returned to Nome without mishap on their mercy flight.

Their aid was enlisted by the Air Forces after military rescue operations Saturday night and Sunday met with misfortune.

Lt. Sheetz Still Missing

Both have offered their assistance in attempting to find the five still missing.

Believed lost somewhere between the crash scene and the Seward Peninsula Eskimo Village of Shishmaref are the pilot and navigator of the ill-starred "Clobbered Turkey," Lt. Vern H. Arnett and Lt. Frederick I. Sheetz.

After huddling for two days with their crew in the bitter cold the two set out on foot in an attempt to reach the village and return with aid. Nothing has been heard from them since.

The other three men of whom no trace has been found are an Air Forces doctor from Ladd Field, Fairbanks, and two paratroopers who dropped near the site of the wreck Saturday night to give aid to the survivors. They are believed to have become lost in the heavy

A fully-loaded bus, en route from Jacksonville to Miami, struck a dump truck which Police Chief J. Y. Copeland sair was parked on United States Highway No. 1 without lights.

Seriously injured in the crash was Helen Morgan, Memphis, Tenn., with both legs broken, pelvis fractured and internal injuries.

In the second accident, an Orlando-Miami bus with 35 passengers turned off the main highway for a detour and stalled on the Florida

Helicopter Loses Rotor; Three Navy Fliers Die

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 29 (AP) — Three United States Navy men were killed today when their helicopter lost its rotor while flying over the docks of Naples and plunged into a pile of scrap iron.

The helicopter fell from a height of approximately 3,000 feet shortly after it had taken off from the carrier Midway.

Two of the men were listed as Naval Officers Robert Lamm and Jack Jeter. Their addresses and the name of the third victim were not available. Wreckage of the craft was taken aboard the Midway for study.

Would Exempt Textbooks From State Sales Tax

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Greyhound, undergraduate publication of Loyola College, today proposed a drive to eliminate sales taxes on textbooks sold in Maryland high school and college book stores.

In an editorial, the organ asked for student views on the matter and said that if the response were favoring exemption, steps would be taken to seek amendment of the tax law.

The State Comptroller's office meantime, said its only comment could be a reminder that under present law such textbook sales were liable for taxation.

Truman Physician, Utah Governor On Third List Of Speculators In Grain

Gen. Graham Will Retain White House Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — The names of President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, and Utah's Governor, Herbert B. Maw, appeared today on on Agriculture Department listing of 99 public employes who speculated in grain last September.

Graham issued a statement saying that on October 7 he learned from his broker that he had "a small holding" in an account the broker was handling, and that he forthwith instructed that it be sold.

He inquired about his account, he said, "because of all the public discussion of grain trading" then current. This discussion included an October 5 food conservation appeal in which President Truman said Charles G. Ross told reporters: Dr. Graham will continue as White House physician."

This was in reply to a direct question by a reporter who told Ross that Mr. Truman has condemned trading in commodity markets.

Ross was asked whether Graham had ever discussed his former grain holding with the President. Ross said that shortly after noon December 18, Graham was in the President's office and had told him of his former holdings.

This was a few hours before Mr. Truman announced he was ready to sign a congressional resolution authorizing Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to make public a list of commidity traders.

The President said, Ross continued, that he had known then that Graham's name would be list-

New York City Is Warned To Expect Another Inch Or Two Of Snow Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—New York City, still laboring to free itself from Friday's paralyzing 25.8-inch snowfall, was warned tonight to expect another inch or two of snow tomorrow.

The forecast held a possibility that a crust of ice may be laid on the snow, still banked high in streets in which an estimated 10,000 vehicles remained stalled.

Benjamin Parry, the Weather Bureau's chief forecaster here, predicted snow "possibly changing to rain" for tomorrow afternoon, with temperatures to drop tomorrow night and be "much colder" by Wednesday morning. High winds are expected.

While taxis and buses appeared in numbers today on the streets of the metropolis for the first time since Friday, the transportation problem was still far from normal. The Long Island Railroad, commuter line for thousands who work in Manhattan, was forced to curtail service.

Subways, with an increased schedule of trains to compensate for the still curtailed surface transportation, operated almost on schedule.

Tomorrow's snow, Parry said, may envelop almost the same territory, reaching from New England to Washington, D. C., which was stuck Friday leaving a death toll of at least 77.

New York City so far had escaped any major fires.

The force mobilized to remove the snow had grown tonight to 30,083 workers and 2,586 pieces of equipment. The Sanitation Department's regular force numbers 7,021.

Arab Fighters Cross Border Into Palestine

Attack Is Launched By Jew Underground

JERUSALEM Dec. 29 (AP) — The "no man's land" between Tel Aviv and Jaffa broke out into a new fury of gunfire and bombing tonight as armed and trained volunteers from neighboring Arab countries were reported already crossing into turbulent Palestine.

The Arab reinforcements were reported as Jewish underground fighters killed 12 Arabs at historic Damascus Gate in Jerusalem in the largest mass slaying in Palestine since the United Nations voted for partition a month ago.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, extremist Jewish underground group, said it launched the attack, in which two British constables and one Jew were also killed. Irgun made a similar attack at the massive stone gate two weeks ago, when 10 Arabs were killed.

Holy Land Death Toll 429

Two more Jews were killed—one a woman—in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa battle zone. The day's fatalities mounted to 23, and included a British soldier, one Jew and four Arabs—two of them boys whose newly-found mortar exploded. Arab sources said their dead at the gate included a boy and two school girls.

The toll for Palestine mounted to 429 and for the entire Middle East to 550 since the United Nations decision on November 29 to partition the Holy Land.

Jewish sources said Arabs in tonight's Tel Aviv-Jaffa battle were reinforced by riflemen from an Arab concentration point at Nablus. The Jewish fighters fired from boats on Arab coffeehouses in Jaffa suspected as meeting places for Arabs from Nablus.

A report from Damascus told of the arrival of more volunteer fighters to bolster Arabs in Palestine, and Prince Faour, of the Fadi tribe, said his men had crossed the border into Palestine and were already in the fighting.

Late into the night under a harvest moon, tracer bullets arched in sporadic firing over the historic old city of Jerusalem, whose Damascus Gate bombing caused 15 deaths and injured almost 40 persons.

Government Has Power To Check Prices, Taft Says

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, declared tonight that the federal government "does not need the police - state powers which the President "demands" to check inflation.

"It can stop the increase in prices if it really wants to stop it," he said in an address delivered before a mass meeting of Republicans on his two-day swing into the home state of President Truman.

"The Republican approach," the presidential aspirant said, "is to solve this inflation crisis by getting at the causes, by pursuing sound policies in the ordinary conduct of government, by spending less and taxing less and preventing inflation. The Democrats want more power to impose arbitrary controls which won't work."

He declared that when Congress returns to Washington "we face a demand from the President for the greatest possible peacetime control over economic freedom which this country has ever faced," but added that Republicans believe it is not power that the government lacks, but the ability to furnish leadership."

"The New Deal remedy, backed by the Political Action Committee and therefore by the President, is to solve every problem by creating a federal bureau, and give it more and more money," he continued. "If anything goes wrong, pass a new law! This has always been the policy of the New Dealer."

The great issue in the election next November, he said, is whether the American people desire to set up a "totalitarian government, a state which will direct every detail in the lives of its citizens."

Two Men Are Sentenced In Arizona For Robbery

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., Dec. 29 (AP)—Superior Court Judge J. Smith Gibbons today sentenced Charles R. Maley, 24, Springfield, O., and Edward Elsbury, 21, Marianna, Pa., to 15 to 20 years imprisonment for robbery.

Maley and Elsbury pleaded guilty to a charge of holding up a service station operator near Sanders, Ariz. They had escaped December 1 from a federal medical center at Springfield, Mo.

HAT'S IN RING—Henry Wallace (above), former Vice President and erstwhile Cabinet member, announced last night he would be an independent candidate for President.

Taylor Considers Joining Wallace As Running Mate

Idaho Senator Says "Feeler" Received

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Sen. Glen H. Taylor (D- Idaho) said tonight he is "giving consideration" to the possibility of running for Vice President on an independent ticket headed by Henry A. Wallace.

Glen H. Taylor (D) Idaho

Meanwhile, Wallace's announcement in Chicago of his third party candidacy for President brought the expected reaction in this political capital, with Democrats publicly discounting its effect and Republicans welcoming a development many thought will help their chances of taking over the White House in next November's election.

While the Idaho Senator said he "doesn't expect" to join Wallace, he added that he does not intend to reject the possibility "at least until they select somebody else."

"I have been tentatively approached and I am giving the matter consideration," he said.

Wallace "Courageous Man"

Calling Wallace "a very courageous man," Taylor told reporters that the former Vice President will be "called a Russian sympathizer and a fifth columnist but he certainly is fighting the good fight."

"Our present foreign policy is just plain stupid," he declared. "The Panamanian incident was the latest example of how stupid it is. It's an overgrown fully foreign policy.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said that while he expects Wallace's entry to influence the Republicans' choice of a presidential nominee, he doesn't believe the former Cabinet member's strength will be such as to affect the outcome in even such critical states as New York and California.

"I think President Truman will carry both New York and California, no matter who the Republican nominee is," Johnson told a newsmen. "But the Republicans are likely to think that his entry will give them New York and that deals a political death blow to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York.

Knowland Differs With Johnson

Differing sharply with Johnson on this point, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said Wallace's race "will have a considerable adverse ef-

Says Both GOP, Demos Follow Course To War

Declares New Party Can Defeat Menace

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Henry Wallace tonight announced he would be an independent candidate for President on a platform advocating "peace and prosperity."

The former Vice President and erstwhile Cabinet member, in an address prepared for broadcast over the Mutual network, struck out at both major parties with the declaration:

"There is no real fight between a Truman and a Republican. Both stand for a policy which opens the door to war in our lifetime, and makes war certain for our children."

Maintaining that the menace to peace was greater than ever before, the man who left the Republican ranks and now has bolted the Democrats as well, told his audience:

"That menace can be met and overcome only by a new political alignment in America which requires the organization of a new political party. To that end I announce tonight that I shall run as an independent candidate for President of the United States in 1948."

At a news conference following the broadcast, Wallace said he would withdraw from the presidential picture "should either of the major parties become definitely a peace party before the election."

He also said that the new party, as yet without name "would support progressive Democratic candidates for Congress. He declined comment when asked if his announcement would hurt chances of the Democratic Party in 1948.

"Thousands" Support Him

He said "thousands of people" had asked him to "engage in this great fight." Suggestions that he enter the race had come from the Progressive Citizens of America and the new Progressive Party of Chicago. A spokesman for the new candidate told reporters that a similar request was put before Wallace this afternoon by persons from 18 states and the District of Columbia.

The decision to run cast Wallace in a new role at the age of 59. He served as Secretary of Agriculture in two Roosevelt terms, put in four years as Vice President and served for a shorter period as Secretary of Commerce.

He resigned from the latter post, at President Truman's request, after

Wallace Resigns Post As Editor Of New Republic

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The New Republic announced tonight that Henry A. Wallace had resigned as editor of the magazine.

Wallace will become a contributing editor of the publication and will write a weekly page for the publication, the New Republic said.

Wallace's resignation followed by a day that of William Harlan Hale, the magazine's editor in charge of articles, and came amid reports of dissension on the staff over plans to continue carrying the former Cabinet member's articles if he announced his presidential candidacy.

HERE'S WHAT WALLACE MUST DO TO GET NAME ON MARYLAND BALLOT

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 29—(AP)—To get his name on the Maryland ballot in next year's presidential election, Henry Wallace must:

1—File a petition with the Secretary of State here containing the signatures of at least 2,000 registered Maryland voters who must signify they will cast their ballot for him, and

2—Pay a $270 filing fee.

If the petition is not filed "write in" ballots must be cast for him at the polls.

Third Parties Have Swung Elections But Have Been Notably Unsuccessful

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Third parties in American politics have, on occasion, swung presidential elections but they have been notably unsuccessful in electing their own candidates.

In 1844, James G. Birney, an anti-slavery Kentuckian, ran as a Liberty Party candidate and polled enough votes so that Henry Clay, Whig, lost New York State to James K. Polk, Democrat. This gave Polk the presidency.

A Democratic split in 1860 has been credited with the election of Abraham Lincoln. Regular Democrats nominated Stephen A. Douglas but a Southern pro-slavery group split off and named John Breckinridge, of Kentucky. Together they polled more votes than the Republican Lincoln.

Again in 1884 a split—this time Republican—caused an overturn. A dissident group of Republicans—the Mugwumps—worked for Grover Cleveland, Democrat. While their actual strength has been in dispute all these years, Cleveland beat James G. Blaine in New York State by a little over a thousand votes, with another forty-odd thousand ballots divided between John P. St. John, Prohibition candidate, and Benjamin Butler, of the Greenback Party.

In 1912, the split in the Republican Party, with the bolt of Theodore Roosevelt, gave Democrat Woodrow Wilson the presidency although he did not poll as many votes as did Roosevelt and Republican William H. Taft combined.

In 1924, Robert M. LaFollette and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler revived

Prices Continue Upward March

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 — (AP) — Wholesale prices continued their steady climb during the week ending December 20, shattering postward records and edging closer to the all-time high of May, 1920, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

However food prices declined slightly in the same period, especially for meats, eggs, fats and oils. This was offset somewhat, the bureau said, by higher figures for fresh fruits and vegetables. Prices of foods were 0.3 per cent lower than a month earlier, but still 11.7 per cent above a year ago.

The wholesale price index covering about 900 commodities rose seven-tenths of one per cent during the week to come within three per cent of the record level of May, 1920. The bureau pointed out that increases in non-agricultural commodities more than offset the decline for the food group.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 — (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that the general level of farm prices jumped five per cent between mid-November and mid-December to a record high of 301 per cent of the 1909-14 average.

The previous all-time high was 289 per cent, set in October, 1947.

Prices paid by farmers for items they must buy for living and farm production also reached a new record. On December 15, the index of prices paid was 245 per cent of the 1910-14 average.

Wadham college, Oxford, England, was founded by Nicholas Wadham of Merifield, Susses, and Dorothy his wife. The college building was begun in 1610, the society being founded by letters patent from James I in 1612.

Their names were not immediately available.

Nome air base authorities reported that all of the six survivors were in good spirits and fair health despite being forced to spend nearly six days and nights in the sub-Arctic. One of the men suffered a broken leg and another is being treated for a frozen face.

The missing pilot, Arnett, formerly of Riverside and Santa Ana, Calif., has been at the controls of three of the four B-29s from Ladd Field which have met disaster. One of his planes crashed and burned at the field December 12, 1946 and a second, the "Kee Bird," crash-landed in Northern Greenland February 21. Each time the crewmen came through unharmed.

Sheetz, the navigator who set out with Arnett for the Eskimo village, is from Keyser, W. Va.

An immediate search was launched for the rescue team and the two airmen who attempted to bring aid to their six companions.

Prosecution Rests In Officer's Trial

CAMP LEE, Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—After presenting a case built almost entirely on documents, the prosecution rested today in the general court-martial of Capt. Edward P. Kelly who faces 25 charges, all filed after he walked off the post here December 1 with the pay checks of 37 fellow Army officers.

The specific charges include two counts of embezzlement and two of forgery, six counts of signing checks without a bank account and 15 counts of being absent without leave.

In a statement, signed by the 40-year-old Denville, N. J. man, and given to Rubin Van Alst, Jr., United States Secret Service agent, Kelly told how he left the post after he had been chosen by fellow officers to pick up their pay checks.

Fed up with Army life and faced with an unpaid loan from a Rockaway, N. J., bank, Kelly said he caught a bus into nearby Richmond, bought civilian clothes to replace his uniform and then loafed about, seeing a movie and drinking beer.

Meanwhile, he said, he had forged his signature to two of the checks he had picked up.

ed but up to that time, "knew nothing of it."

Gov. Maw, a Democrat who was elected three years ago, told reporters at Salt Lake City that he had "participated in market trading on and off for the past 20 years." Such trading is "perfectly legitimate," he noted.

The release of today's list, along with two previous ones, stemmed from Republican statements that some "government insiders" have profited from their personal knowledge of government plans for commodity buying.

Most of those on today's list were relatively small fry—a number of mail carriers and policemen were among them. There were also three Department of Agriculture employes. A number of Army and Navy officers and a scattering of state officials.

U.M.T. Is Favored

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Maryland Department, American Legion, announced today through Harry S. Allen, state commander, it favors adoption of universal military training in the United States.

Says Both

he spoke out last year against a "get-tough-with-Russia" policy while Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was urging a firm hand in dealing with the USSR.

Wallace parted company with the Democrats with these words:

"To those who have come to me asking the conditions of my adherence to the present Democratic administration I have said: 'Let the administration repudiate universal military training and rid itself of the Wall Street-military team that is leading us toward war.'

"My terms to the Democratic high command have been well known. By their actions and finally by their words, they have said: 'Henry Wallace, we welcome your support but we will not change our policies.'

"No Hope" With GOP

"In answering me, the Democratic leadership also gave its answer to the millions of Americans who demand the right to vote for peace and prosperity. x x x The leadership of the Democratic Party would deprive the American people of their rightful opportunity to choose between progress and reaction in 1948. So far as the Republican Party is concerned, there is no hope—as George Norris, Fiorello LaGuardia and Wendell Willkie long ago found out."

Wallace said "lukewarm liberals" would ask: "Why throw away your vote?" His reply was this:

"The bigger the peace vote in 1948, the more definitely the world will know that the United States is not behind the bi-partisan reactionary war policy which is dividing the world into two armed camps and making inevitable the day when American soldiers will be lying in their Arctic suits in the Russian snow."

A New Party —Wallace's script capitalized it without making clear whether that would be its name—must "fight war makers," he said, and promised to combat universal military training and espouse a "peace program of abundance and security." He added:

"I fight the Truman doctrine and the Marshall plan as applied because they divide Europe into two warring camps. Those whom we buy politically with our food will soon desert us."

"We are restoring Western Europe and Germany x x x because we want to hem Russia in. We are acting in the same way as France and England after the last war, and the end result will be the same—confusion, depression, and war."

Wallace said the United States would not be fully secure until there is a "real peace" between this nation and Russia and until there is an international police force stronger than any country's military force.

the Progressive Party, as Theodore Roosevelts' Bull Moosers were formally named, and polled nearly 5,000,000 popular votes but only 13 electoral votes—Wisconsin's.

The last third party ticket—as distinguished from such durable but comparatively weak groups as the Socialists, Communists and Prohibition Parties—appeared in the 1936 election. Called the Union Party and led by William Lemke, it failed to win a single electoral vote.

prepared to leave for Nablus, then tossed a small bomb into the crowded street under the gate.

Two carloads of members of the Arab youth group Munazimet Shabab gave chase to the taxi and caught it about a mile away. The Arabs said they killed one Jew and wounded two others.

British police in armored cars, rammed bumper to bumper, blocked the wide stone gate. Police opened fire in an attempt to restore order, and in the exchange two British constables were killed.

The military banned all Jewish taxis from the streets of Jerusalem effective at 6 a. m. tomorrow until tension ceases.

Today's violence reached for the first time into Bethlehem when an Arab doctor was shot to death not far from the Church of the Nativity.

The word "moon" is thought to have come from the words, to measure, the moon being a measurer of time.

Taylor Considers

fect on the Democratic Party not only in California but also in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and possibly one or two other states.

Sen. Capper (R-Kans.) predicted Wallace will be "a weak third man in the race.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev. said Wallace "goes into this knowing full well he has no chance whatsoever except perhaps to vent his spleen against President Truman," he added:

"His candidacy will form a resting place for the votes of all Communistically-inclined people. Aside from that, I think, there is nothing to worry about."

Their names were not immediately available.

Nome air base authorities reported that all of the six survivors were in good spirits and fair health despite being forced to spend nearly six days and nights in the sub-Arctic. One of the men suffered a broken leg and another is being treated for a frozen face.

The missing pilot, Arnett, formerly of Riverside and Santa Ana, Calif., has been at the controls of three of the four B-29s from Ladd Field which have met disaster. One of his planes crashed and burned at the field December 12, 1946 and a second, the "Kee Bird," crash-landed in Northern Greenland February 21. Each time the crewmen came through unharmed.

Sheetz, the navigator who set out with Arnett for the Eskimo village, is from Keyser, W. Va.

An immediate search was launched for the rescue team and the two airmen who attempted to bring aid to their six companions.

at this point: "How did it disappear?"

"I wish you could tell me," the press secretary replied.

He ignored a reporter who inquired whether the bill could have "dissappeared into the same stratosphere as rising prices."

Prosecution Rests In Officer's Trial

CAMP LEE, Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—After presenting a case built almost entirely on documents, the prosecution rested today in the general court-martial of Capt. Edward P. Kelly who faces 25 charges, all filed after he walked off the post here December 1 with the pay checks of 37 fellow Army officers.

The specific charges include two counts of embezzlement and two of forgery, six counts of signing checks without a bank account and 15 counts of being absent without leave.

In a statement, signed by the 40-year-old Denville, N. J. man, and given to Rubin Van Alst, Jr., United States Secret Service agent, Kelly told how he left the post after he had been chosen by fellow officers to pick up their pay checks.

Fed up with Army life and faced with an unpaid loan from a Rockaway, N. J., bank, Kelly said he caught a bus into nearby Richmond, bought civilian clothes to replace his uniform and then loafed about, seeing a movie and drinking beer.

Meanwhile, he said, he had forged his signature to two of the checks he had picked up.

ed but up to that time, "knew nothing of it."

Gov. Maw, a Democrat who was elected three years ago, told reporters at Salt Lake City that he had "participated in market trading on and off for the past 20 years." Such trading is "perfectly legitimate," he noted.

The release of today's list, along with two previous ones, stemmed from Republican statements that some "government insiders" have profited from their personal knowledge of government plans for commodity buying.

Most of those on today's list were relatively small fry—a number of mail carriers and policemen were among them. There were also three Department of Agriculture employes. A number of Army and Navy officers and a scattering of state officials.

U.M.T. Is Favored

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Maryland Department, American Legion, announced today through Harry S. Allen, state commander, it favors adoption of universal military training in the United States.

Says Both

he spoke out last year against a "get-tough-with-Russia" policy while Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was urging a firm hand in dealing with the USSR.

Wallace parted company with the Democrats with these words:

"To those who have come to me asking the conditions of my adherence to the present Democratic administration I have said: 'Let the administration repudiate universal military training and rid itself of the Wall Street-military team that is leading us toward war.'

"My terms to the Democratic high command have been well known. By their actions and finally by their words, they have said: 'Henry Wallace, we welcome your support but we will not change our policies.'

"No Hope" With GOP

"In answering me, the Democratic leadership also gave its answer to the millions of Americans who demand the right to vote for peace and prosperity. x x x The leadership of the Democratic Party would deprive the American people of their rightful opportunity to choose between progress and reaction in 1948. So far as the Republican Party is concerned, there is no hope—as George Norris, Fiorello LaGuardia and Wendell Willkie long ago found out."

Wallace said "lukewarm liberals" would ask: "Why throw away your vote?" His reply was this:

"The bigger the peace vote in 1948, the more definitely the world will know that the United States is not behind the bi-partisan reactionary war policy which is dividing the world into two armed camps and making inevitable the day when American soldiers will be lying in their Arctic suits in the Russian snow."

A New Party —Wallace's script capitalized it without making clear whether that would be its name—must "fight war makers," he said, and promised to combat universal military training and espouse a "peace program of abundance and security." He added:

"I fight the Truman doctrine and the Marshall plan as applied because they divide Europe into two warring camps. Those whom we buy politically with our food will soon desert us."

"We are restoring Western Europe and Germany x x x because we want to hem Russia in. We are acting in the same way as France and England after the last war, and the end result will be the same—confusion, depression, and war."

Wallace said the United States would not be fully secure until there is a "real peace" between this nation and Russia and until there is an international police force stronger than any country's military force.

Third Party

the Progressive Party, as Theodore Roosevelts' Bull Moosers were formally named, and polled nearly 5,000,000 popular votes but only 13 electoral votes—Wisconsin's.

The last third party ticket—as distinguished from such durable but comparatively weak groups as the Socialists, Communists and Prohibition Parties—appeared in the 1936 election. Called the Union Party and led by William Lemke, it failed to win a single electoral vote.

Arab Fighters

prepared to leave for Nablus, then tossed a small bomb into the crowded street under the gate.

Two carloads of members of the Arab youth group Munazimet Shabab gave chase to the taxi and caught it about a mile away. The Arabs said they killed one Jew and wounded two others.

British police in armored cars jammed bumper to bumper, blocked the wide stone gate. Police opened fire in an attempt to restore order, and in the exchange two British constables were killed.

The military banned all Jewish taxis from the streets of Jerusalem effective at 6 a. m. tomorrow until tension ceases.

Today's violence reached for the first time into Bethlehem when an Arab doctor was shot to death not far from the Church of the Nativity.

The word "moon" is thought to have come from the words, to measure, the moon being a measurer of time.

Taylor Considers

fect on the Democratic Party not only in California but also in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and possibly one or two other states.

Sen. Capper (R-Kans.) predicted Wallace will be "a weak third man in the race.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev. said Wallace "goes into this knowing full well he has no chance whatsoever except perhaps to vent his spleen against President Truman." he added:

"His candidacy will form a resting place for the votes of all Communistically-inclined people. Aside from that, I think, there is nothing to worry about."

When electro-plating was introduced into England in 1844, articles made of German silver (from ore containing copper, nickel and zinc), and plated with silver became popular in place of the more expensive Sheffield plate. Silver plated articles are still shaped from nickel silver, then electroplated with silver.

No Magic Formula For Straightening Out Human Beings' Problems

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It would be happy indeed if, for every situation that goes awry in the world, there were some specific rule to follow which would set it right.

Unfortunately, no set of circumstances in which human beings are involved is as simple as that. When they mess up their lives, there is no magic formula that can straighten them out again.

The fact that this is so, and most adults know it to be so, does not prevent any of us, however, from feeling that any given problem we have could be solved, if only we knew just what to do about it. Instinctively, emotionally, we believe there must be a magic formula, if only we can find it, even when our reason tells us otherwise.

No one, perhaps, seeks more desperately for such a magic formula to follow than the wife whose husband is being unfaithful to her. Over and over such wives write to tell me their tragic stories of happiness wrecked by a husband who is no longer satisfied with the woman he married, and they plead for some specific program that will enable them to pick up the pieces of their marriage and put them together in the same tidy pattern that it was in the beginning.

One who signs herself "E." tells me that seven years of her eight-year-old marriage were peaceful and happy as any marriage could be. Then, when her husband came home from the war, he began to run around with a woman he met in the plant where he worked. When his wife found out what was going on, he begged for forgiveness and promised he would never see the woman again. As so often happens in such things, the promises meant nothing, and the illicit relationship continued. His wife has spoken of separation and divorce, but the husband will hear of neither. Instead, he insists that he loves her.

"But," says the wife, "I can't see how he can love me and go out nights with another woman."

She says she knows she can never be happy with him again and she can never forget. "I just can't see," she writes, "how our marriage can ever mean anything again."

Yet, on top of all this, the frantic hope of a magic formula to save the situation shows itself in her pitiful plea: "Please tell me what to do. I will do as you say."

So far from being able to give this woman, or any other in a similar situation, exact directions for salvaging her happiness, the best I can do is to tell her that these things must be matters of trial and error, until she comes upon some solution. This does not mean that the solution will necessarily be one satisfactory to herself, or that in the end she is bound to find a way of getting her marriage back on its original basis. She is undoubtedly quite right in believing that she can never feel quite the same toward her husband. But it may be that they can still achieve some sort of relationship that she will find less heartbreaking than separation or divorce.

My advice to her is to wait a while before making any decision about the future, and, in the meantime, cultivate as many outside interests and friendships as she can, to keep herself from incessant brooding over her unhappiness.

City Of Cumberland Has New Solicitor

The election by the Mayor and City Council of Thomas B. Finan to be city attorney to serve the unexpired term of Charles Z. Heskett, who resigned, is a commendable one. He will take up his duties January 1, to serve until April 5 when a new city administration will be inducted.

Mr. Finan has much to recommend him to the position, and it can be certain he will discharge his duties with the city's interests ever before him.

Mr. Finan possesses the requisite qualifications to make this so. Responsibility never stumps him and city officials will find him a most capable counselor in all matters pertaining to the position he is about to step into.

He is an indefatigable worker, industrious and conscientious, and members of the City Council may rest assured they will find no reason to regret their action of yesterday.

You don't have to be an old timer to be able to remember when religious fanatics, instead of radio commentators, read the signs of the times and predicted the end of the world.

Treasury Gives Argument For Income Tax Reduction

Although careful to state that it is "making no policy recommendations," the Treasury Department, in the latest of a series of periodic reports to Congress, presents an excellent—even compelling—argument for tax reduction.

Indeed, it is so clearly an argument to that effect that Republican leaders cannot be blamed for seizing upon it as support for the cause they have been sponsoring.

According to the report, an increase in the personal exemptions now allowed would "tend to dampen demands for wage increases." Somewhat similar results, the Treasury goes on to say, might be expected under a reduction in tax rates.

That has been the contention of the men who are framing the majority party tax program. It is one of the purposes behind the bill which Representative Knutson has introduced in Congress and which will be acted upon early in the new session beginning next week.

But it probably would be a mistake to assume that the position of the Treasury is also the position of President Truman. It is so often the case that the right hand of the government does not know what the left hand is doing that it is probably useless to draw any broad conclusions.

To date Truman has stubbornly resisted every effort to lower the tax burden that is weighing down all the people. He vetoed the bill that was passed during the last session. He announced a few days ago that he is still opposed to a reduction.

Representative Knutson calls his bill "veto-proof." Of course, no measure passed by a Republican Congress is veto-proof when a Democrat resides in the White House. Members of Congress are mulling over in their minds this bill as well as the Marshall Plan. They will want to know just how much essential long-range aid abroad will cost before deciding whether or not to cut $5,600,000 a year from our income tax revenue. Nevertheless, the promise of a $7,000,000,000 surplus in the fiscal year is a powerful incentive to tax reduction, for which there are many arguments. And the Knutson bill supplies a firm foundation for such reduction, which Congress is bound to consider seriously.

The Knutson bill would raise the exemption for each taxpayer and dependent by $100, and allow an additional $600 exemption for persons over 65 and for the blind. This is aimed specifically at the lowest income group, which has been hardest hit by inflation. In addition, there would be percentage reductions in the rates: 30 per cent on net income up to $1,000; 20 per cent on the $1,000-$4,000 levels, and 10 per cent on all taxable income above $4,000. Married couples would be allowed to divide their combined incomes in figuring the Federal tax. This would correct the present inequality in favor of couples in the community-property states.

The fact cannot be lost sight of that taxation in the United States is now so high that it has reached the stage of diminishing national returns. It discourages initiative at a time when greater production is needed to check inflation. Because of that, the Knutson bill is bound to receive serious consideration from a lot of Democrats as well as Republican members.

With or without the President's blessing, the Republicans will of course proceed with their plans to provide relief for the taxpayers. The treasury's report hands them still more ammunition for this campaign and reinforce them in their belief that one way to check rising prices is to "dampen the demand for wage increases."

An oil test is being put down four miles in Mexico, which is certainly getting at the bottom of things.

Panamanian Jinks

If past history is a guide, overmuch alarm is not called for by Panama's rejection of an agreement granting the United States extension of leases on 14 vital U. S. defense bases. Central American countries like to kick up a row now and then over the Colossus of the North, but they usually quiet down before the source of some pretty good income is shut off.

The payrolls of 14 defense bases in Panama are not to be sneered at, even by ardent Panamanian patriots. In fact, the question has been asked what Panama would exist on if the big payrolls of the Canal Zone and the military installations in the vicinity were shut off.

Panama cannot even be considered much of a banana country, and there is no doubt that United States coin and United States jobs are important to the economy of the country.

Such countries as Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatamala have raised voice in the past, but they have always recalled that coffee, banana and mahogany trade brings income, and that most of that income comes from the United States.

It is doubtful whether Panama will throw a lot of income out the window, and Uncle Sam holds the power to drum up some conservative thinking in the nation. If Panama persists in its present course, it will be interesting to see what it uses as a substitute for American dollars.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Beryllium Poisoning Is New Threat In Industrial Work

BERYLLIUM poisoning, a newcomer among industrial diseases, is rapidly drawing attention of physicians who are entrusted with the safety and health of workers in this field. The condition is a matter of concern because more and more people are being exposed as increasing uses for the metal are discovered.

The toxic effects of beryllium, unlike those from lead or benzol, often appear several months or years after exposure. Furthermore, it is difficult to predict prospective victims because the manifestations have occurred in a few who had little contact with the substance. On the other hand, many who worked with it for years are not affected. Apparently it is an individual problem and depends upon how the element is handled, whether protective devices are used, cleanliness of the worker, and his surroundings.

If the material comes in direct contact with the skin, a marked dermatitis often develops. This occurs usually on the face, hands and forearms and is generally associated with itching and burning. The epidermis may become swollen, scaly, or covered with weeping sores and the outer membranes of the eyes occasionally become inflamed (conjunctitivitis). Soothing ointments are required and cure will not follow unless the occupation is changed. Ulcers sometimes arise particularly if a beryllium crystal sticks to the skin. Before healing can be expected, the chemical must be washed away or otherwise removed.

Involvement of the respiratory tract is a more definite indication of beryllium poisoning. Many develop a peculiar type of pneumonia, often called "chemical pneumonia" which has manifestations indistinguishable from that caused by the virus. The first sign of poisoning may not be observed for months or years after exposure. It begins frequently as a coryza with sore throat, hacking cough, or running nose. The victim believes that he has a cold but the manifestations do not subside. Meanwhile, appetite wanes and weight is lost. In the more severe type, cough and shortness of breath are present. The lips and skin become blue and the temperature is elevated moderately. X-ray of the chest demonstrates the abnormality.

There is no specific treatment for the disease, consequently considerable reliance must be placed upon prevention.

Beryllium is a relatively unimportant metal when compared with iron, copper, and aluminum but its usefulnes cannot be underestimated. Only tiny percentages are needed as a rule in producing certain alloys in electronics, neon and fluorescent lighting, incandescent gas mantles, and nonsparking tools.

CONDITION OF ARTERIES

T. L. writes: Can hardening of the arteries be determined by an eye examination?

REPLY

Yes. By using an ophthalmoscope, the vessels are clearly visible. This method is easy and convenient but other tests are available. To make the situation more confusing, it should be stated that the condition of the eye structures does not always denote the extent and severity of alertiosclerosis elsewhere in the body.

WHY BOTHER?

Mrs. X. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 70 to have facial hair removed by electrolysis?

REPLY

Age is no factor but most women of 70 have learned the folly of vanity.

TWO EYES AFFECTED

. J. writes: What is bilateral cataract?

REPLY

Both sides are affected by cataracts. In this disturbance, the lens of the eyes become more cloudy and opaque, producing faulty vision.

COLITIS

H. J. writes: "Is inflammation of the small intestine called "colitis?"

REPLY

Yes. The colon is a long tube and any part of it can become inflamed. However, the word "colitis" is generally used to describe irritability of the lower bowel, even tho such terminology is not strictly correct.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

America's annual madness is on—the rush for Rose Bowl tickets. I won't say it's going to be hard to get into the Rose Bowl this New Year's, but the first eleven people in line were the Michigan team.

But it really isn't difficult to get tickets through the regular channels. They're on sale at Samoa . . . you have to swim out there to get 'em. The survivors of whoever drowns nearest to the islands get the tickets.

Just to show you how valuable those pasteboards are, I saw the holder of a Rose Bowl ticket and the holder of a winning ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes swap, even up.

Everybody wants to get into that bowl. I saw one gopher give another gopher eight kernels of corn for a hole under the 50-yard line.

There was a report that counterfeit Rose Bowl tickets were in circulation, so I've been more careful. In fact, I've been so cautious I don't burn the basement light anymore.

But it's no wonder. That game has attracted worldwide interest. The Rose Bowl committee even got an offer from Amsterdam, Holland . . . They want the winner for a Tulip Bowl game.

But I haven't missed a Rose Bowl game in ten years. In fact, I've sat through so many games, I've almost got the branch worn out.

French Freedom Train Also Stops At Way Stations For Speeches; Pearson Brothers Revert To Childhood Relationship; French Communists Deflated

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

MARSEILLES, Dec. 29. (By Wireless)—It takes about 10 hours for a fast train to travel from Paris across France to Marseilles. The French Friendship Train, however, took three days.

The was not an accident. The schedule was deliberately planned that way, in order to duplicate in reverse the American Friendship Train which required 11 days to travel from Los Angeles to New York.

Not only was the schedule purposely slow, but the French train even carried the same type of flat-car equipped with a loudspeaker as the American train from which we made speeches at railroad stations across the U. S.

Because the Friendship Train came from the American people, not the Government, Geoffrey Parsons, editor of the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune was asked to accommpany the train as chairman and master of ceremonies.

At each station, the local French Friendship Committee, together with the Americans accompanying the train, climbed on the flatcar and Parsons led off with a brief speech telling how the train was organized in the United States, how it had collected contributions from all walks of American life and was truly a spontaneous gesture from the American people.

Following this, Robert Blake of American Aid to France explained briefly that the food was going chiefly to French children and told how it was being distributed through French schools, orphanages and hospitals. He also introduced representatives of the three American church groups — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — which are supervising the distribution together with representatives of two French groups, the French Red Cross and Entre'aide.

I spoke next and, after a few words in very poor French, turned the microphone over to my brother, Leon, as spokesman for me.

My mother used to tell the story of how my brother and I, at the ages of 8 and 10, kept chickens and sold eggs. According to her, I would ring the doorbell, than push my small brother forward to greet the housewife and do the talking. Some senators say that of recent years I have got over this reticence. In France, however, my brother—who has spent some years here for the International News Service and the National Broadcasting Company—did a beautiful job of explaining the Friendship Train to the French people.

He told various stories about the schoolchildren, the labor unions, the businessmen, the churches, the farmers and the different towns which contributed to the train and he did it so graphically that it brought cheers from the crowds at the railroad stations.

The local mayor then responded, followed by the perfect. The former is elected by the people of the city; the latter is the representative of the French Government, appointed from Paris.

In every city, the railroad station was packed with people—children lined the platform for a couple of blocks.

The station at Valence, just two weeks before our arrival, had been the scene of a bitter railroad strike. Four men had been killed. Bullet holes still marked the walls. The strike, Communist-inspired, was partly against receiving American aid under the Marshall Plan. But on the walls alongside the bullet marks, when the Friendship Train arrived, was a huge banner reading: "Welcome et merci!"

Incidentally, one thing which has made a great impression in France is the fact that many American railroad workers contributed their salaries for one day to help haul the Friendship Train across the U.S.A. The fact that the CIO steel workers union in Pittsburgh gave a carload of milk and the steelworkers and coalminers in Windber, Pa., gave a car has greatly impressed left-wing French labor leaders. To some extent, it has taken the wind out of their argument that it's only American capitalists who want to help the French and for purley imperialistic reasons.

At Valence, scene of the recent bitter railroad strike, several Communist members of the City Council came to the Friendship Train reception in the City Hall. They stayed in the background and seemed more curious than hospitable. But other Frenchmen remarked that public opinion was so strong for the Friendship Train, the Communists obviously thought it was smart politics to be present.

At American railroad stations, the Friendship Train remained only 45 minutes. But because nothing like this had ever come through France before, the French insisted that the train stay longer. Our minimum stop, therefore, was two hours and in some cases we spent the entire afternoon and evening being feted by these hospitable people.

Gen. Henri Giraud, leader of the French forces in North Africa who cooperated with U. S. troops, came to visit the Friendship Train at its first stop—Dijon . . . At the Friendship Train reception in Lyons, the local Grand Rabbi took the local Grand Mufti in tow, introducing him to the Americans. "The Jews and the Mohammedans in Lyons are already practicing the principle of your Friendship Train," the Rabbi said. "We believe in getting along together." . . . The mayor of each French city insisted that we visit his town hall—usually a beautiful building of ancient architecture.

A dozen French newsmen and women rode on the Friendship Train from Paris to Marseilles, all of them young. French newsmen generally are young—the explanation being that most older newsmen collaborated with the Germans and a new crop of youngsters has taken their place . . . Remarked a French electrician who operated the loudspeaker for the Friendship Train: "During the war my automobile was marchine-gunned by an American airplane; my chauffeur was killed and I was wounded in three places. Since then, I haven't liked Americans. However, the Friendship Train has made me realize that when they shot at me it was only a mistake that friends sometimes make. For the first time since the war, I have got over being anti-American."

Cold War In Greece Remains Critical; Decision Faces U. S.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Over the holiday and weekend, while the news and the people were occupied first with Christmas and then with blizzards, occurred an event which carries our relation to the world into a new stage. The event occured in Greece and superficially seemed not a specially important addition to news that has been coming from that country for a considerable time. The armed Communist group that has been active in northern Greece set up what it called a provisional government, and sought to capture a city in order to have a capital.

For relating this event to America's relation to the world go back to November 7th. On that day was issued the frankest official statement yet made about America's place and state in the attempt of Communism to dominate the world. The document did not deal primarily with this subject, and in the part presently significant did not deal primarily with this subject, and in the part presently significant did not mention Russia by name. It was the report of the President's Committee on Foreign Aid. It derived distinction from it candour and thoroughness, and also from the standing and circumstances of the men composing the Committee. They included seven heads or representatives of universities, and several labor leaders, business men and public officials. The gamut of thought in the Committee took in the chairman, W. Averill Harriman who is Secretary of Commerce and has a conservative background; and has an able representative of American liberalism, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

Ideological War Ruthless

A passage in this official report goes almost as far as the informal talk of average citizens in recognizing the seriousness of our relations with Russia (though Russia is not named in the passage). It reads:

"Open ideological war has been declared already by the totalitarian nations and their satellites upon all other nations and peoples believing in individual liberty. It has been called a "cold war"... It is cold only in the sense that guns are not shooting and bombs and guided missiles are not exploding. In every other respect, the ideological war of Communists is as ruthless and as determined a drive to achieve world domination as a hot war."

Part of this war is the attempt to Communize Greece, spearheaded by a little group of Communists, many of them from a neighboring Balkan Communist country. Yugoslavia. The present action of the group in setting up a provisional government on Greek soil is read by informed Washington in the light of another event in the Balkans, the two composing a new stage of the Communist war.

Several of the Balkan countries, satellites of Communist Russia, have made treaties of alliance with each other, the most recent last week was Yugoslavia with Hungary. About this series of treaties is a strongly held Washington surmise, related to the Communist development in Greece last week. The Balkan countries, Communist and satellites of Russia, are likely, it is expected, to become a federation. The federation could recognize the Greek Communists as a de facto government. Thereafter the Greek Communists could, under recognized international usage, procure arms and supplies from nearby Communist countries.

Threat Would Be More Formidable

By such a development, threat to the independence of Greece, and also Turkey, would become far more formidable than it was last March, when President Truman took account of it. He announced that we would help those countries preserve their independence, and we have in fact helped them with funds and material through an appropriation of 400 million dollars made by Congress.

If the presently surmised development takes place, we will be faced by necessity for a decision, which indeed is more or less implied by what we have already done. On the world front where Communism faces the resistance to it which we spearhead, Greece and Turkey will be a point where the conflict is critical. In the terms used by the President's Committee on Foreign Aid, the cold war will move a step closer to take on the characteristics of a hot war. Belief in Washington is that while Russia will not pull a trigger, she will, by actions short of that, test our determination to resist. Part of our answer is not far ahead. The grant we made Greece and Turkey last year expires next June 30th. We must decide whether we will continue to support those countries in a changed condition in which the threat to them is increased.

Blame For Dispute Between U.S. And Panama Not One-Sided

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A lesson in good manners and neighborliness is involved in the dispute between Panama and the United States—and the blame is not all on one side.

For years the people of Panama have felt that the United States, in its treatment of civil employes in the Canal Zone, has shown discrimination in pay and privileges between Panamanians and Americans. For years the merchants across the boundary from the Canal Zone which is perpetually under American sovereignty have felt that the American commissaries, with their advantages and privileges, have practiced a sort of economic competition unfavorable to them.

When you add to this the feeling of distrust that a small nation has for a larger country, it is easy to see how a small band of crusaders can swing public sentiment and produce national resentment.

The treaty which the Panama government had signed only recently was to have gone through the National Assembly with 41 votes but under the inspiration of a small minority an emotional wave swept the country and the treaty was unanimously defeated, 51 to 0.

The result is a serious blow to the prestige of the United States throughout all Latin America. It implies, on the one hand, that the American government underestimated sentiment in Panama and also that anti-Americanism is a fertile field for Communist agitators to cultivate. It is an exaggeration to say the Communists in Panama defeated the treaty. They merely helped by dramatizing the issue.

U. S. Behavior Surprise

The behavior of the United States since the treaty was defeated was a surprise to the Panamanians, to Latin America and perhaps to Moscow as well. Instead of standing on the letter of an agreement which was signed in 1942 between the United States and Panama giving America the right to retain certain bases until "one year after a definite treaty of peace is signed with Japan," the Department of State recommended and the War Department promptly carried out an evacuation of American troops from the Panama bases.

The United States thus tells Russia—for application to European and Asiatic problems—that a strong power doesn't keep its troops on the territory of a weak country if the latter declares it to be an infringement of sovereignty.

But where does the defense of the Panama Canal come in? Certainly without strategic air bases capable of handling B-29s, the defense of the great seaway is weakened. Since there is no war in immediate prospect, and since the United States has ample opportunity to consider other means of defense or other routes for the canal, there was every reason for prompt withdrawal.

The people of Panama will sooner or later wake up to the fact, that in denying the bases on emotional grounds, the Assembly has delivered a body blow to the economic future of Panama. Instead of a 10 year agreement for the bases, it seems unlikely now that Congress will invest, as had been proposed, $2,500,000,000 for the improvement of the canal unless a better and longer lease agreement is made.

Much of the money would have been spent in Panama in the form of payroll and the merchants would have benefitted greatly from the boom. Maybe they never thought of this before. Now members of Congress are talking about other routes and the whole idea of appropriating more money will be deferred until after Panama and the U. S. have negotiated and ratified a new agreement.

Meanwhile a presidential election in Panama will soon be held and the political crosscurrents that capitalized an anti-Americanism will have a chance to subside. Likewise the American government will do well in the interim to study carefully the causes of the sudden turn in the assembly and to determine what, if anything, can be done to end the discriminations in the Panama area which have grown up customs for many years but which now can bear re-examination, not modification, in the interest of better relations.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Case Of Finland

Senators Smith, Fulbright, Saltonsall, Bricker, Knowland, Hatch, Lodge, Thomas of Utah, O'Mahoney and Hill joined in a fascinating gesture toward Finland, the only country that paid its debts to the United States, come hell and high water.

Senator Alexander Smith said:

"Since that time, twenty-eight years ago, when other nations, great and small, rich and poor, have defaulted on their debt payments, the heroic people of little Finland have repeatedly demonstrated that they place integrity above comfort or convenience.. They have constantly made payments on their indebtedness to the United States as those payments fell due."

So the Senator and his colleagues made a proposal to use the money that Finland pays on the debt from now on, to educate Finnish boys and girls in this country for usefulness to their own.

Senator Smith comments on this idea:

". . . Circumstances of course, make it impossible for Finland to send them here in any large numbers, and of course obviously the suggestion is impractical. But there is something we can do to aid them in their grim struggle against disease, destruction and want. We can extend to them the hand of friendship in their desperate need by offering to help them train a new generation of technical experts to replace their war-lost generation. On the basis of population, Finland's war losses were ten times greater than those of the United States."

To this, I say, Amen!

Nevertheless it is unnecessary to point out to these Senators Senators that their just and fine action concerning Finland places most of them in an utterly inconsistent position. Certainly Fulbright, Saltonstall, Hatch, Thomas of Utah, O'Mahoney and Hill have no cause for excitement over Finland's payment of debts. They have generally regarded debts as beneath contempt. Why should any nation pay its debts? Why should not the comparatively small population of this country carry the entire human race on its shoulders?

They have generally favored forgiving debts, forgetting about them, increasing them, pouring large quantities of good money after bad money. They have supported the uneconomic and improvident British loan which did Great Britain little good and the United States great harm by accelerating the inflation of prices especially of food products. Most of them are supporters of a quick and undebated Marshall Plan which would export some $6,000,000,000 of wealth from this country to Europe annually without consideration for the welfare of this country, with the use of irreplacable raw materials, with stockpiling against a future war, with the prices of food on the American market!

True Finland met her obligations bravely, consistently and honestly. It is equally true that such honesty did not exactly pay off, for when Soviet Russia made war on Finland the United States did not do much for her honest debtor and certainly, in time, we did more for the country that not only did not pay its debts but cancelled them. And when it came to settlements, the United States assisted in the partition of Finland, in so weakening that country that it has become one of Soviet Russia's captive states.

Senator Smith, who had been associated with Herbert Hoover in his many relief activities, knows the sufferings and degradation of Finland and he is to be praised for bringing this issue to the public.

But Senator Smith should apply the same yardstick to all other countires who were willing to forget the contributions this country made to them during and after World War I and through Lend-Lease and other means during World War II and who default with the greatest of ease and then throw at us the lexicon of abuse and hate and, in effect, tell us to go to the devil for our pains.

He might, for instance, tell Panama off in no uncertain language. For the Republic of Panama would today have no existence were it not that Theodore Roosevelt brought it into being. Yet, Panama treat this country viciously. Obviously if there were wisdom in Washington, steps could be taken to make Panama see reason—instead, we cringe before a weakling and imperil our defenses.

What is the use of praising both Finland and the defaulter and thus ingrate at the same time.

Today's Talk

Faces

There is no study in this world so fascinating as the study of faces. My father was so intrigued with faces that he kept a large scrap book, into which he pasted faces that he clipped from everywhere—faces of saints, statesmen and crooks. They were all there. I took a great interest in this study, but when I went to the big cities to live and to work out my physical, mental, and spiritual salvation, I found the living, moving faces upon the streets of far more interest than those in cold photographs, pasted in a book.

For hours I would stand and watch people at a busy street corner in Chicago, and later in New York—and, in fact, I have continued this study of faces in every city, town and village where I happen at time to be. In the faces of people you read life.

You see resemblance, here and there, in faces, but every face is unique—not a single duplicate in all the world, since time began. That is why every face is a study and clothed with interest.

The finger-print and the face are unique to every human being. Thus it is that none of us can escape from ourselves. We cary the evidence of what we are ever with us. But our faces are stamped the stories of our lives. Look about you in any gathering, or as you walk along the street. There you will see worry, suffering, disappointment and triumph, as well, pictured separately upon each face, and a combination of these on many.

Yet, revealing as any face is, there is always somthing else there that is concealed—something hidden, something underneath. You would have to open up the heart to find it! And even then it would escape you. Bliss Perry said that this was always evident in every photograph and painting of Lincoln.

Every day we put something into this face of ours—not only increased age, but something else that we paint there—something that cannot be rubbed out, something permanent. Something that makes this face of ours personal and outstanding. We can make it to shine out like a light!

City Of Cumberland Has New Solicitor

The election by the Mayor and City Council of Thomas B. Finan to be city attorney to serve the unexpired term of Charles Z. Heskett, who resigned, is a commendable one. He will take up his duties January 1, to serve until April 5 when a new city administration will be inducted.

Mr. Finan has much to recommend him to the position, and it can be certain he will discharge his duties with the city's interests ever before him.

Mr. Finan possesses the requisite qualifications to make this so. Responsibility never stumps him and city officials will find him a most capable counselor in all matters pertaining to the position he is about to step into.

He is an indefatigable worker, industrious and conscientious, and members of the City Council may rest assured they will find no reason to regret their action of yesterday.

You don't have to be an old timer to be able to remember when religious fanatics, instead of radio commentators, read the signs of the times and predicted the end of the world.

Treasury Gives Argument For Income Tax Reduction

Although careful to state that it is "making no policy recommendations," the Treasury Department, in the latest of a series of periodic reports to Congress, presents an excellent—even compelling—argument for tax reduction.

Indeed, it is so clearly an argument to that effect that Republican leaders cannot be blamed for seizing upon it as support for the cause they have been sponsoring.

According to the report, an increase in the personal exemptions now allowed would "tend to dampen demands for wage increases." Somewhat similar results, the Treasury goes on to say, might be expected under a reduction in tax rates.

That has been the contention of the men who are framing the majority party tax program. It is one of the purposes behind the bill which Representative Knutson has introduced in Congress and which will be acted upon early in the new session beginning next week.

But it probably would be a mistake to assume that the position of the Treasury is also the position of President Truman. It is so often the case that the right hand of the government does not know what the left hand is doing that it is probably useless to draw any broad conclusions.

To date Truman has stubbornly resisted every effort to lower the tax burden that is weighing down all the people. He vetoed the bill that was passed during the last session. He announced a few days ago that he is still opposed to a reduction.

Representative Knutson calls his bill "veto-proof." Of course, no measure passed by a Republican Congress is veto-proof when a Democrat resides in the White House. Members of Congress are mulling over in their minds this bill as well as the Marshall Plan. They will want to know just how much essential long-range aid abroad will cost before deciding whether or not to cut $5,600,000 a year from our income tax revenue. Nevertheless, the promise of a $7,000,000,000 surplus in the fiscal year is a powerful incentive to tax reduction, for which there are many arguments. And the Knutson bill supplies a firm foundation for such reduction, which Congress is bound to consider seriously.

The Knutson bill would raise the exemption for each taxpayer and dependent by $100, and allow an additional $600 exemption for persons over 65 and for the blind. This is aimed specifically at the lowest income group, which has been hardest hit by inflation. In addition, there would be percentage reductions in the rates: 30 per cent on net income up to $1,000; 20 per cent on the $1,000-$4,000 levels, and 10 per cent on all taxable income above $4,000. Married couples would be allowed to divide their combined incomes in figuring the Federal tax. This would correct the present inequality in favor of couples in the community-property states.

The fact cannot be lost sight of that taxation in the United States is now so high that it has reached the stage of diminishing national returns. It discourages initiative at a time when greater production is needed to check inflation. Because of that, the Knutson bill is bound to receive serious consideration from a lot of Democrats as well as Republican members.

With or without the President's blessing, the Republicans will of course proceed with their plans to provide relief for the taxpayers. The treasury's report hands them still more ammunition for this campaign and reinforce them in their belief that one way to check rising prices is to "dampen the demand for wage increases."

An oil test is being put down four miles in Mexico, which is certainly getting at the bottom of things.

Panamanian Jinks

If past history is a guide, overmuch alarm is not called for by Panama's rejection of an agreement granting the United States extension of leases on 14 vital U. S. defense bases. Central American countries like to kick up a row now and then over the Colossus of the North, but they usually quiet down before the source of some pretty good income is shut off.

The payrolls of 14 defense bases in Panama are not to be sneered at, even by ardent Panamanian patriots. In fact, the question has been asked what Panama would exist on if the big payrolls of the Canal Zone and the military installations in the vicinity were shut off.

Panama cannot even be considered much of a banana country, and there is no doubt that United States coin and United States jobs are important to the economy of the country.

Such countries as Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatamala have raised voice in the past, but they have always recalled that coffee, banana and mahogany trade brings income, and that most of that income comes from the United States.

It is doubtful whether Panama will throw a lot of income out the window, and Uncle Sam holds the power to drum up some conservative thinking in the nation. If Panama persists in its present course, it will be interesting to see what it uses as a substitute for American dollars.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Beryllium Poisoning Is New Threat In Industrial Work

BERYLLIUM poisoning, a newcomer among industrial diseases, is rapidly drawing attention of physicians who are entrusted with the safety and health of workers in this field. The condition is a matter of concern because more and more people are being exposed as increasing uses for the metal are discovered.

The toxic effects of beryllium, unlike those from lead or benzol, often appear several months or years after exposure. Furthermore, it is difficult to predict prospective victims because the manifestations have occurred in a few who had little contact with the substance. On the other hand, many who worked with it for years are not affected. Apparently it is an individual problem and depends upon how the element is handled, whether protective devices are used, cleanliness of the worker, and his surroundings.

If the material comes in direct contact with the skin, a marked dermatitis often develops. This occurs usually on the face, hands and forearms and is generally associated with itching and burning. The epidermis may become swollen, scaly, or covered with weeping sores and the outer membranes of the eyes occasionally become inflamed (conjunctitivitis). Soothing ointments are required and cure will not follow unless the occupation is changed. Ulcers sometimes arise particularly if a beryllium crystal sticks to the skin. Before healing can be expected, the chemical must be washed away or otherwise removed.

Involvement of the respiratory tract is a more definite indication of beryllium poisoning. Many develop a peculiar type of pneumonia, often called "chemical pneumonia" which has manifestations indistinguishable from that caused by the virus. The first sign of poisoning may not be observed for months or years after exposure. It begins frequently as a coryza with sore throat, hacking cough, or running nose. The victim believes that he has a cold but the manifestations do not subside. Meanwhile, appetite wanes and weight is lost. In the more severe type, cough and shortness of breath are present. The lips and skin become blue and the temperature is elevated moderately. X-ray of the chest demonstrates the abnormality.

There is no specific treatment for the disease, consequently considerable reliance must be placed upon prevention.

Beryllium is a relatively unimportant metal when compared with iron, copper, and aluminum but its usefulnes cannot be underestimated. Only tiny percentages are needed as a rule in producing certain alloys in electronics, neon and fluorescent lighting, incandescent gas mantles, and nonsparking tools.

CONDITION OF ARTERIES

T. L. writes: Can hardening of the arteries be determined by an eye examination?

REPLY

Yes. By using an ophthalmoscope, the vessels are clearly visible. This method is easy and convenient but other tests are available. To make the situation more confusing, it should be stated that the condition of the eye structures does not always denote the extent and severity of alertiosclerosis elsewhere in the body.

WHY BOTHER?

Mrs. X. writes: Is it safe for a woman of 70 to have facial hair removed by electrolysis?

REPLY

Age is no factor but most women of 70 have learned the folly of vanity.

TWO EYES AFFECTED

. J. writes: What is bilateral cataract?

REPLY

Both sides are affected by cataracts. In this disturbance, the lens of the eyes become more cloudy and opaque, producing faulty vision.

COLITIS

H. J. writes: "Is inflammation of the small intestine called "colitis?"

REPLY

Yes. The colon is a long tube and any part of it can become inflamed. However, the word "colitis" is generally used to describe irritability of the lower bowel, even tho such terminology is not strictly correct.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

America's annual madness is on—the rush for Rose Bowl tickets. I won't say it's going to be hard to get into the Rose Bowl this New Year's, but the first eleven people in line were the Michigan team.

But it really isn't difficult to get tickets through the regular channels. They're on sale at Samoa . . . you have to swim out there to get 'em. The survivors of whoever drowns nearest to the islands get the tickets.

Just to show you how valuable those pasteboards are, I saw the holder of a Rose Bowl ticket and the holder of a winning ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes swap, even up.

Everybody wants to get into that bowl. I saw one gopher give another gopher eight kernels of corn for a hole under the 50-yard line.

There was a report that counterfeit Rose Bowl tickets were in circulation, so I've been more careful. In fact, I've been so cautious I don't burn the basement light anymore.

But it's no wonder. That game has attracted worldwide interest. The Rose Bowl committee even got an offer from Amsterdam, Holland . . . They want the winner for a Tulip Bowl game.

But I haven't missed a Rose Bowl game in ten years. In fact, I've sat through so many games, I've almost got the branch worn out.

French Freedom Train Also Stops At Way Stations For Speeches; Pearson Brothers Revert To Childhood Relationship; French Communists Deflated

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

MARSEILLES, Dec. 29. (By Wireless)—It takes about 10 hours for a fast train to travel from Paris across France to Marseilles. The French Friendship Train, however, took three days.

The was not an accident. The schedule was deliberately planned that way, in order to duplicate in reverse the American Friendship Train which required 11 days to travel from Los Angeles to New York.

Not only was the schedule purposely slow, but the French train even carried the same type of flat-car equipped with a loudspeaker as the American train from which we made speeches at railroad stations across the U. S.

Because the Friendship Train came from the American people, not the Government, Geoffrey Parsons, editor of the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune was asked to accommpany the train as chairman and master of ceremonies.

At each station, the local French Friendship Committee, together with the Americans accompanying the train, climbed on the flatcar and Parsons led off with a brief speech telling how the train was organized in the United States, how it had collected contributions from all walks of American life and was truly a spontaneous gesture from the American people.

Following this, Robert Blake of American Aid to France explained briefly that the food was going chiefly to French children and told how it was being distributed through French schools, orphanages and hospitals. He also introduced representatives of the three American church groups — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — which are supervising the distribution together with representatives of two French groups, the French Red Cross and Entre'aide.

I spoke next and, after a few words in very poor French, turned the microphone over to my brother, Leon, as spokesman for me.

My mother used to tell the story of how my brother and I, at the ages of 6 and 10, kept chickens and sold eggs. According to her, I would ring the doorbell, than push my small brother forward to greet the housewife and do the talking. Some senators say that of recent years I have got over this reticence. In France, however, my brother—who has spent some years here for the International News Service and the National Broadcasting Company—did a beautiful job of explaining the Friendship Train to the French people.

He told various stories about the schoolchildren, the labor unions, the businessmen, the churches, the farmers and the different towns which contributed to the train and he did it so graphically that it brought cheers from the crowds at the railroad stations.

The local mayor then responded, followed by the perfect. The former is elected by the people of the city; the latter is the representative of the French Government, appointed from Paris.

In every city, the railroad station was packed with people—children lined the platform for a couple of blocks.

The station at Valence, just two weeks before our arrival, had been the scene of a bitter railroad strike. Four men had been killed. Bullet holes still marked the walls. The strike, Communist-inspired, was partly against receiving American aid under the Marshall Plan. But on the walls alongside the bullet marks, when the Friendship Train arrived, was a huge banner reading: "Welcome et merci!"

Incidentally, one thing which has made a great impression in France is the fact that many American railroad workers contributed their salaries for one day to help haul the Friendship Train across the U.S.A. The fact that the CIO steel workers union in Pittsburgh gave a carload of milk and the steelworkers and coalminers in Windber, Pa., gave a car has greatly impressed left-wing French labor leaders. To some extent, it has taken the wind out of their argument that it's only American capitalists who want to help the French and for purley imperialistic reasons.

At Valence, scene of the recent bitter railroad strike, several Communist members of the City Council came to the Friendship Train reception in the City Hall. They stayed in the background and seemed more curious than hospitable. But other Frenchmen remarked that public opinion was so strong for the Friendship Train, the Communists obviously thought it was smart politics to be present.

At American railroad stations, the Friendship Train remained only 45 minutes. But because nothing like this had ever come through France before, the French insisted that the train stay longer. Our minimum stop, therefore, was two hours and in some cases we spent the entire afternoon and evening being feted by these hospitable people.

Gen. Henri Giraud, leader of the French forces in North Africa who cooperated with U. S. troops, came to visit the Friendship Train at its first stop—Dijon . . . At the Friendship Train reception in Lyons, the local Grand Rabbi took the local Grand Mufti in tow, introducing him to the Americans. "The Jews and the Mohammedans in Lyons are already practicing the principle of your Friendship Train," the Rabbi said. "We believe in getting along together." . . . The mayor of each French city insisted that we visit his town hall—usually a beautiful building of ancient architecture.

A dozen French newsmen and women rode on the Friendship Train from Paris to Marseilles, all of them young. French newsmen generally are young—the explanation being that most older newsmen collaborated with the Germans and a new crop of youngsters has taken their place . . . Remarked a French electrician who operated the loudspeaker for the Friendship Train: "During the war my automobile was marchine-gunned by an American airplane; my chauffeur was killed and I was wounded in three places. Since then, I haven't liked Americans. However, the Friendship Train has made me realize that when they shot at me it was only a mistake that friends sometimes make. For the first time since the war, I have got over being anti-American."

Cold War In Greece Remains Critical; Decision Faces U. S.

By MARK SULLIVAN

Over the holiday and weekend, while the news and the people were occupied first with Christmas and then with blizzards, occurred an event which carries our relation to the world into a new stage. The event occured in Greece and superficially seemed not a specially important addition to news that has been coming from that country for a considerable time. The armed Communist group that has been active in northern Greece set up what it called a provisional government, and sought to capture a city in order to have a capital.

For relating this event to America's relation to the world go back to November 7th. On that day was issued the frankest official statement yet made about America's place and state in the attempt of Communism to dominate the world. The document did not deal primarily with this subject, and in the part presently significant did not deal primarily with this subject, and in the part presently significant did not mention Russia by name. It was the report of the President's Committee on Foreign Aid. It derived distinction from it candour and thoroughness, and also from the standing and circumstances of the men composing the Committee. They included seven heads or representatives of universities, and several labor leaders, business men and public officials. The gamut of thought in the Committee took in the chairman, W. Averill Harriman who is Secretary of Commerce and has a conservative background; and has an able representative of American liberalism, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

Ideological War Ruthless

A passage in this official report goes almost as far as the informal talk of average citizens in recognizing the seriousness of our relations with Russia (though Russia is not named in the passage). It reads:

"Open ideological war has been declared already by the totalitarian nations and their satellites upon all other nations and peoples believing in individual liberty. It has been called a "cold war". . . It is cold only in the sense that guns are not shooting and bombs and guided missiles are not exploding. In every other respect, the ideological war of Communists is as ruthless and as determined a drive to achieve world domination as a hot war."

Part of this war is the attempt to Communize Greece, spearheaded by a little group of Communists, many of them from a neighboring Balkan Communist country. Yugoslavia. The present action of the group in setting up a provisional government on Greek soil is read by informed Washington in the light of another event in the Balkans, the two composing a new stage of the Communist war.

Several of the Balkan countries, satellites of Communist Russia, have made treaties of alliance with each other, the most recent last week was Yugoslavia with Hungary. About this series of treaties is a strongly held Washington surmise, related to the Communist development in Greece last week. The Balkan countries, Communist and satellites of Russia, are likely, it is expected, to become a federation. The federation could recognize the Greek Communists as a de facto government. Thereafter the Greek Communists could, under recognized international usage, procure arms and supplies from nearby Communist countries.

Threat Would Be More Formidable

By such a development, threat to the independence of Greece, and also Turkey, would become far more formidable than it was last March, when President Truman took account of it. He announced that we would help those countries preserve their independence, and we have in fact helped them with funds and material through an appropriation of 400 million dollars made by Congress.

If the presently surmised development takes place, we will be faced by necessity for a decision, which indeed is more or less implied by what we have already done. On the world front where Communism faces the resistance to it which we spearhead, Greece and Turkey will be a point where the conflict is critical. In the terms used by the President's Committee on Foreign Aid, the cold war will move a step closer to take on the characteristics of a hot war. Belief in Washington is that while Russia will not pull a trigger, she will, by actions short of that, test our determination to resist. Part of our answer is not far ahead. The grant we made Greece and Turkey last year expires next June 30th. We must decide whether we will continue to support those countries in a changed condition in which the threat to them is increased.

Blame For Dispute Between U.S. And Panama Not One-Sided

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A lesson in good manners and neighborliness is involved in the dispute between Panama and the United States—and the blame is not all on one side.

For years the people of Panama have felt that the United States, in its treatment of civil employes in the Canal Zone, has shown discrimination in pay and privileges between Panamanians and Americans. For years the merchants across the boundary from the Canal Zone which is perpetually under American sovereignty have felt that the American commissaries, with their advantages and privileges, have practiced a sort of economic competition unfavorable to them.

When you add to this the feeling of distrust that a small nation has for a larger country, it is easy to see how a small band of crusaders can swing public sentiment and produce national resentment.

The treaty which the Panama government had signed only recently was to have gone through the National Assembly with 41 votes but under the inspiration of a small minority an emotional wave swept the country and the treaty was unanimously defeated, 51 to 0.

The result is a serious blow to the prestige of the United States throughout all Latin America. It implies, on the one hand, that the American government underestimated sentiment in Panama and also that anti-Americanism is a fertile field for Communist agitators to cultivate. It is an exaggeration to say the Communists in Panama defeated the treaty. They merely helped by dramatizing the issue.

U. S. Behavior Surprise

The behavior of the United States since the treaty was defeated was a surprise to the Panamanians, to Latin America and perhaps to Moscow as well. Instead of standing on the letter of an agreement which was signed in 1942 between the United States and Panama giving America the right to retain certain bases until "one year after a definite treaty of peace is signed with Japan," the Department of State recommended and the War Department promptly carried out an evacuation of American troops from th Panama bases.

The United States thus tells Rus sia—for application to Europea and Asiatic problems—that a stron power doesn't keep its troops on th territory of a weak country if th latter declares it to be an infringe ment of sovereignty.

But where does the defense of th Panama Canal come in? Certainl without strategic air bases capabl of handling B-29s, the defense o the great seaway is weakened. Sinc there is no war in immediate pros pect, and since the United State has ample opportunity to conside other means of defense or othe routes for the canal, there wa every reason for prompt with drawal.

The people of Panama will soone or later wake up to the fact, tha in denying the bases on emotiona grounds, the Assembly has deliver ed a body blow to the economi future of Panama. Instead of a 10 year agreement for the bases, seems unlikely now that Congres will invest, as had been proposed $2,500,000,000 for the improvemen of the canal unless a better an longer lease agreement is made.

Much of the money would hav been spent in Panama in the for of payroll and the merchants woul have benefitted greatly from th boom. Maybe they never thought o this before. Now members of Con gress are talking about other route and the whole idea of appropriatin more money will be deferred unt after Panama and the U. S. hav negotiated and ratified a ne agreement.

Meanwhile a presidential electio in Panama will soon be held an the political crosscurrents that cap italized an anti-Americanism wi have a chance to subside. Likewis the American government will d well in the interim to study care fully the causes of the sudden tur in the assembly and to determin what, if anything, can be done t end the discriminations in th Panama area which have grown a customs for many years but whic now can bear re-examination, not modification, in the interest o better relations.

These Days

The Case Of Finland

Senators Smith, Fulbright, Saltonsall, Bricker, Knowland, Hatch, Lodge, Thomas of Utah, O'Mahoney and Hill joined in a fascinating gesture toward Finland, the only country that paid its debts to the United States, come hell and high water.

Senator Alexander Smith said:

"Since that time, twenty-eight years ago, when other nations, great and small, rich and poor, have defaulted on their debt payments, the heroic people of little Finland have repeatedly demonstrated that they place integrity above comfort or convenience. They have constantly made payments on their indebtedness to the United States as those payments fell due."

So the Senator and his colleagues made a proposal to use the money that Finland pays on the debt from now on, to educate Finnish boys and girls in this country for usefulness to their own.

Senator Smith comments on this idea:

". . . Circumstances of course, make it impossible for Finland to send them here in any large numbers, and of course obviously the suggestion is impractical. But there is something we can do to aid them in their grim struggle against disease, destruction and want. We can extend to them the hand of friendship in their desperate need by offering to help them train a new generation of technical experts to replace their war-lost generation. On the basis of population, Finland's war losses were ten times greater than those of the United States."

To this, I say, Amen!

Nevertheless it is unnecessary to point out to these Senators Senators that their just and fine action concerning Finland places most of them in an utterly inconsistent position. Certainly Fulbright, Saltonstall, Hatch, Thomas of Utah, O'Mahoney and Hill have no cause for excitement over Finland's payment of debts. They have generally regarded debts as beneath contempt. Why should any nation pay its debts? Why should not the comparatively small population of this country carry the entire human race on its shoulders?

They have generally favored forgiving debts, forgetting about them, increasing them, pouring large quantities of good money after bad money. They have supported the uneconomic and improvident British loan which did Great Britain little good and the United States great harm by accelerating the inflation of prices especially of food products. Most of them are supporters of a quick and undebated Marshall Plan which would export some $6,000,000,000 of wealth from this country to Europe annually without consideration for the welfare of this country, with the use of irreplacable raw materials, with stockpiling against a future war, with the prices of food on the American market?

True Finland met her obligations bravely, consistently and honestly. It is equally true that such honesty did not exactly pay off, for when Soviet Russia made war on Finland the United States did not do much for her honest debtor and certainly, in time, we did mor for the country that not only di not pay its debts but cancelle them. And when it came to settle ments, the United States assiste in the partition of Finland, in s weakening that country that has become one of Soviet Russia captive states.

Senator Smith, who had been as sociated with Herbert Hoover in hi many relief activities, knows th sufferings and degradation of l land and he is to be praised fo bringing this issue to the public.

But Senator Smith should apply the same yardstick to all other countires who were willing to forget the contributions this country made to them during and after World War I and through Lend-Lease and other means during World War II and who default with the greatest of ease and then throw at us the lexicon of abuse and hate and, in effect, tell us to go to the devil for our pains.

He might, for instance, tell Pan ama off in no uncertain language For the Republic of Panama woul today have no existence were it no that Theodore Roosevelt brough it into being. Yet, Panama treat this country viciously. Obviously if there were wisdom in Washing ton, steps could be taken to mak Panama see reason—instead, w cringe before a weakling and im peril our defenses.

What is the use of praising bot Finland and the defaulter and th ingrate at the same time.

Faces

There is no study in this world s fascinating as the study of face My father was so intrigued with faces that he kept a large scrap book, into which he pasted face that he clipped from everywhere— faces of saints, statesmen an crooks. They were all there. I too a great interest in this study, bu when I went to the big cities to liv and to work out my physical, men tal, and spiritual salvation, I foun the living, moving faces upon th streets of far more interest tha those in cold photographs, paste in a book.

For hours I would stand an watch people at a busy street corne in Chicago, and later in New York— and, in fact, I have continued thi study of faces in every city, town and village where I happen at time to be. In the faces of people yo read life.

You see resemblance, here an there, in faces, but every face i unique—not a single duplicate i all the world, since time began That is why every face is a study and clothed with interest.

The finger-print and the face ar unique to every human being. Thu it is that none of us can escape fron ourselves. We cary the evidence o what we are ever with us. But our faces are stamped the stories our lives. Look about you in an gathering, or as you walk along the street. There you will see worry suffering, disappointment and tri umph, as well, pictured separately upon each face, and a combinatio of these on many.

Yet, revealing as any face is, there is always somthing else there that is concealed—something hidden something underneath. You would have to open up the heart to find it! And even then it would escape you. Bliss Perry said that this was always evident in every photograph and painting of Lincoln.

Every day we put something into this face of ours—not only increased age, but something else that we paint there—something that cannot be rubbed out, something permanent. Something that makes this face of ours personal and outstanding. We can make it to shine out like a light!

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

"There's a lot of old books and papers in the cellar," said my missus. "I wish you'd throw away what you don't need."

Under a yellowed copy of "Rag-Time Cowboy Joe," I came across an old notebook. On the cover was neatly lettered, "Maxims and Precepts—5th Grade, P.S. 44—1913." I sat down on a case stamped "Ajax Stereoptician Projector," and took a look at the advice they were passing out to kids thirty-five years ago.

Billy Rose

On page one, in fairish Palmer penmanship, was the line, "It takes two to make a bargain." That's not so smart, I said to myself. A kid reading the newspapers a couple of weeks back would get all confused. The Big Four Conference in London broke up even though three of the principals agreed. Nowadays, the maxim should read, "It takes at least four to make a bargain."

On page two, I came across another oldie—"If you want a thing well done, do it yourself." There's an anti-union statement if I ever saw one, I thought. And a bum steer for anyone who isn't handy with tools. Up in the country last summer I fixed a leaky pipe and put some new tubes in the radio. By the time I was through, water was gushing out of the loud speaker.

"There's nothing new under the sun." How do you tell that to kids who are building their own television sets, and reading about D.D.T. and penicillin. And how silly that line must look today in the Hiroshima schoolbooks.

"A stitch in time saves nine." A bright kid is a cinch to ask, why nine? Why not seven or ten? And why fill the youngster's head with bum rhyme schemes? If he decides to become a songwriter, he'll never get that double-A ASCAP check by rhyming "time" with "nine."

Halfway through the old notebook I found a lulu—"What you don't know won't hurt you." In other words, if you have a bad ticker, don't ask the doctor about it—play tennis until you drop dead. When you buy a bond, don't inquire into the assets of the company—after all, the poorhouse is only over the hill. And when you pick up a revolver, don't bother to find out if it's loaded—just shoot yourself in the foot.

"Opportunity knocks but once." More phonus bolognus. Unless I'm nuts, opportunity is knocking all the time. The trouble is we don't take the cotton out of our ears. It's only when opportunity breaks down the door and yells, "Hey, you!" that we bow politely and offer it a cigarette.

"Curiosity killed a cat." I wonder if the joker who wrote that ever heard about Dr. Freud, Marconi, Edison, Newton, Columbus, Galileo, et. al. If not for these priceless noseybodies, we might still be living in caves with hot and cold running wind.

"Beauty is only skin deep." Mebby, but certainly not in my business. I never heard tell of a girl getting a job in the theatre because she had a beautiful liver.

"The race is not always to the swift." Well, that's a fine line to hand a lot of American kids who are all potential horse players.

"Everybody loves a fat man." It's my hunch that this precept was planted by the candy cartel. It must read pretty funny to the millions of smallies who idolize Gary Cooper, Gene Autry and Cary Grant. Al Capone was a fat man. Is the precept trying to tell me he hired those bodyguards to protect him from his admirers?

"You can't judge a leopard by its spots." I'd hate to try selling that one to the little girl who's waiting to grow up and buy her first fur coat.

As I thumbed through my notebook, I found dozens of precepts which contradicted each other. If "Curiosity killed a cat" is right, then "Necessity is the mother of invention" is all haywire. I admit that necessity is sometimes the mother of invention, as in the case of cyclotron and sulfa drugs. But I don't think that it had anything to do with the invention of the telephone. I doubt whether anyone said to Mr. Bell, "I need one desperately." It's my hunch no one knew the black dingus was a necessity until the telephone company started advertising.

Let me bore you with one more example of the hogwash in my notebook: "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today." I guess the fellow who dreamed this one up never heard about the executive who tacked a big "Do It Now" sign over the water cooler. That very day, his manager socked him in the eye, the cashier walked out with the pay roll, and the office boy ran off with the boss's secretary.

In "Bartlett's Quotations," there are a couple of lines by John Hay which I'd like to offer in summing up. "The use of proverbs is characteristic of an unlettered people. They are invaluable treasures to dunces with good memories."

Anyone want an old notebook?

A Three Days' Cough is Your Danger Signal

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

"There's a lot of old books and papers in the cellar," said my missus. "I wish you'd throw away what you don't need."

Under a yellowed copy of "Rag-Time Cowboy Joe," I came across an old notebook. On the cover was neatly lettered, "Maxims and Precepts—5th Grade, P.S. 44—1913." I sat down on a case stamped "Ajax Stereoptician Projector," and took a look at the advice they were passing out to kids thirty-five years ago.

Billy Rose

On page one, in fairish Palmer penmanship, was the line, "It takes two to make a bargain." That's not so smart, I said to myself. A kid reading the newspapers a couple of weeks back would get all confused. The Big Four Conference in London broke up even though three of the principals agreed. Nowadays, the maxim should read, "It takes at least four to make a bargain."

On page two, I came across another oldie—"If you want a thing well done, do it yourself." There's an anti-union statement if I ever saw one, I thought. And a bum steer for anyone who isn't handy with tools. Up in the country last summer I fixed a leaky pipe and put some new tubes in the radio. By the time I was through, water was gushing out of the loud speaker.

"There's nothing new under the sun." How do you tell that to kids who are building their own television sets, and reading about D.D.T. and penicillin. And how silly that line must look today in the Hiroshima schoolbooks.

"A stitch in time saves nine." A bright kid is a cinch to ask, why nine? Why not seven or ten? And why fill the youngster's head with bum rhyme schemes? If he decides to become a songwriter, he'll never get that double-A ASCAP check by rhyming "time" with "nine."

Halfway through the old notebook I found a lulu—"What you don't know won't hurt you." In other words, if you have a bad ticker, don't ask the doctor about it—play tennis until you drop dead. When you buy a bond, don't inquire into the assets of the company—after all, the poorhouse is only over the hill. And when you pick up a revolver, don't bother to find out if it's loaded—just shoot yourself in the foot.

"Opportunity knocks but once." More phonus bolognus. Unless I'm nuts, opportunity is knocking all the time. The trouble is we don't take the cotton out of our ears. It's only when opportunity breaks down the door and yells, "Hey, you!" that we bow politely and offer it a cigarette.

"Curiosity killed a cat." I wonder if the joker who wrote that ever heard about Dr. Freud, Marconi, Edison, Newton, Columbus, Galileo, et. al. If not for these priceless noseybodies, we might still be living in caves with hot and cold running wind.

"Beauty is only skin deep." Mebby, but certainly not in my business. I never heard tell of a girl getting a job in the theatre because she had a beautiful liver.

"The race is not always to the swift." Well, that's a fine line to hand a lot of American kids who are all potential horse players.

"Everybody loves a fat man." It's my hunch that this precept was planted by the candy cartel. It must read pretty funny to the millions of smallies who idolize Gary Cooper, Gene Autry and Cary Grant. Al Capone was a fat man. Is the precept trying to tell me he hired those bodyguards to protect him from his admirers?

"You can't judge a leopard by its spots." I'd hate to try selling that one to the little girl who's waiting to grow up and buy her first fur coat.

As I thumbed through my notebook, I found dozens of precepts which contradicted each other. If "Curiosity killed a cat" is right, then "Necessity is the mother of invention" is all haywire. I admit that necessity is sometimes the mother of invention, as in the case of cyclotron and sulfa drugs. But I don't think that it had anything to do with the invention of the telephone. I doubt whether anyone said to Mr. Bell, "I need one desperately." It's my hunch no one knew the black dingus was a necessity until the telephone company started advertising.

Let me bore you with one more example of the hogwash in my notebook: "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today." I guess the fellow who dreamed this one up never heard about the executive who tacked a big "Do It Now" sign over the water cooler. That very day, his manager socked him in the eye, the cashier walked out with the pay roll, and the office boy ran off with the boss's secretary.

In "Bartlett's Quotations," there are a couple of lines by John Hay which I'd like to offer in summing up. "The use of proverbs is characteristic of an unlettered people. They are invaluable treasures to dunces with good memories."

Lawrence J. Klosterman Weds Mary Olive Collins

Parents To Entertain For Newlyweds Tonight

Miss Mary Olive Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joseph Collins, Colonial Heights, Va., became the bride of Lawrence Jerome Klosterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bernard Klosterman, Saturday.

The ceremony was solemnized at 10 a. m., in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Petersburg, Va., with Rev. John J. Brochtrup, pastor, officiating and Ronald Proud, Cumberland, nephew of the bridegroom, serving as acolyte. The altar was elaborately decorated with bouquets of poinsettias against a background of ever green and cathedral candles. The program of nuptial music was played by Herbert Tillery.

Miss Marian Collins was her cousin's maid of honor and Mrs. Edward Joseph Collins, Jr., was matron of honor. Theb ridesmaids were Mrs. Raymond Logsdon, LaVale, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Betty Lund, Petersburg, Va.; and Miss Kate Mapp James, Franktown, Va.

Mr. Klosterman had as his best man his brother-in-law, Raymond J. Logsdon, LaVale; and the ushers were William F. Klosterman, brother of the bridegroom, also of Cumberland; Leslie H. Jenkins, Byson City, N. C., Edward Joseph Collins, Jr., and William L. Collins, brothers of the bride, Petersburg.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white slipper satin, made with a fitted bodice, with a sheer marquisette yoke outlined with seed pearls, long tapering sleeves and her full skirt ending in a circular train. Her veil of issusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and she carried her grandmother's prayer book, covered with phalaenopsis orchids with a shower of narcisi.

Her attendants were gowned in emerald green velveteen fashioned with fitted bodice and bustles. They wore matching headdresses and gauntlets and carried bouquets of red poinsettias.

Mrs. Collins was attired in a royal blue dress with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red carnations. Mrs. Klosterman chose a black costume for her son's wedding, with which she wore a corsage of red carnations.

The bride attended St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg and is a graduate of Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, and in June received her B. S. in Library Science from the University of North Carolina. The bridegroom is a graduate of LaSalle High School and attended St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa. Since his discharge from the Army he is a student at the University of North Carolina.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Collins, for their daughter and her bridal party, at "Folly Castle", after which Mr. and Mrs. Klosterman left for a northern trip. For traveling the bride chose a green suit with brown accessories, a matching green coat trimmed in mouton and a matching fur hat. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Klosterman will make their home in Durham, while the former is attending the University of North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Klosterman will entertain with an informal reception, honoring their son and his bride, tonight, at the LaVale fireman's hall, beginning at 7 o'clock. The bridal motif will be carried out with a tiered wedding cake, white flowers and candelabra of white tapers. Approximately 150 guests are expected.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Klosterman, Mrs. Earl Crowe, Robert S. Klosterman, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Deal, Cumberland; Brother Alphonsis O'Neil, Washington D. C., Miss Mary Silk Thompson, Baltimore; John Trzecieski, New York Ctiy; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Paige, Huntington, W. Va.; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Thomas H. Magness, Edgewood; Wilmer A Breedlove, Durham, Miss Helen Gray Gilliam, Windsor, N. C.; Miss Francis Ann Beale, Holland; Miss Louise Lilly, and John Lilly, Suffolk, Va.

The Rapplier Club will celebrate its 15th anniversary with wives and sweethearts guests at the dinner-dance to be held New Year's Night.

The informal affair is to be held in the private dining room on the second floor at Clary Club, beginning at 6:30.

State-Wide Poll Shows Michigan Voters Leaning Toward GOP Now

53 Per Cent Prefer Republican Party

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Reports on political sentiment in the leading states will be issued from time to time by the Gallup Poll, as the 1948 presidential campaign warms up. Political sentiment in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio has already been reported. Today's poll covers Michigan.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 28 — Michigan, outstanding example of a see-saw state politically, is today leaning toward the Republicans in the 1948 presidential race.

Interviewing of a cross-section of voters throughout the state shows that a small majority would favor the Republican party if a presidential election were being held today.

Of four large states whose presidential sentiments have been reported in recent weeks by the Institute, Michigan is the only one in the Republican column.

The four:

"If a presidential election were held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or the Republican?"

	Dem.	Rep.
Michigan	47%	53%
New York	53	47
Pennsylvania	51	49
Ohio	51	49

The last two presidential elections in Michigan were photo-finish affairs. Wendell Willkie carried the state for the Republicans in 1940 with a tiny fraction over 50 per cent of the vote. In 1944, however, Michigan went Democratic, also by the narrowest of margins. The history of the state's presidential voting since 1932 is shown below. Michigan has 19 electoral votes.

HOW MICHIGAN VOTED
(Major Party Vote)

	% Dem.	% Rep.
1936	59.2	40.8
1944	50.5	49.5

Because of Michigan's fame as a manufacturing and industrial center, many Americans living elsewhere have the impression that it is a highly-urbanized state. Actually, the three big cities of Michigan —Detroit, Flint and Grand Rapids —account for only about 40 per cent of the state's population and votes. The rest is made up of medium-sized cities, towns and rural areas. These later form a Republican stronghold. While Wayne County which contains Detroit, votes overwhelmingly Democratic in presidential elections (64 per cent in 1944), this vote is largely offset by Republican ballots elsewhere in the state.

Hence the Republican lead in today's poll is not surprising in view of the plural and small-town character of much of the state. In fact, Michigan is a traditionally Republican state if we judge by the last 12 presidential elections.

The Democrats caried it only three times, while the G. O. P. won eight times. The Progressive party of Teddy Roosevelt (Bull Moose ticket) carried it in 1912.

Stan Miasek, leading scorer of the Chicago Stags of the Basketball Association of America, played first base last season for Trenton of the Interstate League.

P. E. Weaver To Wed Miss Stemple

The marriage of Miss Audrey Wilson Stemple daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stemple, 614 Maryland Avenue, to Paul Edward Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude G Weaver, 536 Eastern Avenue, will be performed tonight. Rev. M. A Kesecker will officiate at the candlelight ceremony at 8 o'clock, in Kingsley Methodist Church.

The bridal party will include Miss Maxine Hawkins, maid of honor; Robert Shearer, best man; James A. Stemple and William Rowley, ushers. Mrs. Edna Loper will play the nuptial music and James Hager is to be soloist.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and is employed as receptionist at Memorial Hospital. Her fiance is also a graduate of Fort Hill and is a veteran of 28 months service in the Army Air Force, serving in the Pacific Theater. He is employed by the George F. Hazelwood Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Stemple will entertain in honor of their daughter and her bridal party with a reception at the VFW home following the ceremony. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, Mrs. Helene Bujac, Mrs. Mildred Pike, Mrs Bertha Shae, Mrs. Lillian Zimmerman, Mrs. Verna Whiteford, Mrs Betty Morgan and Mrs. Rosalie Everstine.

Upon their return from an eastern trip Mr. Weaver and his bride will reside at 312 Park Street.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29—(INS)—John Huston, son of Walter and an able director, himself, and Sam Speigel, who was formerly with the William Goetz organization, will start the new year with their own company.

Georgia Carroll famous play.

They are calling it Horizon Productions, which is significant because they plan to shoot their movies on the spot. Their first venture will be "The Idiot," Dostoyevsky's

Everybody seems to be off for distant parts. Many Hollywood stars who aren't already at Sun Valley or in New York for the holidays, are leaving soon after the first of the year.

Mervyn Leroy and his wife Kitty, head for New York January 5. But I can't exactly say they are going for a vacation. While there Mervyn will take a look at "Command Decision" which he'll make with Clark Gable, and also "Annie Get Your Gun," which he is also to direct

Herb Yates is completely sold on John Carroll. In fact, he's going all out to give Carroll the roles John Wayne used to get. Now he's bought a western period yarn called "Romance Of the Gaucho."

Bing Crosby has his radio show recorded up to March 17 and with "Connecticut Yankee" almost finished, he's as free as a bird. So. he and Dixie are taking off on a trip, a long one, and not telling anyone where they are going.

Marlene Dietrich leaves for Paris as soon as she finishes "Foreign Affair" for Charles Brackett and Bill Wilder. That despite the fact that she has had some very exciting offers to stay in Hollywood and make a movie.

When Gladys Robinson started to paint no one really took her seriously. When she talked about her career, there were lifted eyebrows and a few little laughs. Now I hear from no less a fine artist than Ross Shattuck that he believes she will be the sensation in art circles next year.

She has an exhibition at the Associated American Artists.

The Art Club of the University of Nebraska is sending representatives out here for two weeks in March to study Robinson's fine art collection.

Jane Meadows, the girl who left town after she played a part in "Lady In the Lake," because she said she was fed up with Hollywood, is back again—not so fed up with our town, it seems, because she'd like to get a job.

Lew Ayres has been escorting her about. She's a beautiful girl and her family has enough money so that she doesn't have to worry about working.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Ann Miller with Mike Levy, Jr. having dinner for two at the Tally-ho.

Virginia Welles, a Paramount actress, and Jim Jordan, Fibber Mcgee and Molly's son, dancing cheek-to-cheek at the Biltmore Bowl.

Don't be surprised if Terry Hunt marries Marian Murray, an actress. He has been quietly courting her a long tome.

Arthur Murray has signed Gregory Peck as dance instructor — no relation to our Gregory Peck, the actor. But the dance gent has been forced to change his name to George on account of the ribbing he took. Another reason he changed his name is because he goes into a Broadway show.

Kay Kyser, who does so much good in our town helping others, will observe a double celebration in February, the arrival of the new baby, and his 10th anniversary as professor of the College of Musical Knowledge on the air.

A postal card from Lilli Palmer from Switzerland. She says she's having a skiing holiday, but so far no records broken or legs either. Says she and Rex will be back early next month.

That's all today.

"VETERAN" ACTOR—Fifteen-year-old Bobby Antoine, veteran actor of stage and radio is featured in the cast of "The Constant Invader," presented by the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association on Station WTBO on Mondays and Fridays at 7:45 p. m. Bobby has appeared on Broadway in "Tomorrow The World" and is heard regularly on the airwaves in "The Eternal Light," "Grand Central Station," "We the People," and "Theater Guild."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AHS And Fort Hill Play Grads Tonight

Donnie Keiser To Fight Jack Klosterman Jan. 12

Local Welters Head Diamond's Opening Card

Jim Klosterman Is Show Matchmaker

Donnie Keiser and Jack Klosterman, two of the Cumberland's outstanding amateur welterweight boxers, will provide the fireworks in the feature bout of the Diamond Athletic Club's initial fistic carnival at the State Armory, Monday, January 12, it was announced last night by Jim Klosterman, former amateur ring ace who is making his debut as matchmaker.

Keiser and Klosterman are scheduled to fight three rounds on a program of eight or more bouts.

Donnie is a son of Fay W. Keiser, one-time professional boxer, who fought the best in the game, while Jack is a brother of Jim Klosterman, D.A.C. matchmaker.

Since Jan. 1, Keiser has engaged in eight bouts, winning six and losing two. Klosterman also figured in eight matches this year, emerging victorious in five while losing three.

Matchmaker Klosterman hopes to find bouts for Paul Lepley, Bill Frazier, Bill Mann, Jake Koelker and Jimmie Brown, all Diamond Athletic Club leather pushers, on the January 12 card.

The show, the sixth of the 1947-48 season here, will get under way at 8 p. m.

Tickets will go on sale Friday at the Windsor Restaurant, McGee's Tavern, Maryland Avenue, and the Royale Dairy.

TANGLE IN COTTON BOWL—Two of the nation's strongest football elevens this past season, undefeated Penn State and undefeated but tied-once Southern Methodist, collide in the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas, Texas on New Year's Day for one of the stellar attractions on the January 1 program. The Mustangs' attack will center on the All-American back, Doak Walker, while Penn State's powerful eastern eleven will counter with a flock of ball carriers headed by Elwood Petchell and Jeff Durkota.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

Burt Shotton

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Even the weatherman sometimes makes a slight error in forecasting the next day's weather, so it's only natural that anyone trying to predict what will happen in the next 365 days might be a little wrong once in awhile.

For instance, here are a few sports happenings of 1947, and had anyone had the nerve to predict them, he would have been called balmier than a summer's night:

The ousting of Leo Durocher and the signing of an elderly gentleman to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers, with the elderly gentleman, Burt Shotton, piloting them to a pennant.

The near-defeat (or defeat, if you want it that way) of champion Joe Louis by an aging and slightly shopworn fighter named Jersey Joe Walcott.

The winning of the National League batting championship by a guy named Harry Walker, who was traded off by the Cardinals because he wasn't good enough.

The defeat suffered by Floyd Bevens and the Yankees in the world series' game in which he allowed only one hit.

The snapping of the Army's undefeated string by a Columbia team rated so-so.

The victory of Lew Worsham in the National Open in a field in which he was no better than a 100 to 1 shot.

Mello Bettina, aspirant to the heavyweight championship, getting himself knocked out in one round by Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich.

The winning of the National League's most valuable player award by Bob Elliott, who had been traded by the Pirates to the Braves.

Willie Turnesa, a good golfer but still a long shot, winning the British Amateur.

The turning pro of Babe Didrikson after being the first American to win the British Women's Golf Championship.

The flop of Red Sox and Cardinal pitching which cost the defending champions and pre-season favorites their flag changes.

The resignation of Larry MacPhail and his dropping from the public eye so rapidly he practically is forgotten.

A couple of relief pitchers—Hughsey of Brooklyn and Joe Page of the Yankees—performing so capably they were mentioned as candidates for most valuable player honors.

The Yankees winning the pennant without Joe Gordon, with Charley Keller out most of the season, and Joe Di Maggio not in the best of condition.

The Red Sox moving Joe Cronin to the front office and Joe McCarthy signing as field manager.

The victory of Holy Cross in the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament.

The fine winning streak of Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati, and the astonishing showing of the team as a whole.

The departure of Billy Herman after the one season of managing the Pirates.

Colts Finished $150,000 In Red

To Curtail Expenses, Espey May Join Yanks

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—General Manager Jack Espey of the Baltimore Colts today confirmed reports that he is negotiating for a job with the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference, and owner Bob Rodenberg said the proposed shift has his approval.

"I have talked to an official of the New York club xxx on such a possibility," said Espey. "I do not know what type of job the Yankees may have in mined for me, but if Topping (Owner Dan Topping) wants to see me about a position, I certainly am going to talk to him."

Baltimore is reported to have lost $150,000 during 1947, its first season in the AAC and Rodenberg has made it known that any curtailment of expenses would primarily affect the front office.

Regarding Espey's dickering for the new job, Rodenberg said, "I don't want to let him go, but this New York opportunity has presented itself and we have to cut down on our expenses."

The Colts won two games, lost 11 and tied one last season.

LaRKIN IS VICTOR OVER PETE MANCHIO

BOSTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Junior welterweight titlist Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., had an easy assignment giving Pete Manchio of Brooklyn, N. Y., a painful boxing lesson in their 10-round feature boxing bout before a 2,311 crowd at the arena.

Larkin used a busy two-fisted attack to Manchio's head to pile up the points he needed for a unanimous decision. The Brooklynite's nose was battered and his face puffed long before the final round.

Manchio tried to be aggressive during the early stages but Larkin had little trouble stopping his rushes, forcing him to the ropes and belting his body with both hands at close range. Larkin weighed 145½ and Manchio 142.

Maryland Boxers Defeat Spartans

Four Terps Win Titles In Sugar Bowl Tests

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29—(AP)—The University of Maryland won the Sugar Bowl boxing championship tonight by edging Michigan State's Spartans 4½ to 3½ in a card that saw three knockouts and a startling upset of Kenny Malone, Maryland's Southern Conference Champion, by light heavyweight George Smith, Michigan State novice.

Maryland, succeeding Syracuse, the 1946 champion, piled up all points in the first six bouts.

For Maryland, Al Salkowski won the 125-pound title, Andy Quattrocchi the 130-pound championship, Eddie Rieder the 155-pound crown, Bob Gregson the 165-pound diadem and Roland Hyde battled to a draw in the 145-pound class.

Charley Davey, the classiest fighter on the card, captured the 135-pound title. Smith, who was in his first fight of college boxing, took the 175-pound championship, and Art Hughlett came through in the heavyweight division.

Nine Players Given Honorable Mention

Gridders from nearby West Virginia schools failed to make the first, second or third All-Star teams this season but George Hott, Moorefield High School back, was given particular mention and nine others from the eastern section of the Mountain State were accorded honorable mention.

They were: Welton, Moorefield, end; Sherman, Moorefield, tackle; Shoemaker, Keyser, guard; Moss, Ridgeley; Harman, Moorefield; Tutwiler, Romney; Charles "Ace" Emery, Keyser; Smith, Petersburg, and Iden, Berkeley Springs, backs.

AMVETS WILL PLAY TERRA ALTA QUINT

The Cumberland Amvets will play the Terra Alta Moose cagers at Terra Alta, W. Va., tonight at 8 o'clock.

Terra Alta registered its fifth victory against two defeats last night, defeating the Kingwood Eagles at Terra Alta to the tune of 75 to 42.

Danny Benson and Jack Thomas with 15 and 12 points led the winners in scoring.

DUROCHER PROPOSED THAT SHOTTON PILOT NATIONAL ALL-STARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—President Ford Frick of the National League disclosed today that Leo Durocher had written him proposing that Burt Shotton be permitted to manage the league's All-Star team next year.

However, Frick added, Durocher's proposal was turned down.

"I received a letter from Durocher today written in California, in which he volunteered to step aside and proposed that Shotton lead the team," the league executive stated.

"Leo explained that it was Shotton who won the pennant, not he, and the Burt deserved the honor that has always gone to the manager of the pennant winning team."

Frick commented that it was "a very generous and sportsmanlike gesture" on the part of Durocher, but added:

"My recent decision that the incumbent manager of the championship team shall be the All - Star team leader still stands."

Trippi Is Certain Diamond And Grid Sports Don't Mix

Cards' Backfield Ace May By-Pass Baseball

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Professional baseball generally and the Atlanta Crackers particularly can forget all about Charles Lou Trippi, who once thought he could make a living bouncing from the diamond to the gridiron and back again.

"This is the game for me," cracked the former Georgia All-America halfback after he paced the Chicago Cardinals to a 28-21 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles for the National Football League title at Comiskey Park yesterday.

Trippi, ever since he closed the baseball season batting .334 as an Atlanta outfielder in the Southern Association, complained that baseball and football don't mix—especially for a $100,000 halfback who is expected to be something of a padded ballerina on touchdown-bound legs.

He's certain now—after his two spectacular touchdown runs against the Eagles—that he'll stick to his plan to by-pass baseball. The Crackers have offered him a salary raise and a fat bonus, but Trippi says "I don't think I'll change my mind."

Trippi, wearing gym shoes for the first time on the gridiron, scampered over frozen Comiskey Park 44 yards for a touchdown on a quick-opening play and ran 75 yards for another with a punt.

It was a climactic performance for Trippi, who needed almost every minute of the longest season in NFL history to hit the stride that made him famous at Georgia. Trippi was signed by the late club owner, Charles Bidwill, to a four-year contract at a record professional salary of $100,000. Bidwill sought him to round out the Cards' so-called "dream backfield", but died last April before seeing his fondest desire realized—his club winning the league championship.

Trippi today prepared to leave with his wife and daughter, Joan, 3, for Athens, Ga., and "my first real vacation in eight years." He said he planned to "loaf" all winter.

Negotiations For Sale Of Lions Breaks Up

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP) — Negotiations for the sale of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League broke up this afternoon with both parties agreeing they were "too far apart" on the price of the franchise.

Owner Fred Mandel, Jr., following an hour's conference with a seven-man syndicate interested in purchasing the Lions, declared, "we are so far apart on the price that there is no use of talking."

Mandel left the conference with National League Commissioner Bert Bell, who had come to Detroit earlier today to confere on a possible sale of the football team.

RIGGS BEATS KRAMER IN STRAIGHT SETS

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 29 (AP)—Jack Kramer, who went through one blizzard in his professionel tennis debut in New York Friday, encountered another tonight as steady-stroking Bobby Riggs defeated him for the second successive time, 8-6 and 6-1.

The largest tennis crowd in the history of the Gardens, 3,703, paid $9,264 to see Kramer go down to defeat before Riggs.

The second set was entirely one-sided for Riggs. In the opening singles match, Dinny Pails easily disposed of Francisco (Pancho) Segura, 6-4, 6-4.

NYU's Basketball Mentor Deplores Missouri's Lack Of Sportsmanship

Name-Calling Is Worst He Ever Saw, Cann Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Howard (Jake) Cann, coach of New York University's unbeaten basketball Violets, said today he deplored the "bad feeling and lack of sportsmanship from the bench" which he said was displayed by Missouri against NYU here last Saturday.

He made the remark in answer to a reporter's question about the rough tilt at Madison Square Garden in which 46 personal fouls were called, 24 against Missouri and 22 against the Violets.

"I don't think players should be calling other teams names from the bench," Cann said. "We're coaches. We should teach sportsmanship. We have responsibilities.

"I feel certain that the lack of sportsmanship from the bench and the bad feeling and name-calling was the worst I ever saw," Cann added without naming the Missouri coach.

Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup, Missouri coach, was not present.

Cann, whose team made its record 6-0 by downing Missouri, 70-63, told metropolitan basketball writers and guests at the weekly luncheon, that he also was irked by what he said was Missouri's tardiness in coming on the court at the start of both halves.

Bob Chappuis Injured But May Play In Bowl

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—All-America Halfback Bob Chappuis of Michigan tore a leg muscle in practice for the Rose Bowl Game late today but Trainer Jim Hunt said he thought he would be all right to play against Southern California.

Hunt, after examining the injury, said there had been a slight internal bleeding but that he hoped massages would keep blood from clogging.

The injury was above the knee at the thigh.

Few at the secret workout witnessed the mishap but one report said Chappuis was running, suddenly stopped and knelt down near the sidelines. He quietly retired to the dressing room and Hunt took over.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 29 (AP)—Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University of Kentucky, disclosed today that $107,533.48 had been given to the school's athletic association since a drive has started in 1945 to make Kentucky a power among the nation's collegiate football teams.

He said 325 friends of the school contributed to the fund.

"Devil Of A Thing" Brings Jail Term

AYLMER, Que., Dec. 29 (AP)—A few hours after he was arrested, Eugene Ireland, 33, of Aylmer, pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of abandoning five race horses in distress, heard the magistrate term the action "a devil of a thing" and was fined $100 or a month in jail. He took the jail term.

"No man with his heart in the right place could be so cruel toward animals as to leave them without food and shelter the way you did," commented the magistrate. "That's a devil of a thing you've done."

Ireland was arrested after A. A. Gostick and Pat Santon, owner and trainer respectively, of the A. & P. stables of Toronto, appeared voluntarily to assist police and the Aylmer Humane Society who had been conducting an inquiry since the horses were found last Wednesday starving and frozen.

One horse was destroyed. The others will not likely race again.

Shaughnessy Signs As Advisory Coach Of Rams Grid Team

Will Aid Bob Snyder, Los Angeles Mentor

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP) — Clark Shaughnessy, football's nomadic coach and expert of the T-formation, today was signed as an advisory coach by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

President Dan Reeves of the Rams made the announcement. Shaughnessy is here for the Michigan-Southern California Rose Bowl game.

Reeves did not disclose salary figures but said Shaughnessy's contract was "for more than one year" as advisor to head Coach Bob Snyder.

For the past four years Shaughnessy has served in the same capacity for the Washington Redskins. In joining the Rams, he renews association with Snyder and his aides, Joe Stydahar and George Trafton, all of whom were at one time playing or helping in the coaching of the Chicago Bears. Shaughnessy was advisor to the Bears from 1936 to 1940.

Shaughnessy's career has been a coast to coast proposition. After guiding Tulane, Loyola of New Orleans and Chicago, he came west and scored brilliantly at Stanford with victory in the Rose Bowl in 1941. Engagements followed at Maryland and Pittsburgh.

Marshall Cagers In Jam On Coast

Cancelled On Gauchos To Play In Tourney

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—A spokesman for Santa Barbara College announced today a basketball game between the Gauchos and Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., scheduled for tonight, had been cancelled and charged that "pressure" by the Los Angeles invitational tournament had been exerted.

Marshall, 1946 national champion, reached the finals of the Los Angeles tournament and plays Syracuse for the title tomorrow night.

At Los Angeles, athletic director A. P. Duerr of Pepperdine College, chairman of the tournament committee, promptly denied the Santa Barbara charge.

"I actually tried to persuade Marshall to keep its contract and play Santa Barbara tonight, because Santa Barbara is a good friend of Pepperdine," Duerr said.

"However, I don't mind saying that had it been someone else, I wouldn't feel that way because such a game could wreck our tournament. The game, scheduled on the off-night of our tournament, should never have been signed."

Duerr said he arranged for the West Texas State College to substitute for Marshall at Santa Barbara "and we are paying their expenses up there for the game."

Santa Barbara college said the game was not cancelled until this morning, too late to correct game advertising and publicity.

Coach Cam Henderson of Marshall said: "it is unfortunate, all the way around, but we felt our title game tomorrow night is too important to risk going up there. The tournament here has put out about $30,000 and we frankly didn't want to let them down. If one of our boys was hurt, or anything bad happened, it would ruin the final game tomorrow night."

Campers Defend Fourteen-Game Winning Streak

Keyser, Fort Ashby, Davis Meet Alumni

Five high school basketball teams of the tri-state district will play Alumni teams tonight.

Two of the contests will be staged here at 8 o'clock.

It will be the Campers' first game of the season at home and should attract a large crowd. Clifton Van Roby and Clifford Fearer will officiate.

At 7 o'clock, the William Paca Club of the "Y" League will play the AHS reserves.

Allegany's Alumni team will be composed of graduates of the Campobello school home from college for the holidays and members of local independent quints. The grads defeated the Campers in an overtime period battle last season by the score of 35-34.

Coach Walter L. Bowers' quint opened its season on December 16 with a 39 to 32 triumph over Somerset High School's Eagles at Somerset, Pa.

Friday night at Campobello, AHS will play Keyser High School at 8 o'clock. Bill Hahn and William "Huck" Miers will be the officials.

"Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels will also play hosts to the grads tonight on the Fort Hill court.

DELIBERATE FOULING, FUMBLES, OUT-OF-BOUND RULES ARE STRESSED

Deliberate fouling will entitle the man fouled to two free throws even though he is not in the act of shooting and this new basketball rule will be carried out to the letter by local officials, it was announced last night by Clifton Van Roby, of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Board of Approved Basketball Officials, following a rules interpretation session at the Central YMCA.

Another important point stressed at the meeting was that at the end of a dribble if the player fumbles the ball it will not be considered a double dribble.

An out-of-bounds play was interpreted as follows: A takes ball out of bounds. B, on defense, strikes the ball as it is returned to the court and A catches it while still out of bounds. Ruling: It's B's ball.

Guest referees in attendance were Jerry Molloy, Vinnie Farrell and Al Garry, of New Jersey, who worked LaSalle home games with St. Fancis of Morgantown and Altoona Catholic while spending the holidays in Cumberland.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Rose Bowl weather for New Year's Day probably won't be rosy, the weather man warned today.

"Partly cloudy and cool weather will continue through Thursday," the forecast stated.

"Showers are likely on New Year's Eve and New Year's Day."

The weatherman was optimistic, however. He added:

"Anything can happen, though."

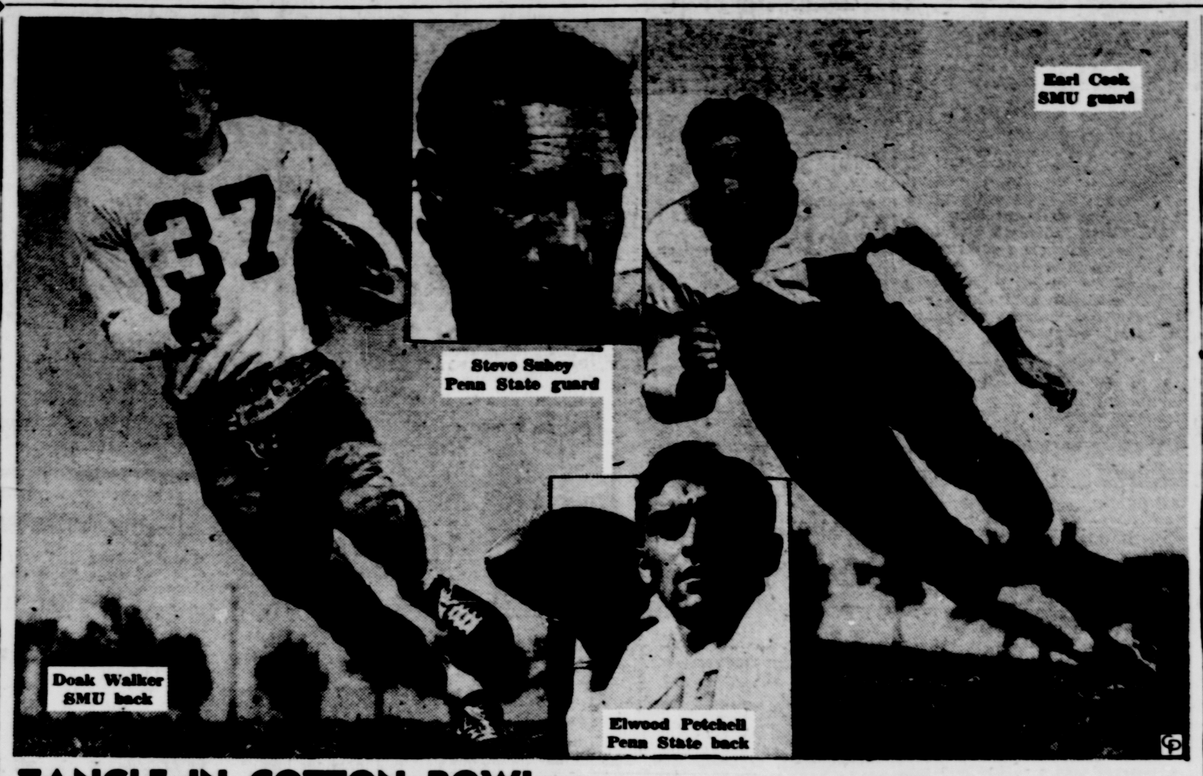
Donnie Keiser To Fight Jack Klosterman Jan. 12



TANGLE IN COTTON BOWL—Two of the nation's strongest football elevens this past season, undefeated Penn State and undefeated but tied-once Southern Methodist, collide in the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas, Texas on New Year's Day for one of the stellar attractions on the January 1 program. The Mustangs' attack will center on the All-American back, Doak Walker, while Penn State's powerful eastern eleven will counter with a flock of ball carriers headed by Elwood Petchell and Jeff Durkota.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Even the weatherman sometimes makes a slight error in forecasting the next day's weather, so it's only natural that anyone trying to predict what will happen in the next 365 days might be a little wrong once in awhile.

Burt Shotton

For instance, here are a few sports happenings of 1947, and had anyone had the nerve to predict them, he would have been called balmier than a summer's night:

The ousting of Leo Durocher and the signing of an elderly gentleman to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers, with the elderly gentleman, Burt Shotton, piloting them to a pennant.

The near-defeat (or defeat, if you want it that way) of champion Joe Louis by an aging and slightly shopworn fighter named Jersey Joe Walcott.

The winning of the National League batting championship by a guy named Harry Walker, who was traded off by the Cardinals because he wasn't good enough.

The defeat suffered by Floyd Bevens and the Yankees in the world series' game in which he allowed only one hit.

The snapping of the Army's undefeated string by a Columbia team rated so-so.

The victory of Lew Worsham in the National Open in a field in which he was no better than a 100 to 1 shot.

Melio Bettina, aspirant to the heavyweight championship, getting himself knocked out in one round by Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich.

The winning of the National League's most valuable player award by Bob Elliott, who had been traded by the Pirates to the Braves.

Willie Turnesa, a good golfer but still a long shot, winning the British Amateur.

The turning pro of Babe Didrikson after being the first American to win the British Women's Golf Championship.

The flop of Red Sox and Cardinal pitching which cost the defending champions and pre-season favorites their flag changes.

The resignation of Larry MacPhail and his dropping from the public eye so rapidly he practically is forgotten.

A couple of relief pitchers—Hugh Casey of Brooklyn and Joe Page of the Yankees—performing so capably they were mentioned as candidates for most valuable player honors.

The Yankees winning the pennant without Joe Gordon, with Charley Keller out most of the season, and Joe Di Maggio not in the best of condition.

The Red Sox moving Joe Cronin to the front office and Joe McCarthy signing as field manager.

The victory of Holy Cross in the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament.

The fine winning streak of Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati, and the astonishing showing of the team as a whole.

The departure of Billy Herman after the one season of managing the Pirates.

Colts Finished $150,000 In Red

To Curtail Expenses, Espey May Join Yanks

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29 (AP)—General Manager Jack Espey of the Baltimore Colts today confirmed reports that he is negotiating for a job with the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference, and owner Bob Rodenberg said the proposed shift has his approval.

"I have talked to an official of the New York club xxx on such a possibility," said Espey. "I do not know what type of job the Yankees may have in mined for me, but if Topping (Owner Dan Topping) wants to see me about a position, I certainly am going to talk to him."

Baltimore is reported to have lost $150,000 during 1947, its first season in the AAC and Rodenberg has made it known that any curtailment of expenses would primarily affect the front office.

Regarding Espey's dickering for the new job, Rodenberg said, "I don't want to let him go, but this New York opportunity has presented itself and we have to cut down on our expenses."

The Colts won two games, lost 11 and tied one last season.

LaRKIN IS VICTOR OVER PETE MANCHIO

BOSTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Junior welterweight titlist Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., had an easy assignment giving Pete Manchio of Brooklyn, N. Y., a painful boxing lesson in their 10-round feature boxing bout before a 2,311 crowd at the arena.

Larkin used a busy two-fisted attack to Manchio's head to pile up the points he needed for a unanimous decision. The Brooklynite's nose was battered and his face puffed long before the final round.

Manchio tried to be aggressive during the early stages but Larkin had little trouble stopping his rushes, forcing him to the ropes and belting his body with both hands at close range. Larkin weighed 146½ and Manchio 142.

Jim Klosterman Is Show Matchmaker

Donnie Keiser and Jack Klosterman, two of the Cumberland's outstanding amateur welterweight boxers, will provide the fireworks in the feature bout of the Diamond Athletic Club's initial fistic carnival at the State Armory, Monday, January 12, it was announced last night by Jim Klosterman, former amateur ring ace who is making his debut as matchmaker.

Keiser and Klosterman are scheduled to fight three rounds on a program of eight or more bouts.

Donnie is a son of Fay W. Keiser, one-time professional boxer, who fought the best in the game, while Jack is a brother of Jim Klosterman, D.A.C. matchmaker.

Since Jan. 1, Keiser has engaged in eight bouts, winning six and losing two. Klosterman also figured in eight matches this year, emerging victorious in five while losing three.

Matchmaker Klosterman hopes to find bouts for Paul Lepley, Bill Frazier, Bill Mann, Jake Koelker and Jimmie Brown, all Diamond Athletic Club leather pushers, on the January 12 card.

The show, the sixth of the 1947-48 season here, will get under way at 8 p. m.

Tickets will go on sale Friday at the Windsor Restaurant, McGee's Tavern, Maryland Avenue, and the Royale Dairy.

Four Terps Win Titles In Sugar Bowl Tests

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29—(AP)—The University of Maryland won the Sugar Bowl boxing championship tonight by edging Michigan State's Spartans 4½ to 3½ in a card that saw three knockouts and a startling upset of Kenny Malone, Maryland's Southern Conference Champion, by light heavyweight George Smith, Michigan State novice.

Maryland, succeeding Syracuse, the 1946 champion, piled up all points in the first six bouts.

For Maryland, Al Salkowski won the 125-pound title, Andy Quattrocchi the 130-pound championship, Eddie Rieder the 155-pound crown, Bob Gregson the 165-pound diadem and Roland Hyde battled to a draw in the 145-pound class.

Charley Davey, the classiest fighter on the card, captured the 135-pound title. Smith, who was in his first fight of college boxing, took the 175-pound championship, and Art Hughlett came through in the heavyweight division.

Nine Players Given Honorable Mention

Gridders from nearby West Virginia schools failed to make the first, second or third All-Star teams this season but George Hott, Moorefield High School back, was given particular mention and nine others from the eastern section of the Mountain State were accorded honorable mention.

They were: Welton, Moorefield, end; Sherman, Moorefield, tackle; Shoemaker, Keyser, guard; Moss, Ridgeley; Harman, Moorefield; Tutwiler, Romney; Charles "Ace" Emery, Keyser; Smith, Petersburg, and Iden, Berkeley Springs, backs.

DUROCHER PROPOSED THAT SHOTTON PILOT NATIONAL ALL-STARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—President Ford Frick of the National League disclosed today that Leo Durocher had written him proposing that Burt Shotton be permitted to manage the league's All-Star team next year.

However, Frick added, Durocher's proposal was turned down.

"I received a letter from Durocher today written in California, in which he volunteered to step aside and proposed that Shotton lead the team," the league executive stated.

'Leo explained that it was Shotton who won the pennant, not he, and the Burt deserved the honor that has always gone to the manager of the pennant winning team."

Frick commented that it was "a very generous and sportsmanlike gesture" on the part of Durocher, but added:

"My recent decision that the incumbent manager of the championship team shall be the All - Star team leader still stands."

Trippi Is Certain Diamond And Grid Sports Don't Mix

Cards' Backfield Ace May By-Pass Baseball

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Professional baseball generally and the Atlanta Crackers particularly can forget all about Charles Lou Trippi, who once thought he could make a living bouncing from the diamond to the gridiron and back again.

"This is the game for me," cracked the former Georgia All-America halfback after he paced the Chicago Cardinals to a 28-21 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles for the National Football League title at Comiskey Park yesterday.

Trippi, ever since he closed the baseball season batting .334 as an Atlanta outfielder in the Southern Association, complained that baseball and football don't mix—especially for a $100,000 halfback who is expected to be something of a padded ballerina on touchdown-bound legs.

He's certain now—after his two spectacular touchdown runs against the Eagles—that he'll stick to his plan to by-pass baseball. The Crackers have offered him a salary raise and a fat bonus, but Trippi says "I don't think I'll change my mind."

Trippi, wearing gym shoes for the first time on the gridiron, scampered over frozen Comiskey Park 44 yards for a touchdown on a quick-opening play and ran 75 yards for another with a punt.

It was a climactic performance for Trippi, who needed almost every minute of the longest season in NFL history to hit the stride that made him famous at Georgia. Trippi was signed by the late club owner, Charles Bidwill, to a four-year contract at a record professional salary of $100,000. Bidwill sought him to round out the Cards' so-called "dream backfield", but died last April before seeing his fondest desire realized—his club winning the league championship.

Trippi today prepared to leave with his wife and daughter, Joan, 3, for Athens, Ga., and "my first real vacation in eight years." He said he planned to "loaf" all winter.

Negotiations For Sale Of Lions Breaks Up

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP) — Negotiations for the sale of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League broke up this afternoon with both parties agreeing they were "too far apart" on the price of the franchise.

Owner Fred Mandel, Jr., following an hour's conference with a seven-man syndicate interested in purchasing the Lions, declared, "we are so far apart on the price that there is no use of talking."

Mandel left the conference with National League Commissioner Bert Bell, who had come to Detroit earlier today to confere on a possible sale of the football team.

RIGGS BEATS KRAMER IN STRAIGHT SETS

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 29 (AP)—Jack Kramer, who went through one blizzard in his professionel tennis debut in New York Friday, encountered another tonight as steady-stroking Bobby Riggs defeated him for the second successive time, 8-6 and 6-1.

The largest tennis crowd in the history of the Gardens, 3,703, paid $9,264 to see Kramer go down to defeat before Riggs.

The second set was entirely one-sided for Riggs. In the opening singles match, Dinny Pails easily disposed of Francisco (Pancho) Segura, 6-4, 6-4.

NYU's Basketball Mentor Deplores Missouri's Lack Of Sportsmanship

Name-Calling Is Worst He Ever Saw, Cann Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Howard (Jake) Cann, coach of New York University's unbeaten basketball Violets, said today he deplored the "bad feeling and lack of sportsmanship from the bench" which he said was displayed by Missouri against NYU here last Saturday.

He made the remark in answer to a reporter's question about the rough tilt at Madison Square Garden in which 46 personal fouls were called, 24 against Missouri and 22 against the Violets.

"I don't think players should be calling other teams names from the bench," Cann said. "We're coaches. We should teach sportsmanship. We have responsibilities.

"I feel certain that the lack of sportsmanship from the bench and the bad feeling and name-calling was the worst I ever saw," Cann added without naming the Missouri coach.

Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup, Missouri coach, was not present.

Cann, whose team made its record 6-0 by downing Missouri, 70-63, told metropolitan basketball writers and guests at the weekly luncheon, that he also was irked by what he said was Missouri's tardiness in coming on the court at the start of both halves.

Bob Chappuis Injured But May Play In Bowl

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—All-America Halfback Bob Chappuis of Michigan tore a leg muscle in practice for the Rose Bowl Game late today but Trainer Jim Hunt said he thought he would be all right to play against Southern California.

Hunt, after examining the injury, said there had been a slight internal bleeding but that he hoped massages would keep blood from clogging.

The injury was above the knee at the thigh.

Few at the secret workout witnessed the mishap but one report said Chappuis was running, suddenly stopped and knelt down near the sidelines. He quietly retired to the dressing room and Hunt took over.

AYLMER, Que., Dec. 29 (AP)—A few hours after he was arrested, Eugene Ireland, 33, of Aylmer, pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of abandoning five race horses in distress, heard the magistrate term the action "a devil of a thing" and was fined $100 or a month in jail. He took the jail term.

"No man with his heart in the right place could be so cruel toward animals as to leave them without food and shelter the way you did," commented the magistrate. "That's a devil of a thing you've done."

Ireland was arrested after A. A. Gostick and Pat Santon, owner and trainer respectively, of the A. & P. stables of Toronto, appeared voluntarily to assist police and the Aylmer Humane Society who had been conducting an inquiry since the horses were found last Wednesday starving and frozen.

One horse was destroyed. The others will not likely race again.

Will Aid Bob Snyder, Los Angeles Mentor

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP) — Clark Shaughnessy, football's nomadic coach and expert of the T-formation, today was signed as an advisory coach by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

President Dan Reeves of the Rams made the announcement. Shaughnessy is here for the Michigan-Southern California Rose Bowl game.

Reeves did not disclose salary figures but said Shaughnessy's contract was "for more than one year" as advisor to head Coach Bob Snyder.

For the past four years Shaughnessy has served in the same capacity for the Washington Redskins. In joining the Rams, he renews association with Snyder and his aides, Joe Stydahar and George Trafton, all of whom were at one time playing or helping in the coaching of the Chicago Bears. Shaughnessy was advisor to the Bears from 1936 to 1940.

Shaughnessy's career has been a coast to coast proposition. After guiding Tulane, Loyola of New Orleans and Chicago, he came west and scored brilliantly at Stanford with victory in the Rose Bowl in 1941. Engagements followed at Maryland and Pittsburgh.

Marshall Cagers In Jam On Coast

Cancelled On Gauchos To Play In Tourney

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—A spokesman for Santa Barbara College announced today a basketball game between the Gauchos and Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., scheduled for tonight, had been cancelled and charged that "pressure" by the Los Angeles invitational tournament had been exerted.

Marshall, 1946 national champion, reached the finals of the Los Angeles tournament and plays Syracuse for the title tomorrow night.

At Los Angeles, athletic director A. P. Duerr of Pepperdine College, chairman of the tournament committee, promptly denied the Santa Barbara charge.

"I actually tried to persuade Marshall to keep its contract and play Santa Barbara tonight, because Santa Barbara is a good friend of Pepperdine," Duerr said.

"However, I don't mind saying that had it been someone else, I wouldn't feel that way because such a game could wreck our tournament. The game, scheduled on the off-night of our tournament, should never have been signed."

Duerr said he arranged for the West Texas State College to substitute for Marshall at Santa Barbara "and we are paying their expenses up there for the game."

Santa Barbara college said the game was not cancelled until this morning, too late to correct game advertising and publicity.

Coach Cam Henderson of Marshall said: "It is unfortunate, all the way around, but we felt our title game tomorrow night is too important to risk going up there. The tournament here has put out about $30,000 and we frankly didn't want to let them down. If one of our boys was hurt, or anything bad happened, it would ruin the final game tomorrow night."

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (INS)—The University of California at Los Angeles quintet nosed out Long Island University, 66-64, in an overtime thriller in the first half of a basketball twin bill at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Dave Minor and John Stanish of the Visiting Bruins, who scored 16 points apiece, gave U.C.L.A. a winning margin in the overtime period.

Natie Miller, who played a brilliant sniping game, was high scorer for both teams with a total of 17 points.

GUS IS DROPPED Gus Dorais, former Notre Dame grid great, has been dropped as coach of the Detroit Lions of the National Professional Football League. The Lions are now up for sale.

Campers Defend Fourteen-Game Winning Streak

Keyser, Fort Ashby, Davis Meet Alumni

Five high school basketball teams of the tri-state district will play Alumni teams tonight.

Two of the contests will be staged here at 8 o'clock.

Victorious in its last 14 games, including a run of 13 at the close of the 1946-47 season, Allegany will play host to a graduate quintet headed by C. William Spangler. It will be the Campers' first game of the season at home and should attract a large crowd. Clifton Van Roby and Clifford Fearer will officiate.

At 7 o'clock, the William Paca Club of the "Y" League will play the AHS reserves.

Allegany's Alumni team will be composed of graduates of the Campobello school home from college for the holidays and members of local independent quints. The grads defeated the Campers in an overtime period battle last season by the score of 35-34.

Played Overtime Last Year

Coach Walter L. Bowers' quint opened its season on December 16 with a 39 to 32 triumph over Somerset High School's Eagles at Somerset, Pa.

Friday night at Campobello, AHS will play Keyser High School at 8 o'clock. Bill Hahn and William "Huck" Miers will be the officials.

"Bobby" Cavanaugh's Fort Hill Sentinels will also play hosts to the grads tonight on the Fort Hill court.

The Scarlet and White will be making its fourth start of the season, having defeated Piedmont 42-25, Davis 49-34 and Moorefield 40-37 in its first three starts on the home floor.

John Angellatta and "Chick" Snider will do the whistle-tooting in the game on the Hilltoppers' court. In the preliminary game at 6:50 the South End Merchants will oppose the Fort Hill Reserve and Bill Dean will be the referee.

Former players who earned letters for basketball and were graduated from Fort Hill are eligible to play for the Alumni tonight. Heading the list of ex-Fort Hill players expected to see action are "Bub" Frye, Elmer Freeland, Ralph Beard, Don "Bubbles" Whiteman, Norman Mason and Jim Roby.

Martinsburg Here Friday

Martinsburg (W. Va.) High School's Bulldogs will invade Cumberland Friday night to play the Sentinels at 8 o'clock. Roby and Fearer will call this game. Fort Hill's Reserves will play a Ridgeley quint in the opener at 6:50 o'clock.

Other varsity-alumni clashes are billed for tonight at Davis, W. Va., High School, Keyser High School at Fort Ashby High. At Keyser, Coach John Shelton's Golden Tornado will oppose the College Alumni five.

The sixth game of the evening brings together Bruce High School and Berlin-Brothersvalley High School at Berlin, Pa.

DELIBERATE FOULING, FUMBLES, OUT-OF-BOUND RULES ARE STRESSED

Deliberate fouling will entitle the man fouled to two free throws even though he is not in the act of shooting and this new basketball rule will be carried out to the letter by local officials, it was announced last night by Clifton Van Roby, of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Board of Approved Basketball Officials, following a rules interpretation session at the Central YMCA.

Another important point stressed at the meeting was that at the end of a dribble if the player fumbles the ball it will not be considered a double dribble.

An out-of-bounds play was interpreted as follows: A takes ball out of bounds. B, on defense, strikes the ball as it is returned to the court and A catches it while still out of bounds. Ruling: It's B's ball.

Guest referees in attendance were Jerry Molloy, Vinnie Farrell and Al Garry, of New Jersey, who worked LaSalle home games with St. Fancis of Morgantown and Altoona Catholic while spending the holidays in Cumberland.

Local officials and coaches in attendance included Walter L. Bowers, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fred Clark, John Angellatta, "Chick" Snider, Ralph Twigg, Clifford Fearer, Bill Farney, Bill Hahn and Roby.

Syracuse And Marshall To Clash In Finals

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP)—It will be an all-eastern final tomorrow night in the first Los Angeles Collegiate Invitation Basketball Tournament. Syracuse University's Orangemen will meet the Marshall College Herd from Huntington, W. Va.

The Orange humbled Brigham Young's Cougars, 53-45, while Marshall romped through another Far Western hopeful, Idaho's towering Vandal five, 73-44, in Saturday's semifinals.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP) — The Rose Bowl weather for New Year's Day probably won't be rosy, the weather man warned today.

"Partly cloudy and cool weather will continue through Thursday," the forecast stated.

"Showers are likely on New Year's Eve and New Year's Day."

The weatherman was optimistic, however. He added:

"Anything can happen, though."

Rice Picks Michigan, Texas SMU, Georgia Tech To Win

Figures East Over West In Shrine Contest And Likes Georgia Bulldogs Over Maryland

By GRANTLAND RICE

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Dec. 29—There are times when selections are toughest when they look easiest. On this next Bowl occasion, two days away, with only one or two exceptions, they all look tougher than rawhide, which gives the selector a better break.

It is impossible to follow the complete list of Bowls without the aid of a guide and a motorcycle, so we figure about eight are all we can grapple with while standing on the rim of a dying year.

Here they are, without attempting any particular order:

East - West Shrine Game — East 14, West 7.
Rose Bowl — Michigan 28, Southern California 7.
Cotton Bowl—Southern Methodist 7, Penn State 0.
Sugar Bowl—Texas 21, Alabama 14.
Orange Bowl — Georgia Tech 14, Kansas 7.
Delta Bowl — Mississippi 21, T.C.U. 14.
Gator Bowl — Georgia 14, Maryland 7.
Dixie Bowl — Arkansas 14, William and Mary 7.

The only Bowl game that looks to be one-sided at this spot is the Rose Bowl meeting. And this one can offer a surprise. As good as Michigan is, there will be no 220-pound Notre Dame line of experienced veterans in the road, ripping things apart.

Michigan has much greater all-over speed and a more baffling attack, but this can also be a game of the Minnesota - Michigan and Illinois-Michigan variety, won by a single touchdown. Minnesota and Illinois were two good teams. They were in no sense great teams. They were far from Notre Dame's class.

If Michigan gets the jump and starts rolling, the Wolverine Express should be good for four touchdowns. Checked by a stubborn defense, it can be held to a touchdown margin Our guess is a margin of three touchdowns.

"I'm not sure," one veteran expert told me, "you can measure a team from the way it looks against Notre Dame. That Irish line is an appalling thing to watch."

This might be part of the answer, giving Southern California a better chance.

Other Big Games

We look for low scoring in the S.M.U.-Penn State meeting. Only the presence of Doak Walker, a great back, gives S.M.U. the edge.

Penn State should have the stronger line, but the Nittany Lion entry hasn't as good a passing attack, and no single man as good as Walker has been all year. This can be the closest game of the bunch, as Penn State is still something of a mystery.

Alabama and Texas can offer the best double offense of the Bowl series. In Gilmer and Layne, both have brilliant passers. Gilmer and Tew can match any running backs Texas has. But I have a vague idea that Texas has just a slightly stronger line.

Here are two of the best teams in the country, ranked right in with S.M.U., back of Notre Dame and Michigan. This should be a hot-scoring game. It will also help settle the rival passing claims of Gilmer and Layne, if one game can settle anything.

The Sugar Bowl game should be good for at least five touchdowns, possibly more.

Georgia Tech can stumble into serious trouble against Kansas with Ray Evans around. But the Yellow Jackets are in better shape physically than they have been in some weeks.

I also look for Tech to have a more varied offense, one harder to solve at any first meeting. Both Dodd and Alexander can shuffle the ball around, and Tech also has a strong line. In Ray Evans, the Georgians will face one of the best backs of the year, ball carrier, passer and strong defensive back.

This should be another low-scoring game, where the defense can give the offense a number of headaches. This Kansas outfit is a rugged collection of brawny men who know how to block and tackle. The margin won't be wide.

The meeting between Mississippi and T. C. U. will match most of the better-known Bowls. Conerly and Poole give Old Miss a striking touchdown combination. T. C. U. was strong enough to tie S. M. U., and force the matter into a miracle 30-second rally, down the stretch, to get this tie. There is little to choose here in what should be one of the better games of a busy afternoon.

We like Georgia over Maryland by a nod. We like Arkansas in the Birmingham Dixie Bowl. We like the East in the East-West Shrine game that has already raised over $1,000,000 for the Crippled Children's fund. The main reason—the presence of three Notre Dame men—Lujack, Connor and Czarobski on the Eastern side. These three are pretty close to being an entire football squad.

Whatever happens, this 1948 card will be the best Bowl dish we happen to recall through many winter moons.

Rice Picks Michigan, Texas SMU, Georgia Tech To Win

Figures East Over West In Shrine Contest And Likes Georgia Bulldogs Over Maryland

By GRANTLAND RICE

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Dec. 29—There are times when selections are toughest when they look easiest. On this next Bowl occasion, two days away, with only one or two exceptions, they all look tougher than rawhide, which gives the selector a better break.

It is impossible to follow the complete list of Bowls without the aid of a guide and a motorcycle, so we figure about eight are all we can grapple with while standing on the rim of a dying year.

Here they are, without attempting any particular order:

East - West Shrine Game — East 14, West 7.
Rose Bowl — Michigan 28, Southern California 7.
Cotton Bowl—Southern Methodist 7, Penn State 0.
Sugar Bowl—Texas 21, Alabama 14.
Orange Bowl — Georgia Tech 14, Kansas 7.
Delta Bowl — Mississippi 21, T.C.U. 14.
Gator Bowl — Georgia 14, Maryland 7.
Dixie Bowl — Arkansas 14, William and Mary 7.

The only Bowl game that looks to be one-sided at this spot is the Rose Bowl meeting. And this one can offer a surprise. As good as Michigan is, there will be no 220-pound Notre Dame line of experienced veterans in the road, ripping things apart.

Michigan has much greater all-over speed and a more baffling attack, but this can also be a game of the Minnesota - Michigan and Illinois-Michigan variety, won by a single touchdown. Minnesota and Illinois were two good teams. They were in no sense great teams. They were far from Notre Dame's class.

If Michigan gets the jump and starts rolling, the Wolverine Express should be good for four touchdowns. Checked by a stubborn defense, it can be held to a touchdown margin. Our guess is a margin of three touchdowns.

"I'm not sure," one veteran expert told me, "you can measure a team from the way it looks against Notre Dame. That Irish line is an appalling thing to watch."

This might be part of the answer, giving Southern California a better chance.

Other Big Games

We look for low scoring in the S.M.U.-Penn State meeting. Only the presence of Doak Walker, a great back, gives S.M.U. the edge.

Penn State should have the stronger line, but the Nittany Lion entry hasn't as good a passing attack, and no single man as good as Walker has been all year. This can be the closest game of the bunch, as Penn State is still something of a mystery.

Alabama and Texas can offer the best double offense of the Bowl series. In Gilmer and Layne, both have brilliant passers. Gilmer and Tew can match any running backs Texas has. But I have a vague idea that Texas has just a slightly stronger line.

Here are two of the best teams in the country, ranked right in with S.M.U., back of Notre Dame and Michigan. This should be a hot-scoring game. It will also help settle the rival passing claims of Gilmer and Layne, if one game can settle anything.

The Sugar Bowl game should be good for at least five touchdowns, possibly more.

Georgia Tech can stumble into serious trouble against Kansas with Ray Evans around. But the Yellow Jackets are in better shape physically than they have been in some weeks.

I also look for Tech to have a more varied offense, one harder to solve at any first meeting. Both Dodd and Alexander can shuffle the ball around, and Tech also has a strong line. In Ray Evans, the Georgians will face one of the best backs of the year, ball carrier, passer and strong defensive back.

This should be another low-scoring game, where the defense can give the offense a number of headaches. This Kansas outfit is a rugged collection of brawny men who know how to block and tackle. The margin won't be wide.

The meeting between Mississippi and T. C. U. will match most of the better-known Bowls. Conerly and Poole give Old Miss a striking touchdown combination. T. C. U. was strong enough to tie S. M. U., and force the matter into a miracle 30-second rally, down the stretch, to get this tie. There is little to choose here in what should be one of the better games of a busy afternoon.

We like Georgia over Maryland by a nod. We like Arkansas in the Birmingham Dixie Bowl. We like the East in the East-West Shrine game that has already raised over $1,000,000 for the Crippled Children's fund. The main reason—the presence of three Notre Dame men—Lujack, Connor and Czarobski on the Eastern side. These three are pretty close to being an entire football squad.

Whatever happens, this 1948 card will be the best Bowl dish we happen to recall through many winter moons.

Bowl Football To Occupy Must Time On All Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Preliminaries to the New Year's day bowl football are getting network space on Tuesday.

On NBC at 4 p. m. in place of a couple of serials, cancelled for this occasion, there will be annual kickoff luncheon of the Rose bowl game at Pasadena. At night, also NBC, Bob Hope at 10 is to have as his guest the queen of the Tournament of Roses, who is Virginia Goodhue.

ABC will continue its pre-Sugar bowl events from New Orleans by putting on the second half of the basketball game between Holy Cross and North Carolina state. The time is 11:15.

MBS at 10:30 for half-hour is to combine previews of the two bowls it will carry, the Cotton and East-West, on New Years.

A year-end documentary, "Among Ourselves," is to find space on CBS at 10:30 in place of the regular Open Hearing. Purpose of the script is to "reveal how racial and minority tensions were successfully resolved in 1947."

Studio One of CBS at 9:30 is to have Joan Blondell. The reason is the play will be "So Big." This item had been announced for a previous broadcast, but that network announcement was wrong.

American Forum of MBS at 10 is to take a look at next year. It will do so by talking about "The Housing Outlook in 1948." . . . America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 will be at Saranac Lake, N. Y., also to think ahead. Question is "Which Road to Peace In 1948?"

The Boston Symphony will provide its usual weekly hour on ABC at 9:30.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

A Comic Strip On the Air

To sum up the "Beulah" show in as few words as possible, it's good-natured, harmless, engaging and, at infrequent intervals, very funny.

John Crosby

Beulah has been around a long time. Originally she was played by the late Marlin Hurt, who was white and male and yet somehow very convincing as a Negro maid. Since Mr. Hurt's death, several other white males tried out not very successfully as Beulah; then the program's producers, in one of those rare flashes of inspiration, thought of Hattie McDaniel, who was both the wrong sex and the wrong color for a Negro maid but somehow qualified anyhow. How do they think of these things in radio?

Last year Beulah was a once a week half-hour show. Now it's on five times a week (CBS 7 p. m. Mon.-Fri.) which is a happy solution to her problem. As a half-hour heroine she wheezed rather strenuously in the last fifteen minutes. By putting her on five times a week, C.B.S. is pushing radio ahead some twenty years, way up to 1928 when Amos 'n' Andy did the same thing on N.B.C.. It's not a bad idea either. A fifteen-minute show five times a week has an entirely different quality from a half-hour show once a week. It is—if you'll pardon the expression and I'm not going to pardon that expression much longer myself—soap opera with humor which, in a small, different way, is a stride forward toward wherever radio is going.

Beulah has much of the fascination of the comic strips—same people, same time, station, five days a week. You don't expect the polish of a fifteen-minute show; you do ask that the people involved be interesting and above all human enough to keep you absorbed. Beulah does it rather well.

She is a warm-hearted, earnest, loyal, lovable female Rochester of literal mind and extraordinary patience who is employed by the Henderson family, which consists of Mistah Harry, Miz Alice and Donny, a small, vexing thorn of indeterminate. (Somewhere between eleven and fourteen, I'd say, but don't quote me.) Beulah is a bit of a cross to the family and they are a bit of a cross to her. As the repository of all family confidences, she was told, for instance, by Miz Alice to save budget to pay for Mistah Harry's Christmas present and then, a few ten dollars out of the family food moments later, requested by Mistah Harry to save ten dollars out of the same budget for Miz Alice's Christmas present.

That's the sort of crisis you get in Beulah, intimate, domestic, human, credible and consequently totally unsuited for the housewives in daytime programming. (A housewife confronted with a dramatic problem involving what to have for dinner instead of a routine poisoning might be emotionally upset for weeks.)

Most of Beulah's humor is harmless and reasonably engaging. "In college I spent four years with Sigmund Freud," somebody told her not long ago. "Your roommate?" asked Beulah innocently. Sometimes the gags are so weighty and worked over they sound a little like an address by Senator Robert A. Taft: "All I know is that if I don't make up my mind in the middle soon, (about Christmas presents) I'll deliver my presents in the middle of an Easter egg hunt"—is one I have been trying to break up into small units and not succeeding ever since I heard it.

Besides the Hendersons, Beulah is beset by a boy friend, Bill, a swaggering hedonist, who is a compilation of all the worthless but lovable Negroes of fiction. "I'll come back later and watch you do the dishes.") I have nothing against him except that he laughs a little too uproariously at his own jokes.

These fifteen-minute shows are fairly complete in each episode while allowing further elaboration the next day—again something like the comic strips. C. B. S. now has two and a half solid hours of fifteen-minute shows lined up from 5:30 p. m. E.S.T. to 8 p. m. All of it is pretty good listening except that a solid hour is news, much of which is the same news.

Right after Beulah comes Jack Smith, a very hearty singer who appears to be laughing at himself all the time. He'll remind you strongly of all the musical comedy singers you ever saw particularly if you havn't seen a musical comedy for some time. I thought the type had vanished years ago. The announcer on both the Beulah and the Jack Smith shows are also laughing boys whose vigorous mirth at the opening and closing of each show may leave you rather seriously depressed.

Bowl Football To Occupy Must Time On All Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Preliminaries to the New Year's day bowl football are getting network space on Tuesday.

On NBC at 4 p. m. in place of a couple of serials, cancelled for this occasion, there will be annual kickoff luncheon of the Rose bowl game at Pasadena. At night, also NBC, Bob Hope at 10 is to have as his guest the queen of the Tournament of Roses, who is Virginia Goodhue.

ABC will continue its pre-Sugar bowl events from New Orleans by putting on the second half of the basketball game between Holy Cross and North Carolina state. The time is 11:15.

MBS at 10:30 for half-hour is to combine previews of the two bowls it will carry, the Cotton and East-West, on New Years.

A year-end documentary, "Among Ourselves," is to find space on CBS at 10:30 in place of the regular Open Hearing. Purpose of the script is to "reveal how racial and minority tensions were successfully resolved in 1947."

Studio One of CBS at 9:30 is to have Joan Blondell. The reason is the play will be "So Big." This item had been announced for a previous broadcast, but that network announcement was wrong.

American Forum of MBS at 10 is to take a look at next year. It will do so by talking about "The Housing Outlook in 1948." . . . America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 will be at Saranac Lake, N. Y., also to think ahead. Question is "Which Road to Peace In 1948?"

The Boston Symphony will provide its usual weekly hour on ABC at 9:30.

Rev. John Cameron, Taylor, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, announces that the church recently began its 90th year of service to the community.

The history of the church dates back to its organization on December 11, 1858, by Rev. John Phillips and a commission of Winchester Presbytery. During the previous summer, services had been held in the hall of the Independent Order of Red Men and it was found that a large number of Scotch Presbyterians desired the organization of a church.

Rev. Taylor is the 18th regularly installed minister of the church. One of the former pastors, Rev. Harry S. Ecker, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Diana T. Colburn and Mrs. James T. Taylor, Sr., is now celebrating his fiftieth year in the ministry at his church near Gettysburg, Pa.

Today, the First Presbyterian Church is contributing to the educational, moral, and spiritual life of the community through many channels, including the Church School, Westminister Fellowship, the Senior and Chapel choirs, Women's Bible Class, Men's Bible Class, Women's Missionary Society, Deborah Society, Sunergoi Society, Young Adult Group, and the three Church Boards, the Elders, Trustees, and Deacons.

Jo Anne Kessel, Carl Welch Wed In Keyser Church

Ceremony Performed Friday Evening

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Evangelical United Brethern Church, South Mineral Street, was the scene of a wedding Friday evening at 6 o'clock, when Miss JoAnn Kessel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Kessel, 268 St. Cloud Street, Keyser, became the bride of Carl Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Welch, Sr., Markwood. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. L. G. Bridgers.

The bride chose for her wedding a pink street length dress, blue hat, black accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Roy Bean, Keyser, was her only attendant. She was attired in an aqua dress, black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Joe Bill Kessel, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Evelyn Shinn sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me". She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Robert Coffman, who also played the traditional wedding march.

Ushers were Richard Ravenscroft and Joseph Thompson, both of Keyser.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Kessel were hosts at a reception for the bridal party, friends and relatives. Those assisting in the serving and greeting guests were Mrs. Evelyn Shinn, Mrs. Roy Leatherman and Mrs. Herman Davis.

The dining table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Following a short wedding trip the young couple will reside with the bride's parents. Mr. Welch is an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Keyser.

Keyser Woman Waives Hearing

Miss Pauline Rawlings, Keyser, who was released on $500 bond on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, waived a hearing which was scheduled before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Monday afternoon. Miss Rawlings is being held on a $500 bond for the January Term of Circuit Court.

Miss Rawlings was arrested with John C. Weese, 54, owner of the City Cab Company, by City Police after the car in which they were riding backed into a parked truck and got stuck in a ditch early last Monday morning.

After searching Miss Rawlings' purse at the jail the police found a loaded .32 revolver.

Weese was fined $10 on a drunk charge and $50 on a reckless driving charge at a hearing before City Clerk A. A. Jordan last Thursday.

Assault Case Heard

Raymond Brooks, 20, Keyser, who was arrested Saturday night, on a charge of asaulting his father, James Brooks, was found not guilty at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Monday afternoon.

According to Miss Bazzle, the assault grew out of an argument between the elder Brooks and his wife. When Mr. Brooks threatened his wife the son stepped in.

Accident Investigated

No charges have been preferred, pending a hearing, following a three-car accident on Route 220 a short distance from Keyser about 1 p. m. yesterday, according to State Troopers Frank Bowley and R. R. Karrickhoff, who investigated.

A two-ton truck crashed into a car as a result of another car's stopping on the highway. The car driven by Alston E. Hunt, Fort Ashby, was in the lead of the three cars when he stopped very suddenly. The second, driven by Raymond Michales, Keyser, stopped when the first car did but the loaded truck, driven by Blair S. Ray, Burlington, failed to stop, thereby crashing into the rear of the second car. Damage is estimated at $50. Hunt was placed in jail, but a hearing has not been scheduled for him.

In six months, the R.A.F. crews pieced together evidence that unfolds the final story of some 2,000 lost fliers. About 9,000 R.A.F. men reported missing in Europe during the war remain untraced.

Altogether about 11,000 allied airmen who lost their lives over the European battleground have been traced by the search units.

Some 12,000 fliers are estimated to have been lost at sea, and positive evidence of their fate now seems unlikely.

Jo Anne Kessel, Carl Welch Wed In Keyser Church

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Evangelical United Brethern Church, South Mineral Street, was the scene of a wedding Friday evening at 6 o'clock, when Miss JoAnn Kessel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Kessel, 268 St. Cloud Street, Keyser, became the bride of Carl Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Welch, Sr., Markwood. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. L. G. Bridgers.

The bride chose for her wedding a pink street length dress, blue hat, black accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Roy Bean, Keyser, was her only attendant. She was attired in an aqua dress, black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Joe Bill Kessel, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Evelyn Shinn sang "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me". She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Robert Coffman, who also played the traditional wedding march.

Ushers were Richard Ravenscroft and Joseph Thompson, both of Keyser.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Kessel were hosts at a reception for the bridal party, friends and relatives. Those assisting in the serving and greeting guests were Mrs. Evelyn Shinn, Mrs. Roy Leatherman and Mrs. Herman Davis.

The dining table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Miss Rawlings was arrested with John C. Weese, 54, owner of the City Cab Company, by City Police after the car in which they were riding backed into a parked truck and got stuck in a ditch early last Monday morning.

No charges have been preferred, pending a hearing, following a three-car accident on Route 220 a short distance from Keyser about 1 p. m. yesterday, according to State Troopers Frank Bowley and R. R. Karrickhoff, who investigated.

The second, driven by Raymond Michales, Keyser, stopped when the first car did but the loaded truck, driven by Blair S. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Wife and Mother, Annie W. Jenkins, who passed away one year ago today, December 31, 1946.

Before our eyes we saw her fade,
Growing weaker day by day,
Patiently bearing and suffering
Until God took her away.
To see her slowly leave us,
As helplessly we stood by,
And drained the cup of bitter grief,
The day we saw her die.
The dear one to us is gone,
That voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our hearts
Which never can be filled.

Sadly missed by: HUSBAND and DAUGHTERS and GRANDCHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many relatives and friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement. Their kind deeds and expressions of sympathy did much to help us through our time of trouble.
WALTER D. PLUMMER and FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Wife and Mother, Annie W. Jenkins, who passed away one year ago today, December 31, 1946.

Before our eyes we saw her fade,
Growing weaker day by day,
Patiently bearing and suffering
Until God took her away.
To see her slowly leave us,
As helplessly we stood by,
And drained the cup of bitter grief,
The day we saw her die.
The dear one to us is gone,
That voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our hearts
Which never can be filled.

Sadly missed by: HUSBAND and DAUGHTERS and GRANDCHILDREN.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many relatives and friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement. Their kind deeds and expressions of sympathy did much to help us through our time of trouble.
WALTER D. PLUMMER and FAMILY.

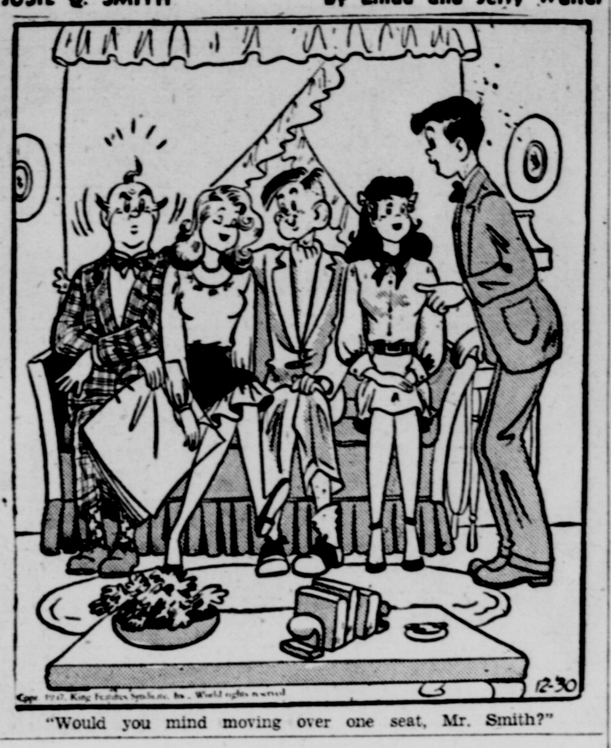
SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter



"Would you mind moving over one seat, Mr. Smith?"

Attempts To Get Stock Market Back On Recovery Side Fail In Most Cases

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Attempts to get the stock market back on the recovery track failed in the majority of cases today although assorted favorites put up a fair show of resistance.

Mild support arrived in the final hour and extreme losses running to a point or more were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,190,000 shares compared with 930,000 Friday.

Texas Gulf Producing touched a high for 1947 and ended up 1¼ at 23⅛. Warren Petroleum added one at 51½ as stockholders approved a splitup proposal. Improved were Firestone Tire, Sears Roebuck, Deere, Schenley, Distillers Corporation, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Sinclair Oil and Eastern Air Lines.

Declines of a point or better were shown for Santa Fe at 93, Atlantic Coast Line 48, Goodrich 55, J. I. Case 45¼, Douglas Aircraft 47¼, Youngstown Sheet 78, American Tobacco "B" 67 and Mission Corporation 51¼. American Can hit a low for the year and emerged off 1¾ at 75¾.

Lesser recessions were recorded for United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, International Harvester, Boeing, United Aircraft, Western Union, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, J. C. Penney, Philip Morris, American Woolen, Twentieth Century-Fox, Paramount Pictures, United Air Lines, Texas Company, Gulf Oil, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Holding advances in the Curb were American Republics, Air-Way Electric (on a lifted dividend), Brown-Forman Distillers, New Jersey Zinc, Singer Manufacturer, Winnipeg Electric and Consolidated Steel. In arrears were City Auto Stamping, Creole Petroleum, Le Tourneau, Catalin, Electric Bond and Share, Northern States Power "A" and International Petroleum. Turnover here was 340,000 shares versus 250,000 in the previous full session.

Fresh declines in today's bond market of fractions to more than a point for numerous active issues carried the rails, industrials and utilities to new lows for recent years.

Sales totaled $5,640,000 compared with $4,760,000 last Friday.

Medium term United States governments were on the offering side again as the market resumed activity after last week's slide in these obligations brought on by a lowered support price initiated by the Federal Reserve Board. Losses ranged from 2-32 to more than half a point. The Treasury 2½s of December, 1967-72, held unchanged at a bid of 100 8-32.

Three Local Youths Face FBI Theft Count

Three local youths, and a 16-year-old Uniontown, Pa., girl were still being held in Allegany County Jail last night pending action by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, after they were arrested Sunday on charges of transporting a stolen car across a state line.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, Maryland State Police, who made the arrest, said the youths will probably be turned over to the FBI today. The quartet was arrested Sunday night after Trooper Barton noticed them riding in the stolen car on Greene Street.

Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya said he questioned the three youths and the Uniontown girl and learned that on December 24 the youths, Harry W. Likens, 20, Gay Street; Harry Jackson, 21, Necessity Street and Juner Rader, 22, near Oldtown, allegedly stole a car owned by Ralph G. Shipley, Baltimore Pike, and went to Uniontown to see Ella Mae Franklin.

They were arrested on charges of stealing a car owned by Charles Kenney, Ridgeley, W. Va. Police said the girl apparently is not involved in the theft charges.

Bechtel Death Termed Suicide

A verdict of suicide was issued yesterday in the death of Albert Frank Bechtel, 62, who was found dead yesterday morning in his apartment-home, rear of 839 Shriver Avenue, from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, gave the suicide verdict and said the man was apparently dead for several hours before his body was discovered by Paul Lee Goldsworthy, owner of the property.

Bechtel, an itinerant worker, lived alone in the small building, according to police, who said he had been in ill health during recent months.

Police said Bechtel removed one shoe and sock and used his toe to press the trigger of the .22 caliber rifle. The slug, they said, struck him between the eyes and lodged in his head.

The victim had lived at the Shriver Avenue address for about 10 years, according to police, who said little is known about his past or if there are surviving relatives.

The body was taken to the Wolford Funeral Home where services will be held in the chapel Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. with interment in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, Sgt. Frank A. Shober and Cpl. Harry Holsinger, acting county investigator, conducted the investigation.

12 Forfeit Bonds, Two More Fined

Twelve drivers forfeited bonds yesterday when they failed to appear in Trial Magistrates Court to answer charges of violating state motor laws and two others paid fines.

Calvin S. Karns, 117 Offutt Street, charged with reckless driving, was fined $10.75 for reckless driving. He was arrested yesterday by Officer W. J. McGraw after his machine struck a fence on Wineow Street.

William B. Jackson, Crystal Springs, Pa., forfeited $3.45 bond for exceeding the speed limit in a 25-mile an hour zone on Route 220. Trooper William McElfish made the arrest.

John Yarnall, 401 Springdale Street, was fined $5.45 for exceeding the speed limit in a 30-mile an hour zone on Route 40.

Robert A. Shipley, of Artemas, Pa., forfeited $6.45 bond for driving without a license.

Arthur Irvin, 220 East Main Street, Frostburg, forfeited $6.45 bond for exceeding the speed limit in a 30-mile an hour zone on Route 40.

Dalton E. Leatherman, 713 Leiper Street, forfeited $6.45 bond on a charge of failing to stop at a boulevard sign.

Claude Jack Groves, Ridgeley, forfeited $3.45 bond on a charge of failing to stop at a boulevard sign.

Continued Use Of Bus Terminal Permitted

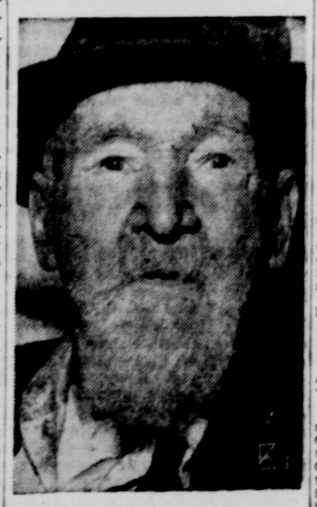
The Police Department has made arrangements to permit the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and other bus lines to continue using terminal facilities on Frederick Street, despite the December 31 deadline set several months ago by the Mayor and Council, according to Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Blue Ridge is making arrangements to lease the Southern Hotel property for a terminal. The building is to be remodeled and work will take from 60 to 90 days.

Couple Forfeit Bond

A Bedford, Pa., couple arrested Saturday night in a local tavern following a disturbance, forfeited $10 bonds yesterday in Police Court.

Police identified them as Norman T. Timmins, and Evelyn Taylor. The woman was charged with interfering with an officer. The couple allegedly created a disturbance at Fisher and Robinette's tavern, Baltimore Avenue. They refused to leave when requested by the proprietors, according to police.



HOUSE MOVER AT 98—Lon Matheney, Seth, W. Va., recently observed his 98th birthday with his usual work-a-day routine—moving houses. Matheny makes a 25-mile bus ride to and from his job every day and declares, "I don't get tired very often." He has been engaged in house moving for the past 60 years in the Charleston area.

Romney Man Arrested On Sales Tax Charge

Charles Fellow, Romney, W. Va., coal dealer, posted $25 bond for a hearing on charges of violating the Maryland State sales tax law, after being arrested in Frederick last week.

Under orders of Walter Kennedy, chief of the Maryland State Retail Sales Tax Division, investigators have started cracking down on unlicensed coal deliveries from out-of-state into Western Maryland.

Fellow was charged with transporting coal into Maryland without having secured a state license and making provision to collect and pay the state retail tax.

Kennedy issued orders to his investigators to cease warning offenders and to immediately exercise police powers. Fellow was the first arrest of a coal-dealer by tax enforcement officers, according to Beard.

SUSIE Q. SMITH — By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Would you mind moving over one seat, Mr. Smith?"

Attempts To Get Stock Market Back On Recovery Side Fail In Most Cases

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Attempts to get the stock market back on the recovery track failed in the majority of cases today although assorted favorites put up a fair show of resistance.

Mild support arrived in the final hour and extreme losses running to a point or more were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,190,000 shares compared with 930,000 Friday.

Texas Gulf Producing touched a high for 1947 and ended up 1¾ at 23¼. Warren Petroleum added one at 51½ as stockholders approved a splitup proposal. Improved were Firestone Tire, Sears Roebuck, Deere, Schenley, Distillers Corporation, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Sinclair Oil and Eastern Air Lines.

Declines of a point or better were shown for Santa Fe at 93, Atlantic Coast Line 48, Goodrich 55, J. I. Case 45¼, Douglas Aircraft 47¼, Youngstown Sheet 78, American Tobacco "B" 67 and Mission Corporation 51¼. American Can hit a low for the year and emerged off 1¾ at 75¾.

Lesser recessions were recorded for United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, International Harvester, Boeing, United Aircraft, Western Union, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, J. C. Penney, Philip Morris, American Woolen, Twentieth Century-Fox, Paramount Pictures, United Air Lines, Texas Company, Gulf Oil, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Holding advances in the Curb were American Republics, Air-Way Electric (on a lifted dividend), Brown-Forman Distillers, New Jersey Zinc, Singer Manufacturer, Winnipeg Electric and Consolidated Steel. In arrears were City Auto Stamping, Creole Petroleum, Le Tourneau, Catalin, Electric Bond and Share, Northern States Power "A" and International Petroleum. Turnover here was 340,000 shares versus 250,000 in the previous full session.

Fresh declines in today's bond market of fractions to more than a point for numerous active issues carried the rails, industrials and utilities to new lows for recent years.

Sales totaled $5,640,000 compared with $4,760,000 last Friday.

Medium term United States governments were on the offering side again as the market resumed activity after last week's slide in these obligations brought on by a lowered support price initiated by the Federal Reserve Board. Losses ranged from 2-32 to more than half a point. The Treasury 2½s of December, 1967-72, held unchanged at a bid of 100 8-32.

Three Local Youths Face FBI Theft Count

Three local youths, and a 16-year-old Uniontown, Pa., girl were still being held in Allegany County Jail last night pending action by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, after they were arrested Sunday on charges of transporting a stolen car across a state line.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, Maryland State Police, who made the arrest, said the youths will probably be turned over to the FBI today. The quartet was arrested Sunday night after Trooper Barton noticed them riding in the stolen car on Greene Street.

Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya said he questioned the three youths and the Uniontown girl and learned that on December 24 the youths, Harry W. Likens, 20, Gay Street; Harry Jackson, 21, Necessity Street and Juner Rader, 22, near Oldtown, allegedly stole a car owned by Ralph G. Shipley, Baltimore Pike, and went to Uniontown to see Ella Mae Franklin.

They were arrested on charges of stealing a car owned by Charles Kenney, Ridgeley, W. Va. Police said the girl apparently is not involved in the theft charges.

Bechtel Death Termed Suicide

A verdict of suicide was issued yesterday in the death of Albert Frank Bechtel, 62, who was found dead yesterday morning in his apartment-home, rear of 839 Shriver Avenue, from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, gave the suicide verdict and said the man was apparently dead for several hours before his body was discovered by Paul Lee Goldsworthy, owner of the property.

Bechtel, an itinerant worker, lived alone in the small building, according to police, who said he had been in ill health during recent months.

Police said Bechtel removed one shoe and sock and used his toe to press the trigger of the .22 caliber rifle. The slug, they said, struck him between the eyes and lodged in his head.

The victim had lived at the Shriver Avenue address for about 10 years, according to police, who said little is known about his past or if there are surviving relatives.

The body was taken to the Wolford Funeral Home where services will be held in the chapel Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. with interment in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, Sgt. Frank A. Shober and Cpl. Harry Holsinger, acting county investigator, conducted the investigation.

Continued Use Of Bus Terminal Permitted

The Police Department has made arrangements to permit the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and other bus lines to continue using terminal facilities on Frederick Street, despite the December 31 deadline set several months ago by the Mayor and Council, according to Commissioner William V. Keegan.

Blue Ridge is making arrangements to lease the Southern Hotel property for a terminal. The building is to be remodeled and work will take from 60 to 90 days.

Couple Forfeit Bond

A Bedford, Pa., couple arrested Saturday night in a local tavern following a disturbance, forfeited $10 bonds yesterday in Police Court.

Police identified them as Norman T. Timmins, and Evelyn Taylor. The woman was charged with interfering with an officer. The couple allegedly created a disturbance at Fisher and Robinette's tavern, Baltimore Avenue. They refused to leave when requested by the proprietors, according to police.

HOUSE MOVER AT 98—Lon Matheney, Seth, W. Va., recently observed his 98th birthday with his usual work-a-day routine—moving houses. Romney Man Arrested On Sales Tax Charge

Charles Fellow, Romney, W. Va., coal dealer, posted $25 bond for a hearing on charges of violating the Maryland State sales tax law, after being arrested in Frederick last week.

Under orders of Walter Kennedy, chief of the Maryland State Retail Sales Tax Division, investigators have started cracking down on unlicensed coal deliveries from out-of-state into Western Maryland.

Fellow was charged with transporting coal into Maryland without having secured a state license and making provision to collect and pay the state retail tax.

Kennedy issued orders to his investigators to cease warning offenders and to immediately exercise police powers. Fellow was the first arrest of a coal-dealer by tax enforcement officers, according to Beard.

Dan's Mountain Man Is Arrested In Shooting Fray

Hearing Scheduled For This Morning

Arrested yesterday morning at work after a fruitless three-to-four hour search over Dan's Mountain Sunday night, Benjamin Gordon, Jr., about 33, Dan's Mountain, near Rawlings, will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court today on a charge of assaulting his father and brother with a deadly weapon.

State Police Corp. Harry Holsinger, acting county investigator, said Gordon was drinking Sunday night when he suddenly grabbed a shotgun and chased his father, Benjamin, Sr., and his brother, Ernest, from the house about 7 o'clock.

As the father and brother fled, Benjamin, Jr., fired four "pumkin ball" shots at them with the shotgun and then himself fled from the house, police said.

Ernest walked to Rawlings, about four miles east of the house, and called State Police and Cpl. Holsinger and Cpl. Thomas E. Veditz answered the call.

Arriving at the Gordon home, the officers began their three-to-four hour search over the rough mountain terrain but returned to their barracks when the search was unsuccessful.

Yesterday morning, however, Cpl. Holsinger and Trooper Milton G. Hart arrested Gordon at work as a laborer at the site of the new telephone company building.

Gordon, described by police as an old offender, was taken to the county jail to await a hearing this morning in Trial Magistrates Court. Two warrants were issued against him, police reported.

Remarkable Change Is Noticed In McCauley During Christmas Season

Comes "Out Of Shell" And Answers Questions

ACCEPTS CALL HERE—Rev. Norman H. Maring, Andrews, S. C., will arrive here soon to begin his duties as pastor of First Baptist Church Bedford Street, January 11. Rev. Maring, who is 33, is a native of Chester, Pa., and was pastor of Berwyn, Md., Baptist Church from 1941 to 1945. For the past two years he has been pastor of the Andrews, S. C., Baptist Church. Rev. Maring will succeed Rev. Edwin W. Saylor, who resigned early in the fall to become pastor of Hereford Baptist Church, Baltimore County.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Christmas season brought a "remarkable" change in the attitude and activities of Mark McCauley, 36-year-old Davis strip miner whose sentence to be hanged December 10 was delayed until January 30 because of his mental condition.

"He has come out of his shell," Warden Orel J. Sheen related.

McCauley was sentenced to be hanged for murder in the slaying of State Police Sgt. Joseph P. Horne, who with Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter of Tucked County was killed as they attempted to arrest McCauley on an auto theft charge.

Basing his action on reports from two psychiatrists that McCauley was not aware of the crime for which he was to die, Governor Meadows on December 9 granted a reprieve until January 30 to give time for further study of his sanity.

The change in McCauley, who had refused for months to talk with prison guards, fellow prisoners or even visiting members of his family, first was noticed a few days before Christmas when he received a second visit from the psychiatrists, Skeen related.

He talked with both Dr. J. L. Knapp of Weston State Hospital and Dr. E. F. Reaser of Huntington State Hospital "and has been talking since," the Warden said. His conversation and his answers to questions appear normal, the Warden said, but he declined to express any opinion concerning the man's sanity.

He said McCauley obtained and mailed Christmas cards to friends. From packages he had received and from Christmas items given to all inmates, he also prepared a box for mailing to his son.

A radio has been placed in the man's cell in "murderer's row," and he spends much time listening to it, and reading newspapers and the bible.

McCauley also is aware that his life has been extended, and has expressed gratitude for the governor's action, Skeen said.

With him in murderer's row is Paul Burton, Logan county man scheduled to be hanged January 2 for the murder of Willard Simpson after an argument at the mouth of the mine where both were employed.

Skeen said Burton is "bearing up remarkably well" in the face of his scheduled execution. He probably will be moved to death house Wednesday morning, the Warden added.

Home Building In City Shows Sharp Increase In 1947

114 Permits Issued; Cost Is $484,300

Construction of new homes in Cumberland this year was double that of 1946, according to the annual report on building permits released yesterday by the city engineer's office.

Permits were issued for 114 new residences estimated to cost $484,300, as compared to only 54 such permits issued last year, with an estimated cost of $200,375.

Those figures are included in the overall total of 191 permits issued in 1947 for all types of new construction, amounting to $867,890. The corresponding figure for 1946 was 117 permits totaling $343,348.

During December of this year, the 11 building permits granted included four for new homes estimated to cost $18,000, and two for new service stations to cost $11,000. Last December there were no applications for permits to build new homes. In that month the total estimated cost of new construction of other types was $10,400, while in December this year new construction totaled $29,000.

Permits granted for remodeling and improvements showed a slight decrease this year, with 133 permits totaling $130,115 as compared to 152 such permits in 1946 for an estimated cost of $257,045.

The number of applications for occupancy permits was considerably less this year, with 111 as compared to 158 in 1946. Of the 111 applications, 74 were granted by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and the remaining 37 were referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals. The board granted 29 and refused five. The remaining three were withdrawn.

Of the 1946 total of 158 applications, 120 were granted by Rizer and 38 were referred. The zoning board granted 27 and refused six. Four applications were withdrawn and the remaining one was dismissed.

Allegany County To Get $62,479 From Race Funds

Corporate Towns Will Share In Distribution

Allegany county will receive $62,479 from revenue paid by race track bettors, acording to James J. Lacy, state comptroller yesterday. The money now being distributed covers the six-months period ending December 31.

The total distribution to Baltimore City and all counties amounts to $1,308,347, with Baltimore City receiving $617,161, the largest amount, and Calvert county, $7,531, the smallest amount.

Some of the other counties are as follows: Garrett, $15,790; Washington, $49,451; Frederick, $41,171; and Montgomery, $60,280.

Lacy called attention to the fact that under the law, each county must proportion its particular share to municipalities based upon a population basis. The corporate towns are required to levy a tax equal to their share for building or maintaining streets, sewerage, water systems or garbage collection and disposal. The law says the county commissioners must make the distribution with the best population figures available, "in the opinion of the county commissioners."

Outside of Baltimore City, only two counties received more of the fund than Allegany. They are Baltimore county, $111,941; and Prince George's county, $64,287.

CAA Officials To Meet Friday With Mayor, Council

Leasing Of Airport Is Again Deferred

Arrangements have been made for two Civil Aeronautics Administration officials to confer with the Mayor and Council on Friday at 10 a. m. regarding future operations at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

John E. Cowles, Baltimore, acting district airport engineer, informed the mayor that he and E. J. Donahue, Washington, chief of the airport management section of the CAA, would attend the conference.

Meanwhile, for the second straight week the Mayor and Council yesterday postponed acting on the recommendation of the Municipal Airport Commission that the airport be leased to the Jenkins-DelaGrange Corporation for a period of two years starting January 1.

Commissioner William J. Edwards suggested that action be postponed pending a conference with the CAA men.

Cowles and Donahue attended last Monday's council meeting to present data on city management of airports as compared with leasing.

Consideration Urged

Commissioner William V. Keegan said the city has an airport in excess of its current needs and asserted the field is a valuable property. He said the council should give the problem serious consideration before taking action. Mayor Post agreed with this viewpoint.

T. Donald Shires, airport commission secretary, explained the council would have to make temporary arrangements to guard and keep the port operating starting January 1, as the lease with Cumberland Airways, Inc., the present operator, expires tomorrow. City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett said steps should be taken to continue building insurance.

The request of William L. Wilson, Jr., that 1946 personal property taxes on the Star Restaurant, 31 Baltimore Street, be abated, was refused unanimously. Light said the firm was in business in 1946 and that other establishments would be entitled to the same consideration.

Shepherd Appointed

Rowland J. Shepherd, 529 Cumberland Street, a salesman, was named a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals effective Thursday. He succeeds Chairman William M. Weatherholt, who recently resigned.

George E. Baughman was ordered refunded $9 for overpayment of water rent at 523-525 Henderson Avenue. Abe Feldstein was refunded $13.50 for overpayments at 178 North Centre Street and 330 Avirett Avenue.

An approved order authorized the closing of city departments from noon Wednesday until Friday morning for observance of New Year Day.

Union And Emery Lines Meet Today

Representatives of drivers and maintenance men of the Emery Motor Coach Lines will meet with R. L. Emery, president of the company, in a move to reach an agreement before the midnight December 31 contract deadline.

Emery has offered extension of the present contract for four months without a pay increase, but the union members, who are affiliated with Local 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, have rejected the proposal and demand a 22-cent hourly wage hike. They now are receiving 98 cents an hour.

In the meantime, the union membership has authorized the negotiating committee to call a strike when and if it sees fit.

Council Names Thomas B. Finan City Solicitor

Will Assume New Duties Thursday

Thomas B. Finan yesterday was appointed city attorney to serve the unexpired term of Charles Z. Heskett, who resigned, effective tomorrow.

Finan was appointed by a three to two vote of the Mayor and Council, getting support from Commissioners William V. Keegan, who nominated him, William J. Edwards and Clifton E. Fuller.

Commissioner Myers G. Light nominated Thomas Lohr Richards but no vote was taken on that nomination.

Finan becomes the first Democrat to hold the position since William C. Walsh resigned in 1921.

After Heskett's letter of resignation was read, Mayor Thomas S. Post said the vacancy should be filled promptly as the city needs legal advice almost daily.

Mayor Makes Appeal

"I asked at the start of my administration that I be allowed to name the city attorney, but this request was denied," the mayor said. "It is necessary for me to work closely with the attorney and I would like to have the privilege of naming the man.

"I feel as though I am in a straitjacket when I have to work with a man who others appointed,

Liquor License Appeal Cases Set For January 7

Full Bench To Hear Molinari And Ware

Hearings on license suspension appeals of two retail liquor dealers will be held in Circuit court January 7, at 10 a. m., according to an order signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

The cases involve the Cadillac Liquor Store, Inc., 26 Baltimore Street, which had its license suspended by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board for 60 days, and William Ware's service station and restaurant, Red Hill, Route 40, whose license was suspended for 90 days.

The Cadillac was charged with selling intoxicants after hours and Ware was charged with selling intoxicants to minors and permitting minors to loiter on premises where intoxicants are sold.

Officers of the Cadillac are Frank Molinari, Jr., Jane R. Molinari and Frank DeLuca, and are represented by D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter. Ware is represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Attorneys in the two cases have requested hearings in Court before a full bench and the hearings were postponed during December, because Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown was not available.

Molinari and Ware were both indicted by the October grand jury and in Court Molinari was fined $200 and Ware $300. Molinari had previously forfeited $200 bond in City Police Court on the same charge.

The cases have attracted considerable interest because they are the first license suspensions by the local liquor board. Under the law, the suspensions were to begin immediately, but both defendants filed appeals to Circuit Court, which automatically waived execution of the liquor board's order pending the outcome of the hearing on the appeals. Consequently both places have continued doing business as usual.

Coddington Seeks $10,000 Damages For Arm Injuries

State Trooper Files Circuit Court Suit

A suit by titling was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George E. Coddington Jr., individually and also for the use of the State of Maryland and the Department of Maryland State Police, against Floyd Whorton, Flintstone. The suit was docketed by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, Jr., attorneys for Coddington.

Finan said last night the action is the result of serious injuries suffered by the State Police Trooper last August when a hydralic jack dropped off the bed of a truck owned by Whorton, and struck Coddington on the arm. The mishap occurred when Coddington, driving east in the Flintstone area, passed Whorton's truck, driving in a westerly direction. The jack, which was lying on the open bed of the truck, fell and struck Trooper Coddington on the arm and elbow. The Trooper had his arm out of the window of his car at the time.

Finan said damages of $10,000 will be asked when the declaration in the case is filed.

In another damage suit, filed by D. Lindley Sloan, attorney for Lydia Beverlin, $5,000 is asked from Raymond Klosterman. The suit alleges that the woman was a passenger in an Astor Cab, and Klosterman's car crashed into the rear of the cab, throwing the plaintiff to the floor and injuring her. The mishap occurred July 30, the bill states.

Two equity suits were filed as follows: Dorothy Louise Robinette vs Linwood L. Robinette; and Mary E. Daulbaugh, vs Earle Daulbaugh.

The four guests who will appear on the initial program are Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross; Charles L. Permit Is Sought For Used Car Lot

W. J. Moore, 648 North Mechanic Street, filed an appeal yesterday with the Board of Zoning Appeals for a permit to use Lot 239, North Mechanic Street, for a used car lot.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer denied the application because the vacant lot is located in a Residential C zoning district.

A permit was granted to Dominico Indolfi, representing the City Cleaners and Dyers, 219 Virginia Avenue, to move a receiving shop from 1000 Oldtown Road to a room on the first floor of a two-story brick building at 1100 Oldtown Road. The premises, owned by John Twigg of the same address, were formerly occupied by a showroom.

Mrs. Hazel Smith, 1018 Virginia Avenue, secured a permit to build a one-story open porch of frame construction at 1115 Virginia Avenue. The addition will measure 6 by 12 feet, with a roof of composition shingles. Work will be done by Walter Nazelrod at an estimated cost of $110.

Wm. L. Sherman Is Retiring From Private Practice

Physician Orders Rest Due To Heart

William L. Sherman, 722 Washington Street, well known local Certified Public Accountant, has announced he is discontinuing his accounting practice as of December 31, upon orders of his physician.

Sherman, who has been a patient in Memorial Hospital since the day before Christmas, suffering from a serious heart condition, is reported improving, but his physicians have advised him to curtail his activities as much as possible, and to limit his work to not more than a couple of hours daily.

Over a period of time, Sherman has established a large practice and represents a number of firms and individual accounts, large and small. Mrs. Sherman said last night a letter is being prepared to send to all of Sherman's clients, explaining the situation and thanking them for their patronage and confidence throughout the years.

Sherman is to remain at the hospital for several days, and is not permitted to have visitors or take telephone calls, Mrs. Sherman explained. When he is released from the hospital, he will remain under the care of his physician and will rest for a long period.

Sherman came here about 28 years ago from Washington, and established his office in the old Clark Keating Building where he built up a large practice in general auditing and accounting. Later he purchased his present home on Washington Street and remodeled a portion of it so he could have his offices at his house and save time. He has a large modern accounting office there and employes a large staff of assistants.

In recent years he has become interested in various corporations and owns and operates several coal mining enterprises. Both he and Mrs. Sherman have long been active in civic and social life of the city and are generally well known.

Sherman's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, who makes her home with him, is also in Memorial Hospital with a heart condition. She is reported slightly improved, but her condition, due to her advanced age is regarded as serious.

Hope Still Held By Family For Lt. Sheetz

Members of the Keyser, W. Va. family of Lt. Frederick I. Sheetz, Jr., navigator of a B-29 which crashed the night of December 23, in Alaska, were informed last night that six of eight men aboard the plane have been rescued, but that Lt. Sheetz, and the pilot Lt. Vern H. Arnett are still missing.

It was learned that Lt. Sheetz and Lt. Arnett were uninjured in the crash, and on Christmas night, left the scene in an effort to reach Shishmaref, a settlement nearby.

Mrs. Harriet Fisher Sheetz, who lives at 135 South Main Street, Keyser, said she is happy to know that her young husband was not hurt or killed in the crash and that this latest report gives the family new hope that he is still alive. She said she is happy for the members of the families of the other men now safely returned to the Nome Air Base.

Resident Doctors To Be Employed At Memorial

Emergency Service Plan Is Proposed

Two resident physicians who can provide full time round-the-clock care for patients at Memorial Hospital, are to be added to the staff within the next 30 to 60 days according to Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent.

Officials of the hospital, the Board of Governors and the hospital staff, Wright explained, have been aware for some time of the need for full time medical care for both the "out patients" department and for "in patient" care, and to handle emergencies.

The two new physicians will work under supervision of the chiefs of service of the hospital, Wright explained, and the cost of the program is expected to be in the neighborhood of $12,000 annually.

Contacts have already been made with a number of doctors, and at least one is available in 30 days, Wright said. All the applicants considered are fully qualified physicians.

Future plan at the institution calls for the establishment of a teaching program at the institution in the next 12 or 18 months, and an interne plan can then be started. It is hoped to eventually have four internes on duty and in training.

The cost of the resident physician program has been one of the main obstacles in establishing it here, Wright said, and under the proposed plan service offered by the resident physicians will not be free. Fees for the services of the resident doctors will be set, charged and collected by the hospital.

In view of the fact that the institution is city-owned and city-financed, Wright said the management is aware of the hospital's obligation to the public to provide the best service possible. He said the action to establish a resident physician plan is taken to fill a need for improved service.

In recent months the hospital has provided patients with physicians in emergencies on hundreds of occasions and the demand for physicians is steadily increasing here, it is claimed.

It became imperative that some kind of emergency service be established some time ago, and members of the city council, Chamber of Commerce, Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society and labor groups have discussed the situation and urged action.

Wright also called attention to the fact that during the past year the hospital has added a fulltime pathologist and a fulltime radiologist to its staff. These services are considered unusual in a hospital and community of this size, he asserted.

State Police Seek Driver Of Truck Involved In Hit-Run Crash Near City

State Police last night were continuing their search for the operator of a little-identified truck that was involved in a collision last Friday night on Route 40 near the top of Martin's Mountain.

State Trooper William F. Baker, who is investigating, said the truck, headed west on Route 40, skidded against the side of the automobile driven by Alton Earl Reid, Washington, D. C., and failed to stop.

Reid was unable to reach a telephone in less than 15 minutes, and when State Police were notified began an immediate search for the truck, described only as a Ford.

Police said Reid told them the truck hit his machine so hard that the body was partly torn off the chassis.

While no one was injured, Reid's car was damaged to the extent of $200, Trooper Baker estimated.

At the request of State Trooper William McElfish, Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown last night withheld until Friday his decision in a case which Donald Robert Barkley, Wiley Ford, W. Va., is accused of drunken and reckless driving.

Barkley, arrested at 3:30 a. m. December 24, denied that he was the driver of the automobile involved and said another man was the driver, according to police.

Trooper McElfish said the car ran off Route 220 near the entrance to Fairgo, crashed through a hedge fence at the home of H. D. Smith and ruined some of the shrubbery.

Barkley was brought to the city jail and was released later in the day on bond of $112.90.

Held For Investigation

A man identified as John Milika, Uniontown, Pa., was being held in City Jail last night "for investigation," according to police who said he acted suspicious after spending Saturday night there as a "sleeper."

County Tuberculosis Association Urges Contributions To Campaign

Only about one-third of the 23,700 Christmas Seal letters sent to county residents have been returned, according to William J. Edwards, chairman of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association.

Edwards stated that prompt return of the letters, whether or not a contribution is made, is necessary so that records may be kept up to date.

Funds derived from sale of Christmas Seals are used to continue the county's tuberculosis program. The 1947 goal is higher than last year because the program is due for expansion, with the possibility of obtaining a full-time nurse for tuberculosis work, he explained.

Of the 23,700 letters mailed out in November, each containing a sheet of 100 Christmas Seals selling for $1, only about 8,000 have been returned to date.

Contributions are still accepted at association headquarters in City Hall.

Periodic reports on the progress of the county drive are made to the state association, which will not close its books on the 1947 campaign until next March.

Dan's Mountain Man Is Arrested In Shooting Fray

Hearing Scheduled For This Morning

Arrested yesterday morning at work after a fruitless three-to-four hour search over Dan's Mountain Sunday night, Benjamin Gordon, Jr., about 33, Dan's Mountain, near Rawlings, will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court today on a charge of assaulting his father and brother with a deadly weapon.

State Police Corp. Harry Holsinger, acting county investigator, said Gordon was drinking Sunday night when he suddenly grabbed a shotgun and chased his father, Benjamin, Sr., and his brother, Ernest, from the house about 7 o'clock.

As the father and brother fled, Benjamin, Jr., fired four "pumkin ball" shots at them with the shotgun and then himself fled from the house, police said.

Ernest walked to Rawlings, about four miles east of the house, and called State Police and Cpl. Holsinger and Cpl. Thomas E. Veditz answered the call.

Arriving at the Gordon home, the officers began their three-to-four hour search over the rough mountain terrain but returned to their barracks when the search was unsuccessful.

Yesterday morning, however, Cpl. Holsinger and Trooper Milton G. Hart arrested Gordon at work as a laborer at the site of the new telephone company building.

Gordon, described by police as an old offender, was taken to the county jail to await a hearing this morning in Trial Magistrates Court. Two warrants were issued against him, police reported.

Corporate Towns Will Share In Distribution

Allegany county will receive $62,479 from revenue paid by race track bettors, acording to James J. Lacy, state comptroller yesterday. The money now being distributed covers the six-months period ending December 31.

The total distribution to Baltimore City and all counties amounts to $1,308,347, with Baltimore City receiving $617,161, the largest amount, and Calvert county, $7,531, the smallest amount.

Some of the other counties are as follows: Garrett, $15,790; Washington, $49,451; Frederick, $41,171; and Montgomery, $60,280.

Lacy called attention to the fact that under the law, each county must proportion its particular share to municipalities based upon a population basis. The corporate towns are required to levy a tax equal to their share for building or maintaining streets, sewerage, water systems or garbage collection and disposal. The law says the county commissioners must make the distribution with the best population figures available, "in the opinion of the county commissioners."

Outside of Baltimore City, only two counties received more of the fund than Allegany. They are Baltimore county, $111,941; and Prince George's county, $64,287.

Arrangements have been made for two Civil Aeronautics Administration officials to confer with the Mayor and Council on Friday at 10 a. m. regarding future operations at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

John E. Cowles, Baltimore, acting district airport engineer, informed the mayor that he and E. J. Donahue, Washington, chief of the airport management section of the CAA, would attend the conference.

Meanwhile, for the second straight week the Mayor and Council yesterday postponed acting on the recommendation of the Municipal Airport Commission that the airport be leased to the Jenkins-DelaGrange Corporation for a period of two years starting January 1.

Commissioner William J. Edwards suggested that action be postponed pending a conference with the CAA men.

Cowles and Donahue attended last Monday's council meeting to present data on city management of airports as compared with leasing.

Consideration Urged

Commissioner William V. Keegan said the city has an airport in excess of its current needs and asserted the field is a valuable property. He said the council should give the problem serious consideration before taking action. Mayor Post agreed with this viewpoint.

T. Donald Shires, airport commission secretary, explained the council would have to make temporary arrangements to guard and keep the port operating starting January 1, as the lease with Cumberland Airways, Inc., the present operator, expires tomorrow. City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett said steps should be taken to continue building insurance.

The request of William L. Wilson, Jr., that 1946 personal property taxes on the Star Restaurant, 31 Baltimore Street, be abated, was refused unanimously. Light said the firm was in business in 1946 and that other establishments would be entitled to the same consideration.

Rowland J. Shepherd, 529 Cumberland Street, a salesman, was named a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals effective Thursday. He succeeds Chairman William M. Weatherholt, who recently resigned.

An approved order authorized the closing of city departments from noon Wednesday until Friday morning for observance of New Year Day.

Union And Emery Lines Meet Today

Representatives of drivers and maintenance men of the Emery Motor Coach Lines will meet with R. L. Emery, president of the company, in a move to reach an agreement before the midnight December 31 contract deadline.

Emery has offered extension of the present contract for four months without a pay increase, but the union members, who are affiliated with Local 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, have rejected the proposal and demand a 22-cent hourly wage hike. They now are receiving 98 cents an hour.

In the meantime, the union membership has authorized the negotiating committee to call a strike when and if it sees fit.

Council Names Thomas B. Finan City Solicitor

Will Assume New Duties Thursday

Thomas B. Finan yesterday was appointed city attorney to serve the unexpired term of Charles Z. Heskett, who resigned, effective tomorrow.

Finan was appointed by a three to two vote of the Mayor and Council, getting support from Commissioners William V. Keegan, who nominated him, William J. Edwards and Clifton E. Fuller.

Commissioner Myers G. Light nominated Thomas Lohr Richards but no vote was taken on that nomination.

Finan becomes the first Democrat to hold the position since William C. Walsh resigned in 1921.

After Heskett's letter of resignation was read, Mayor Thomas S. Post said the vacancy should be filled promptly as the city needs legal advice almost daily.

Mayor Makes Appeal

"I asked at the start of my administration that I be allowed to name the city attorney, but this request was denied," the mayor said. "It is necessary for me to work closely with the attorney and I would like to have the privilege of naming the man.

"I feel as though I am in a straitjacket when I have to work with a man who others appointed.

Liquor License Appeal Cases Set For January 7

Full Bench To Hear Molinari And Ware

Hearings on license suspension appeals of two retail liquor dealers will be held in Circuit court January 7, at 10 a. m., according to an order signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

The cases involve the Cadillac Liquor Store, Inc., 26 Baltimore Street, which had its license suspended by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board for 60 days, and William Ware's service station and restaurant, Red Hill, Route 40, whose license was suspended for 90 days.

The Cadillac was charged with selling intoxicants after hours and Ware was charged with selling intoxicants to minors and permitting minors to loiter on premises where intoxicants are sold.

Officers of the Cadillac are Frank Molinari, Jr., Jane R. Molinari and Frank DeLuca, and are represented by D. Lindley Sloan and William A. Gunter. Ware is represented by Edward J. Ryan.

Attorneys in the two cases have requested hearings in Court before a full bench and the hearings were postponed during December, because Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown was not available.

Molinari and Ware were both indicted by the October grand jury and in Court Molinari was fined $200 and Ware $300. Molinari had previously forfeited $200 bond in City Police Court on the same charge.

The cases have attracted considerable interest because they are the first license suspensions by the local liquor board. Under the law, the suspensions were to begin immediately, but both defendants filed appeals to Circuit Court, which automatically waived execution of the liquor board's order pending the outcome of the hearing on the appeals. Consequently both places have continued doing business as usual.

Coddington Seeks $10,000 Damages For Arm Injuries

State Trooper Files Circuit Court Suit

A suit by titling was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George E. Coddington Jr., individually and also for the use of the State of Maryland and the Department of Maryland State Police, against Floyd Whorton, Flintstone. The suit was docketed by William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan, Jr., attorneys for Coddington.

Finan said last night the action is the result of serious injuries suffered by the State Police Trooper last August when a hydralic jack dropped off the bed of a truck owned by Whorton, and struck Coddington on the arm. The mishap occurred when Coddington, driving east in the Flintstone area, passed Whorton's truck, driving in a westerly direction. The jack, which was lying on the open bed of the truck, fell and struck Trooper Coddington on the arm and elbow. The Trooper had his arm out of the window of his car at the time.

Finan said damages of $10,000 will be asked when the declaration in the case is filed.

In another damage suit, filed by D. Lindley Sloan, attorney for Lydia Beverlin, $5,000 is asked from Raymond Klosterman. The suit alleges that the woman was a passenger in an Astor Cab, and Klosterman's car crashed into the rear of the cab, throwing the plaintiff to the floor and injuring her. The mishap occurred July 30, the bill states.

Two equity suits were filed as follows: Dorothy Louise Robinette vs Linwood L. Robinette; and Mary E. Daulbaugh, vs Earle Daulbaugh.

Remarkable Change Is Noticed In McCauley During Christmas Season

Comes "Out Of Shell" And Answers Questions

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Christmas season brought a "remarkable" change in the attitude and activities of Mark McCauley, 36-year-old Davis strip miner whose sentence to be hanged December 10 was delayed until January 30 because of his mental condition.

"He has come out of his shell," Warden Orel J. Sheen related.

McCauley was sentenced to be hanged for murder in the slaying of State Police Sgt. Joseph P. Horne, who with Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter of Tucked County was killed as they attempted to arrest McCauley on an auto theft charge.

Basing his action on reports from two psychiatrists that McCauley was not aware of the crime for which he was to die, Governor Meadows on December 9 granted a reprieve until January 30 to give time for further study of his sanity.

The change in McCauley, who had refused for months to talk with prison guards, fellow prisoners or even visiting members of his family, first was noticed a few days before Christmas when he received a second visit from the psychiatrists, Skeen related.

He talked with both Dr. J. L. Knapp of Weston State Hospital and Dr. E. F. Reaser of Huntington State Hospital "and has been talking since," the Warden said. His conversation and his answers to questions appear normal, the Warden said, but he declined to express any opinion concerning the man's sanity.

He said McCauley obtained and mailed Christmas cards to friends. From packages he had received and from Christmas items given to all inmates, he also prepared a box for mailing to his son.

A radio has been placed in the man's cell in "murderer's row," and he spends much time listening to it, and reading newspapers and the bible.

McCauley also is aware that his life has been extended, and has expressed gratitude for the governor's action, Skeen said.

With him in murderer's row is Paul Burton, Logan county man scheduled to be hanged January 2 for the murder of Willard Simpson after an argument at the mouth of the mine where both were employed.

Skeen said Burton is "bearing up remarkably well" in the face of his scheduled execution. He probably will be moved to death house Wednesday morning, the Warden added.

Permit Is Sought For Used Car Lot

W. J. Moore, 648 North Mechanic Street, filed an appeal yesterday with the Board of Zoning Appeals for a permit to use Lot 239, North Mechanic Street, for a used car lot.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer denied the application because the vacant lot is located in a Residential C zoning district.

A permit was granted to Dominico Indolfi, representing the City Cleaners and Dyers, 219 Virginia Avenue, to move a receiving shop from 1000 Oldtown Road to a room on the first floor of a two-story brick building at 1100 Oldtown Road. The premises, owned by John Twigg of the same address, were formerly occupied by a showroom.

Mrs. Hazel Smith, 1018 Virginia Avenue, secured a permit to build a one-story open porch of frame construction at 1115 Virginia Avenue. The addition will measure 6 by 12 feet, with a roof of composition shingles. Work will be done by Walter Nazelrod at an estimated cost of $110.

A permit was granted to Mrs. J. P. Barry to build an open porch of frame construction at 9 Ridgeway Terrace. The second-floor addition will measure 5½ by 12 feet, with composition slate surface roofing. Work will be done by L. A. Runion and cost is estimated at $350.

Wm. L. Sherman Is Retiring From Private Practice

Physician Orders Rest Due To Heart

William L. Sherman, 722 Washington Street, well known local Certified Public Accountant, has announced he is discontinuing his accounting practice as of December 31, upon orders of his physician.

Sherman, who has been a patient in Memorial Hospital since the day before Christmas, suffering from a serious heart condition, is reported improving, but his physicians have advised him to curtail his activities as much as possible, and to limit his work to not more than a couple of hours daily.

Over a period of time, Sherman has established a large practice and represents a number of firms and individual accounts, large and small. Mrs. Sherman said last night a letter is being prepared to send to all of Sherman's clients, explaining the situation and thanking them for their patronage and confidence throughout the years.

Sherman is to remain at the hospital for several days, and is not permitted to have visitors or take telephone calls, Mrs. Sherman explained. When he is released from the hospital, he will remain under the care of his physician and will rest for a long period.

Sherman came here about 28 years ago from Washington, and established his office in the old Clark Keating Building where he built up a large practice in general auditing and accounting. Later he purchased his present home on Washington Street and remodeled a portion of it so he could have his offices at his house and save time. He has a large modern accounting office there and employes a large staff of assistants.

In recent years he has become interested in various corporations and owns and operates several coal mining enterprises. Both he and Mrs. Sherman have long been active in civic and social life of the city and are generally well known.

Sherman's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, who makes her home with him, is also in Memorial Hospital with a heart condition. She is reported slightly improved, but her condition, due to her advanced age is regarded as serious.

Hope Still Held By Family For Lt. Sheetz

Members of the Keyser, W. Va. family of Lt. Frederick I. Sheetz, Jr., navigator of a B-29 which crashed the night of December 23, in Alaska, were informed last night that six of eight men aboard the plane have been rescued, but that Lt. Sheetz, and the pilot Lt. Vern H. Arnett are still missing.

It was learned that Lt. Sheetz and Lt. Arnett were uninjured in the crash, and on Christmas night, left the scene in an effort to reach Shishmaref, a settlement nearby.

Mrs. Harriet Fisher Sheetz, who lives at 135 South Main Street, Keyser, said she is happy to know that her young husband was not hurt or killed in the crash and that this latest report gives the family new hope that he is still alive. She said she is happy for the members of the families of the other men now safely returned to the Nome Air Base.

Home Building In City Shows Sharp Increase In 1947

114 Permits Issued; Cost Is $484,300

Construction of new homes in Cumberland this year was double that of 1946, according to the annual report on building permits released yesterday by the city engineer's office.

Permits were issued for 114 new residences estimated to cost $484,300, as compared to only 54 such permits issued last year, with an estimated cost of $200,375.

Those figures are included in the overall total of 191 permits issued in 1947 for all types of new construction, amounting to $867,890. The corresponding figure for 1946 was 117 permits totaling $343,348.

During December of this year, the 11 building permits granted included four for new homes estimated to cost $18,000, and two for new service stations to cost $11,000. Last December there were no applications for permits to build new homes. In that month the total estimated cost of new construction of other types was $10,400, while in December this year new construction totaled $29,000.

Permits granted for remodeling and improvements showed a slight decrease this year, with 133 permits totaling $130,115 as compared to 152 such permits in 1946 for an estimated cost of $257,045.

The number of applications for occupancy permits was considerably less this year, with 111 as compared to 158 in 1946. Of the 111 applications, 74 were granted by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and the remaining 37 were referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals. The board granted 29 and refused five. The remaining three were withdrawn.

Of the 1946 total of 158 applications, 120 were granted by Rizer and 38 were referred. The zoning board granted 27 and refused six. Four applications were withdrawn and the remaining one was dismissed.

Resident Doctors To Be Employed At Memorial

Emergency Service Plan Is Proposed

Two resident physicians who can provide full time round-the-clock care for patients at Memorial Hospital, are to be added to the staff within the next 30 to 60 days according to Benjamin W. Wright, superintendent.

Officials of the hospital, the Board of Governors and the hospital staff, Wright explained, have been aware for some time of the need for full time medical care for both the "out patients" department and for "in patient" care, and to handle emergencies.

The two new physicians will work under supervision of the chiefs of service of the hospital, Wright explained, and the cost of the program is expected to be in the neighborhood of $12,000 annually.

Contacts have already been made with a number of doctors, and at least one is available in 30 days, Wright said. All the applicants considered are fully qualified physicians.

Future plan at the institution calls for the establishment of a teaching program at the institution in the next 12 or 18 months, and an interne plan can then be started. It is hoped to eventually have four internes on duty and in training.

The cost of the resident physician program has been one of the main obstacles in establishing it here, Wright said, and under the proposed plan service offered by the resident physicians will not be free. Fees for the services of the resident doctors will be set, charged and collected by the hospital.

In view of the fact that the institution is city-owned and city-financed, Wright said the management is aware of the hospital's obligation to the public to provide the best service possible. He said the action to establish a resident physician plan is taken to fill a need for improved service.

In recent months the hospital has provided patients with physicians in emergencies on hundreds of occasions and the demand for physicians is steadily increasing here, it is claimed.

It became imperative that some kind of emergency service be established some time ago, and members of the city council, Chamber of Commerce, Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society and labor groups have discussed the situation and urged action.

Wright also called attention to the fact that during the past year the hospital has added a fulltime pathologist and a fulltime radiologist to its staff. These services are considered unusual in a hospital and community of this size, he asserted.

State Police Seek Driver Of Truck Involved In Hit-Run Crash Near City

State Police last night were continuing their search for the operator of a little-identified truck that was involved in a collision last Friday night on Route 40 near the top of Martin's Mountain.

State Trooper William F. Baker, who is investigating, said the truck, headed west on Route 40, skidded against the side of the automobile driven by Alton Earl Reid, Washington, D. C., and failed to stop.

Reid was unable to reach a telephone in less than 15 minutes, and when State Police were notified began an immediate search for the truck, described only as a Ford.

Police said Reid told them the truck hit his machine so hard that the body was partly torn off the chassis.

While no one was injured, Reid's car was damaged to the extent of $200, Trooper Baker estimated.

At the request of State Trooper William McElfish, Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown last night withheld until Friday his decision in a case which Donald Robert Barkley, Wiley Ford, W. Va., is accused of drunken and reckless driving.

Barkley, arrested at 3:30 a. m. December 24, denied that he was the driver of the automobile involved and said another man was the driver, according to police.

Trooper McElfish said the car ran off Route 220 near the entrance to Fairgo, crashed through a hedge fence at the home of H. D. Smith and ruined some of the shrubbery.

Barkley was brought to the city jail and was released later in the day on bond of $112.90.

County Tuberculosis Association Urges Contributions To Campaign

Only about one-third of the 23,700 Christmas Seal letters sent to county residents have been returned, according to William J. Edwards, chairman of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association.

Edwards stated that prompt return of the letters, whether or not a contribution is made, is necessary so that records may be kept up to date.

Funds derived from sale of Christmas Seals are used to continue the county's tuberculosis program. The 1947 goal is higher than last year because the program is due for expansion, with the possibility of obtaining a full-time nurse for tuberculosis work, he explained.

Of the 23,700 letters mailed out in November, each containing a sheet of 100 Christmas Seals selling for $1, only about 8,000 have been returned to date.

Contributions are still accepted at association headquarters in City Hall.

Periodic reports on the progress of the county drive are made to the state association, which will not close its books on the 1947 campaign until next March.
